BALLOON ASCENSION .- A large number of our citizens assembled on the flat, at the lower end of town, on Wednesday afternoon last, to witness the balloon ascension, which was announced to take place prior to the afternoon performance of a one-horse circus exhibition. About 114 o'clock the necessary arrangements were completed for the ascension, the ropes were cut, and the balloon ascended at a rapid rate. The ascension occupied about two minutes and the descent not quite so long a time, the adventurer alighting in the lot of Mrs. S. Simpson, on Walnut street. The deceased was, until recently, connected with the "GAZETTE" of this place, and was the father of the editor and proprietor of that Journal. He was a man of vigorous constitution, sober and industrious, and frequently worked at the case until within a few weeks previous to his death, and was, perhaps, at the time, the oldest working compositor in the State. He learned the printing business at Reading, and came to this place about the year 1813, and started a small German paper entitled the "Nonn-Westliche Post," which he subsequently converted into an English paper called the "WORKINGMEN'S AD-VOCATE" about 1831. A few years after it was enlarged and called the "SUNBURY GAZETTE," and was published a number years under the management of his son GEO. B. YOUNGMAN, Esq. Medical. ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED!

It is one of the remarkable facts of this re-markable age, not merely that so many persons are the victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now, we would not be un-derstood to say that any one regards dyspapsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experinced its torments would scont such an idea. All dread it, and would gladiy dispense with its unpleasant familiarties. Mark Tapley, an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarties. Mark Tapley, who was jolly under all the trying circumstances in which he was placed, never had an attack of dyspepsia, or his jollity would have speadly forsaken him. Men and women sometimes suffer its tortures uncomplainingly, but whoever heard of a person who enjoyed them?

Of all the multifurious diseases to which the human system is liable, there is perhaps no one so generally prevalent as dyspepsia. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fual; but none, the effects of which are so depressing to the mind and so positively distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPETTIC. A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

Nearly every other person you meet is a vic-im, an apparently willing one; for were this tim, an apparently willing one; for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the easy reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But the majority will not. Blinded by prejudice, or deterred by some other unexplained influence, they refuse to accept the relief proffered them. They turn a deaf car to the testimony of the thousands whose sufferings have been alleviated, and with strange infatuation, appear to cling with desperate determination to their ruthless tormenter. But says a desperaic; What is this with desperate determination to their ruthless tormenter. But says a dysperate: What is this remedy? to which we reply: This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. It has allayed the agonles of thousands, and is to-day carrying comfort and encouragement to thousands of others. This acknowledged panaeca is none other then others. 3
