the devices of the Roman Catholic nuns and priests of this city. It seems that a young lady, a Catholic and a member of an carnest Catholic family, became betrothed to a young man whose connection were with the Episcopal Church. She declared that, as his home was to be hers, and his heart hers, his fate should also be hers for the purpose of the wedding-she would be married where and as he desired. A violent commotion was the consequence. Her mother and brother entreated and threatened; the priests added their warning. 1 She stubbornly persisted. Her brother, who 1 had promised to give her an expensive 2 50 outfit, charged his mind and declared that the obstinate girl should not have a cent. Her lover thereupon gave her Protestant friends a blank check, to be so used by her that she should want nothing. At this juncture, more stringent measures were resort ed to. The Journal says : It appears, if reports are to be believed, that the young lady received an invitation from the Lady Superior of the Convent, near this city, to call, as she wished to see her. The young lady answered the invita-tion in person, and went to the convent to pay her respects to the Lady Superior. On arriving at the convent she found several of the Catholic priests of the city there, besides a goodly number of nuns, ready to catechise her in relation to the offence being married by any one except a Catholic priest. What transpired there particularly, we do not propose to state, but those who know the ways of Catholics in such matters can draw their own conclusion."

The young lady still presisted, it is said in her unholy attempt to marry the man of her choice in the church of their choice; but suddenly morning of the wedding-it was found that she had disappeared-disappeared from her house, from her friends, from her lover, convent, or has been spirited away to SL Louis or Chicago. The victim of this treachery is calm and patient, but he de-clares that he will yet vindicate his rights and rescue the lady from her persecutors.

We know of no place in this State where free trade would not be suicidal policy. It would put an end to most of the manufacturers already in existence, and be a complete bar to the introduction of others. The policy that creates divesified labor, and plenty of it, is directly opposed to free trade. It builds railroads and farmaces, and the thousand other diversified industries which make them profitable. It increases the quantity and improves the quality of labor It gives the working man a larger choice of work, and if one department of industry is overdone he has choice of others. This can never be the case where agricultura! products is a foreign one, and contingent upon circumstances independent of the farmer. An agricultural community dependant upon a foreign market can never be-come either prosperous or intelligent. But as sociate other branches of industry with it and it will soon become both. Illustrations of the truth of this can be seen all over the State within the last ten years, and their existence accounts for the enormous increase of the wealth and resources of Pennsylvania during the same perod, as shown by the census.—Protection is the policy of the Republican party, while the fatal policy of the Dimocratic party. If laboring men all understood this thing no one of them would ever be found voting the Democratic ticket. - Chumbersburg Re

TAMMANY IN TROUBLE .- The Irish and Germans of New York city both appears to be in revolt against Tammany. The Citizea (a Democratic paper, we believe) says : "The queerest thing that has hap-pened in the world of politics for many years is the course of the Germans at the present moment. These, although foreign citizens, are hereely toning the believes of itizens, are largely joining the lodges of the Native American party. They are so angry with the Irish, and so disgusted with Tammany-which heretofore has never been able to recognize but one elique Germans—that they are in a condition of open rebellion, and even approve the strong-est American principles. This may be philosophical, as the Teutonic mind usual-ly shows itself to be, but it is certainly cu-rious and not altogether what was to be expeeted. If it goes on, it threatens more trouble to Tammany Hall than any danger which has yet arisen, for it will inevitably give the Know-Nothings the balance of FUTHER details of the Dublin viet show that it was truly national in spirit as in location. A mass meeting was convened to ask anneaty from the government for political offenders who had been tried and sentenced. And the petitioners emphasiz-ed their request for mercy by catching and of their request for mercy by catching and pummeling so many of the servania of the government as they could safely by hands upon. They put fifty policemen into the haspital, and were then routed by reinflu-commute. The idea of colliveing a request for unccep with bindgous may be forelists, but its highe savore strongly of the soil.
