For our own part, there is no need of reconciliation. Let us go home fully determined to win this great victory, and by it place the heroes of the loyal people in control of our institution. Let each one go home to his city, to his town, his ham-let, and insist on all friends voting not only for Gen. Grant and Henry Wilson, but the whole ticket, down to the lowest man. On motion Mossrs, Cadwallader, Capts. Boynton and Allison were appointed committee to wait on Mr. Packer and inform him of his nomination.

The committee then retired, and shortly after canrued with Mr. Packer, who was introduced

o the Convention:
Mr. Packen said: Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Conference—I learn that you have my gratification in language sufficiently strong for this renewal of the confidence, esteem and regard of the intelligent, industrious, independent and patriotic constituency you represent. No district in Pennsylvania or the nation, has done so much for the great resources of this State as the district I will be called upon to represent in the Forty-third Congress, for I take it for granted that whoever is nominated by the Republican parts will be closed for the problems. party will be elected [applause], and that this district will not go back on "anconditional suc-U. S. Grant.

Mr. Packer then referred to the unprecedented increase of the resources of Pennsylvania, which were, in 1860, but fourteen hun-fred fullions, and had increased to the unprecedented figures of thirty-eight hundred and fifty-two millions, as of thirty-eight inudred and fifty-two millions, as the late census would prove; and Mr. Packer then asked the plain question, who is it thet, with all this prosperity before us, would favor a change of administration? Gen. Grant had pledged himself to an economical administration, and he had fulfilled all his promises, reduced the National debt over THREE HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHT MILLIONS OF BOLLARS ($338,141,259 46), so that to-day we are paying two millions of dollars ($1,932,613-75) less interest on the National debt, monthly, than at the time General Grant became President. Reflecting men would stand by an administration that ing men would stand by an administration that had introduced such reforms. The recent elections had already proven what the people would do, and the speaker felt satisfied that Pennsylva-nia would give at least 20,000 majority in October next for the whole State ticket. He had assurances from every county in the district that in each of them the Republican vote and majority would be largely increased. [Applause.] The speaker again thanked the conferees, and after an interchange of opinions among the several gentlemes present, the conference adjourned

A DANGEROUS WITNESS.

Mr. Forney's favorite witness, says the Philadelphia Bulletin, in his crusade against the Republican candidate for Governor, is Dr. Paine. By him, he undertakes to prove all manner of malfeasance and corruption, and without his valuable aid, even the impudent ingenuity of the Press would be at a loss to invent slanders to hurl at the head of the man whom it re-cently declared to be, not only a galiant soldier, but also a faithful official. We propose to give Mr. Forney the full benefit of his chosen witness, and hope, in advance, that he will make the most of him.

We have more than once intimated our When those men who drew their blades against the country become reconciled to that banner, and to the authority of nation.

D. Carpenter Forney were only a small portion of their Evans dividend. Only Two Thousand Dollars of that sum have been traced to the pocket of the chief maligner of Gen. Hartrauft, and it has seemed incred ble that he should have put Evans in the way of a Three Hundred Thousand Dollars operation for the pitiful commission of a two-thirds of one per cent.

We call Dr. Paine to the stand; and we offer him, once more, the paper, as Mr. Hagert did in the Twitchell case. The difference is that both ends of it are now hot, and that the "centre of percussion" can be far more easily determined, than when the Dean of the Bogus Diploma College gave his immortal lecture on that subject before the Twitchell jury.

We do not know whether Dr. Paine swears or affirms. We presume that, as a practice, he swears. Indeed, he swore a little, just a little, a "d—n," with a small d, when he gave the evidence which we now propose to publish. What Dr. Paine said was this, and he said it in the presence of two unimpeachable witnesses, ready to be produced when needed, that JOHN W. FORNEY RECEIVED FROM THE EVANS FUND THE VALUE OF FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, IN THE FORM OF SATISFATION OF A MORTGAGE ON THE PRESS BUILD-

ING.
This is exactly what Mr. Forney's favorite witness said to at least two competent and thoroughly reliable witnesses. And our "Yellow Seal" Sherry, upon being asked why the money itself was not paid to him Mr. Forney's favorite wit ness promptly replied that it was thought desirable that Mr. Forney should be able to say, if interrogated that he "had never seen a dollar of the Evans money." seen a dollar of the Evans money."
Sept. 21, 1871.—im.

This is Dr. Paine's testimony, and we are prepared to prove, before any proper tribunal, that this is precisely what he said concerning the disposition of this part of the Evans plunder. If it is false testimony, then Dr. Paine has proved himself a very bad witness for Mr. Forney, and he ought to denounce him openly, publicly and at to denounce him openly, publicly and at once. If possible, he ought to go farther, and prove that he never had any such mortgage paid or satisfied or in any way cancelled—that would be a good, comprehensive way to state the evidence—and that—excepting the confessed Six Thousand Dollars, he has never received any advantage direct or indirect from the advantage, direct or indirect, from the

If, on the other hand, Dr. Paine's testimony is true, he has proved himself a still worse witness for Mr. Forney. If he has really supplied, in his unguarded and garrulous moments, the real "centre of percussion" of this misterious force that controls the action of the Press, Mr. Forney may well "go for him," with good excuse.

The dilemma is a desperately awkward one. If Dr. Paine tells the truth, what be-comes of Mr. Forney's charge against General Hartranft ? If Dr. Paine tells a falsehood, what becomes of the bogus Yerkes affidavits that rest upon his testimony? The horns seem equally sharp, and there is small choice between then. If Dr. Paine is small choice between then. If Dr. Paine tells the truth, the little Six Thousand becomes Fifty-six Thousand, or about one-half of the hitherto unexplained part of the Evans plunder. If Dr. Paine's statement the little Six Thousand, or about one-half of the hitherto unexplained part of the Evans plunder. If Dr. Paine's statement the little Six Thousand because the same of the land is well timber-to-unity. The balance of the land is well timber-to-unity. is a romantic fiction, which Mr. Forney ed with Chestnut and Oak. must find some satisfactory way of proving, then the assault upon Geo. Hartranft falls by the dead weight of the total incompetence of the chief witnesses. The centre of percussion lies somewhere along the surface of this exceeding hot poker; and it rests with Mr. Forney to determine just where it is.

GENERAL ALLEN VINDICATED. - AS the Democratic papers are sorely exercised over the prospect of Hartley being terribly beaten by Gen. Allen, and as they continu ally charge the Republican candidate with dishonesty, which none but knaves will as-sert, we copy the following resolutions, framed and passed unanimously by a Democratic meeting in Warren county, on the evening of the 25th ult. David Beatty, Esq., presided, with Matthew Simpson Vice President, and Jacob Offerice and Theo. Hull, Secretaries, all well-known and influential Democrats. The resolutions passed without a dissenting voice are as fol-

He is Mr. Packen said: Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Conference—I learn that you have an candidate for Congress. I cannot express business which has been placed upon him or in which he has been engaged. He is almost the first in every charitable enterprise; and is emphatically the poor man's lance of the Democrotic and Liberal ticket,

Such is the testimony of Gen. Allen's De-mocratic neighbors, and it outweighs all the contemptible and malignant efforts of the Greeley papers to injure him in the opinions of all right-minded men. If it were possible for Democratic editors to appreciate their own littleness and meanness own party in Warren county. But they will shut their eyes to this evidence from honest men who have known Gen. Allen from childhood, and having a stock of falsehoods on hand, will persist in using them until the close of the campaiga. With their willing ally, Forney may heap abuse and slanders upon him from this time until then, but it will be filth thrown in vain. They cannot befoul a character so clean, a reputation for integrity so irreproachable, and a record so honorable. The people of Pennsylvania cannot, will not elect a man like Hartley, the friend of the rebellion and the close sympathizer with red-handed treason. They want honest, efficient and leyal men in the high offices of the Com-monwealth, and they will choose to fill them in October, Generals Hartranft, Allen and Ulysses Mercur by crushing majo rities.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Eight Democrats joined the Grant and Wilson Club at Warren, a few days ago.
