THE SPIRIT OF THE NEW REBEL LION.

Our neighbor of the Guard publishes a letter from an unrepentant Virginia rebel, who aided in the attempt to sever the Union and destroy the government, in order to establish one whose corner-stone was based on slavery, and based on the principle that the laboring class are the "mud-sills of society." We are not at all surprised that a Jeff. Davis Virginia Democrat should defend the late rebellion and its awful consequences, but we certainly did not expect that a Pennsylvania Democratic journal would openly and unconditionally endorse the doctrines of an avowed rebel and disunionist, who, as lot as all true men did, with the fortunes of his own State and country," instead of fighting traitors and disunionists. If this is so, then those brave men who fought and died to preserve the Union and the best government en earth, lie in dishonored graves. The following is an extract of the letter, with the for U.S. Senator. introduction and endorsement of our neighbor:

"WE take the liberty of publishing the following extract from a private letter of the Hon. C. R. Har ris, a Senator from Virginia, in the late confederacy. We hope he will pardon us, as his views though briefly expressed, are so clear and harmonize so well within our own that we could not help giving them publicity. Senator Harris always deprecated secession, and when a delegate in 1801 to the Virginia convention, voted against secession. But when was came he cast his lot as all true men did, with the fortunes of his own State and country. We knew the Senator well in his boyhood days, and now ly eloquence as one of the bright lights South who revere Republican institutions and oppose those who seek to overturn them.

"Statuston, Va., Dec. 20, 1868. "C. A. REIMENSAUDER, Esq: -During a trip to the Virginia Springs, last summer and Fall, being absent four or five weeks, your valuable paper, the "Independent," (now the Guanu,) came to my of Sce. It was thrown aside with other mail matters, and I only found it last week. Better late than rever. I acknowledge its receipt and I am highly pleased with its tone and sprint. The battle is over and we are beaten for the time, but the great prin-repes of constitutional liberty, purchased by the blood of patricits and the wisdom of sager, will yet triumph. yet triumph.

. "If the slave States had been allowed to vote a they did once. (untraumelled by the disfranchise-ment acts and the enfranchiseing of the negroes) with the northern vote, Seymour would have been elected. So Grant holds his position by the power of the sword or "Vi et armies." It is a dynasty that µow rules the hour." C. R. H.

It will be seen that this beautiful patriot, like most of the rebels, thinks that although "the battle is over" and that they are "beaten for the time," the lost cause "will yet triumph." What that portion of the Demoeracy, who profess to be loyal and true to the Union, may think of such treasonable sentiments, among men of their own party, time will determine. But those thin-skinned Democrats, who took exceptions to our language, when we referred to rebel sympathisers in their party, will hardly think they were justified in censuring us, after such open avowals in favor of the rebel doctrines by Twitchell, recently convicted of the murder those who profess to speak for the party.

It is wonderful what bowels of compassion these journals have for the rebels and their savage brethern, while they exhibit none for the loyal soldier of the North.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 .- General Sherman telegraphs from St. Louis to Assistant Adjutant General Townsend the following despatch from General Sheridan :

By special messenger to Lawrence, Kansas, Jan. 15, 1869. IN THE FIELD, Fort Cobb, Indian Territory, Jan. 1, 1869. To Brevet Major General W. A. Nichols, A.

A. G. GENERAL : I have the honor to forward the following for the information of the Lieutenant General : The destruction of the Camanche village by Colonel Evans' command on Christmas Day gave the final blow to the backbone of the Indian rebellion. At midnight on Dec. 31, 1868, a delegation of the chief fighting men of the Cheyennes and Arrapahoes, twenty-one in number, arrived here on foot, their animals not being able to carry them on. They said they ruled the village, and begged for peace and for permission for their people to come in, and asked no terms, but only for a paper to protect them from the operations of our troops while en route. They report the tribes in mourning for their losses. Their people are starving, having eaten up all their dogs, and finding no buffalo. We had forced them into the canons on the eastern edge of the staked plains, where there was no small game or

It is also alleged that the band was friendly, No one would make such an assertion who had any regard for the truth. The young men of this band commenced the war. I can give their names. Some of Black Kettle's oung men were out depredating at Fort Dodge when the village was wiped out, Mules taken from trains, matter carried by our murdered couriers, photographs stolen from the scene of outrages on the Solomon and Saline rivers, were found in the captured camp. In addition I have their own illustrated history, found in their captured camps, showing the different fights or murders in which this tribe was engaged. I wanted Black Kettle and his family to come in, through the Arraphoe chief, Little Raven, in my interview with that chief at Fort Dodge, in September last, but they did not come in. Yours respectfully, P. H. SHERIDAN, Major General.

GEN. SHERIDAN AND THE INDIANS. Gen. Sheridan, in a letter to General Sherman, detailing some of the operations of the war against the savages, handles rather severely the Indian Agents about the attack on Black Kettle's band. These agents asserted that this tracherous Chief and his followers were on their reservation when attacked and defeated. As soon as Sheridan received newspapers containing these reports he contradicted them flatly.

According to Gen. Sheridan the battle as was alleged, themselves commenced the war. Some of their "young men" were upon the war-path at the very time the village was wiped out. Mules taken from trains, matter captured from couriers, whom they had massacred, and other things identified as having been stolen from the whites, were considerable degree of mental excitement. discovered in their camp. Sheridan sarcastically offers to any one "desiring information on the subject" an inspection of the captured "illustrated history" of the tribe, exhibiting the fights in which it has been engaged, and the murders it had perpetrated, and winds up by saying that Black Kettle he refused to have anything to do with refused to come into Fort Dodge, when peaceably requested to do so, in September last.

Some of the robel papers are down on Sheridan for his recent punishment of the ludians, for their brutal murders and outrages on men, women and children. It has heretofore been withheld in the furtherance of public justice, until the last case in connection with the assassination had been disposed of.

The document does not make any very important disclosures. It was written by Atzerodt in the jail the night previous to his execution, and carries evidences of a It says that the original scheme was simply to abduct Mr. Lincoln, and only so far did his complicity extend. It was not until about three hours before the assassination that murder was broached as a part of the plan, and that when he was informed that Harrold and himself had been assigned to the part of killing Vice President Johnson shedding blood. Booth told him in the evening that Sur-
