J. W. WASHINGTON'S GRAND BARBER SHOP. The old permanent shop of the town. We decline the boast, but at the same time consider that the mighty truth may be seasonably spoken without manifesting an unreasonable amount of vanity and ambition. Just twenty years ago I began my business career in this place—half my lifetime thus far spent, has I not upon the floor of our shop, day after day, and night after night, and applied the sharp blue emulating steel, and within that elapsed time embracing by the mighty hands of my ready assistants, I have shaved nearly every head in the country (in common parlance) and to oblige the public I have been publicly announced in our papers old and new that we are ready to shave them all again three hundred thousand times or more.

Come when you please, and in this the shaving is always ready to work, far more so afterwards, as it is always ready every day, whether you, or perhaps, come and arrange the hair with artistic skill, in the "water" or water style, or to suit the customer. We work to please, not to work.

Stop, don't go past our shop to get shaved on the basis of ability—because we do it as well as any barber. A chance is all that we demand. To give the proof we hold in hand. A cut in these sheets, Depot, near Market Street, Oct. 1, 1870.

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DR. JOHNSTON, Physician of this celebrated Institution, has discovered the most certain, speedy, pleasant and effectual remedy in the world for all Diseases OF THE URINARY TRACT.

Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Headache, Languor, Loss of Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Tremblings, Dimness of Sight or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Ears, Affections of Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—these terrible Disorders arising from the Solitary Habits of Youth—those secret and solitary practices, known as Vice, their victims than the song of Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes and anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreary and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entered the lists of Science, Business, Literature or the Arts, and who are now the victims of the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

Married Persons or Young Men contemplating marriage, aware of Physical Weakness, (Loss of Procreative Power—Impotency), Nervous Excitability, Palpitation, Organic Weakness, Venous Debility, or any other Disqualification, speedily relieved. He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a Physician, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS, Impotency, Loss of Power, immediately Cured and Full Vigor Restored.

This distressing Affection—which renders Life miserable and marriage impossible—is cured by the victims of improper Indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses not being aware of the friends and enemies which may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the indulgence in a healthy being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both mind and body arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Faculties Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Constipation, and general Debility of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS. Persons ruined in health by unlearned practitioners who keep them trilling month after month, taking poisons and injurious compounds, should apply immediately to

DR. JOHNSTON, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduated from one of the most eminent colleges in the United States, and has spent a part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, he effected cures in the most distressing cases that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, faintness, with frequent vomiting, and sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

DR. JOHNSTON'S PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, uniting them to either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are those to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Derangement of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil-Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the effects of this disease.

THOUSANDS of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, their vigor, becoming morbid, and their spirits enervated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

YOUNG MEN Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone, a habit frequently from early companionship, and the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, render marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be afflicted with this disease, which, if not cured, will shorten his life, and deprive him of the pleasures of matrimony and the joys of domestic life. Such persons, by contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote conjugal happiness. Indeed without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, and the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection, that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

A CERTAIN DISEASE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has injured his health, and that the disease is too often happens that an ill-defined sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from their long and respectable experience, are qualified to cure him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as a sore throat, diseased nose, nasal discharge, and other symptoms, which, if not cured, will shorten his life, and deprive him of the pleasures of matrimony and the joys of domestic life. Such persons, by contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote conjugal happiness. Indeed without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, and the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection, that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

TO SUCH, therefore, Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most judicious and observations in the great Hospitals of Europe, and the first in this country, viz: England, France, Philadelphia and elsewhere, is enabled to simulate the most certain, speedy and effectual remedy in the world for all diseases of impotence.

OFFICE, NO. 7, S. FREDERICK STREET, BALTIMORE, Md. Left hand side going from Baltimore to care, a few doors from the corner. Fall not to observe name and number.

No letters received unless postpaid and containing a stamp to be used on the reply. Persons writing should state age, and send a portion of advertisement describing symptoms.

There are so many false advertisements and worthless impostors advertising themselves as Physicians, using with and raising the health of those who unfortunately fall victims to their deceits, that it is necessary to say especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his Credentials or Diplomas always hang in his office.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS. The many thousands cured at this Establishment every year, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston, witnessed by the representatives of the Press and many other persons, who have appeared again and again before the public, testify to his standing as a gentleman of character and respectability.

Select Poetry.

"THY WILL BE DONE."

There are some times when clouds of night obscure the path of the pilgrim's way; When countless sorrows all unite, Like shadows of the closing day; When the sweet voice of love is still, And God in anger seems to smile, And all on earth is drear and chill, And there is none to help or guide; Oh, then the weary heart knows well How hard it is to walk alone, How hard its trust unshared to tell, And say "My God, thy will be done."

That night shall surely come, we know, When every hope of earth shall cease, And the frail bark of flesh be blown away; Be tossed on life's tempestuous sea; Those whom we love shall pass away, Or leave us in the trying hour, And not our slight or cheering ray Shall gild the clouds which threaten long.

When no pure beam of hope so fair Shines on our path, and we are left alone, How hard 'tis then to breathe that prayer: "My Father, may thy will be done."

Yet there are times when earth is gay, When life is sweet and well we know That round the pleasant future way No gloom or shadow ever comes to show. All, all is fair—all, all is bright, And life seems one long day of joy, And we forget the present time to say: "My Father, may thy will be done."

Life's events, with shades of gloom, Must soon close life's fairest day; The night of death the cheerless tomb, And the cold earth of the grave to show, And joyless as the clouds of night, But hide a while that brighter beam, And he is blotted from the realm of light; As wandering through this desert lone, Mist all his trials, all his woes, To pray, "My God, thy will be done!"

THOSE "WILD CHILDREN." THEIR HISTORY AND SHAMEFUL NEGLECT.

The Father Owns Fifty Acres of Wood-land, and is Desirous to Provide for his Offspring.

Yesterday we paid a visit to the "Wild Mutes," as they are called, on exhibition in the city. They were making his age about thirteen. As they were always in a position, they are clothed with red flannel shirt and pants, buttoned loosely around them; the pants being a little lacking in length, and only coming the length of their knees. Their appearance is not at all delicate, but they are always clean and neat. The hair of their heads is the identical color of their father's, and is long and matted. Their lower extremities are a little distorted, owing to the habit of squatting on the ground with both their limbs turned in one direction. Their skin is white, but they are covered with blotches and scratches from exposure. The girl is stouter than the boy and is very docile. The boy has the appearance of being starved, and has an ugly disposition. This he manifests sometimes by fighting with the father, and the girl bears the marks of a delicate nature, and both the children at an early age were subject to fits. The girl never manifested any disposition to articulate English. The father complains that the mother let them run about through the woods in the summer time naked, urging us to believe that he neglected that they did not require any clothing. The father said that he had procured and put a cloth around their shoulders, and during the utmost rigors of the season, this was their only clothing. The girl, especially, is very hardy and adventurous. She has been seen to have gone away several miles from home and sleep out several nights. She is most intense cold. She often appeared naked upon the public roads and upon the approach of a traveler would run into the woods. Before being on exhibition her method of locomotion was on all fours, she having gradually become habituated to this system of progression by seeking for beech nuts among the leaves in the woods. This might furnish Darwin or some of the advocates of the "Development hypothesis" with an instance of "Reversion," and he might find in this creature one of the missing links so long sought for by him. With the exception of the idiopathic attacks which young children have been very healthy. Their diet has been principally potatoes and other vegetables. Their father owns fifty acres of land, where they were reared, but they have never done any work. Their names are Richard and Mary.

Lawyers of the Past and Present.

Colonel Forney writes: As marking the difference between the lawyers of the past and present, I heard an anecdote of John Sergeant the other day, which shows how the giants, estimated their professional services, and by what sensitive and scrupulous means they secured their clients.

A distinguished merchant, still living, called upon Mr. Sergeant for his opinion in an important case, which was duly prepared and sent by one of the students of the great lawyer. The merchant opened the letter, and after glancing over it, asked the student for the charging. He said he did not know the contents of the paper, and could not answer. The merchant then signed a blank check, and sent it back to Mr. Sergeant by the same hand, with the message that he should fill it up with the amount of his fee. The very student, now one of the leading members of the Philadelphia bar, graphically describes the effect of the communication. He says he never saw a little man (Mr. Sergeant was of slight stature) so suddenly turn into a giant.

Mr. Sergeant was of slight stature, but he was a giant in his profession. He was a man of a very peculiar disposition, and is very much attached to his children.
