The Scientific American. POR 1573,

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL DR. JOHNSTON,

DB. JOHNSTON,

Physician of this octobrated Institution, has discovered the most certain speedy, pleasant and effectual remedy in the world for all DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsy, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Tremblings, Dimness of Sight or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—these terrible Disorders arising from the Solitary Habits of Youth—those secret and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes of auticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

Married Persons or Young Men contemplating marriage, aware of Physical Weakness, (Loss of Procreative Power—Impotency), Nervous Excitability, Palpitation, Organic Weakness, Nervous Debility, or any other Disqualification, speedily relieved.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS,
Impotency, Losa of Power, immediately Cured and full Vigor Restored.

This Distressing Affection—which renders Life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sconer by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind srise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death. Philadelphia and elsewhere. of London, Pris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ring-ing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended cometimes with deraugement of mind, were cured

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which rain both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or mar-riess produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Back and Head, Dinness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Vower, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumation, &c.

MENTALLY-The fearful effects on the mind re much to be dreaded-Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil-Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced. THOUSANDS of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming, weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consump-

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone, a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asicep, and if not cured, renders marriage impos-sible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons MUST, before contemplating MARRIAGE, reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect bourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection, that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our ow becomes blighted with our own.

A CERTAIN DISEASE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, noctural pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of Ignorant or unskillful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and learned the formula of the constitution, and traveller returns." incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being restored to a renewal of Life Vigor and Happiness, in des-pair leave him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment. To such, therefore, Dr. Jounston piedges himself to preserve the most Inviolable Secrecy, and from his extensive practice and observations in the great Hospitals of Europe, and the first in this country, viz: England, France, Philadelphia and elsewhere, is enabled to offer the most certain, speedy and effectual remedy in the world for all diseases of imprudence.

BY WASHINGTON IRVNG.

The treasures of the deep are not so precious As are the concealed comforts of man Locked up in a woman's love. I scent the air of blessings, when I come but near the house. What a delicious breath marriage sends forth, The violet beds not sweeter.—Middicton.

I have often had occasion to remark the fortitude with which woman sustain the most overwhelming reverses of fortune. Those disasters which break down the spirit of a man, and prostrate him in the dust, seem to call forth all the energies of the softer sex, and such intrepidity and elevation to their character, that at times approaches to sublimity. Nothing can be more touching than to behold a soft tender female, who had been all weakness and depenendence, and all alive to trivial roughness while treading the prosperous paths of life, suddenly rising in mental force to be the comforter of her husband under mis-fortune, and abiding with unshrinking firmness, the bitterest biasts of adversity.

As the vine which has long twined its graceful foliage about the oak, and been lifted by it into sunshine, will when the hardy plant is rifted by the thunderbolt, cling around it with its caressing tendrils, and bind up the shattered boughs, so is it beautifully ordained by Providence, that woman who is the more dependent and or-nament of man in his happier hours, should be his stay and solace when smitten with sudden calamity; winding herself into the recess of his nature, tenderly supporting the drooping head and binding up the broken heart. I was once congratulating a friend, who had around him a blooming fa-mily, knit together in the strongest affection. "I can wish you no better lot," said he, with onthusiasm, "than to have a wife and children. If you are prosperous, they are to share your prosperity; if otherwise they are a comfort to you."

I finished by persuading him to go home and unburden his sad And, indeed, I have observed that a married man falling into a stortune is more apt to retrieve his situation in the world than a single one; partly because he is than a single one; partly because he is more stimulated to exertion by the necestively will promptly inform you, free of charge, a copy of the Patent Laws in full, with instructions how to proceed to obtain a patent. inhabitant.

These observations call to mind a little domestic story of which I was once a witness. My friend, Leslie, had married a beautiful and accomplished girl, who had been brought up in the midst of assuonable life. She had, it is true, no fortune, but that of my friend was ample; and he delighted in the anticipation of indulging this as Parley, Herrick, Beard, Dixon and others. Each number of the paper will contain acvers. In the literary department, Dr. C. S. Robinson, whose oriental sketches have been an acceptable feature of the paper the present year, will furport the paper the present year.

nish a new series, descriptive of life and customs | produced an harmonious combination ; he was of a romantic and somewhat serious cast; she was all life and gladness. I have often noticed the mute rapture with which her sprightly powers made her the delight; and how, in the midst of applause, her eye would still turn to him, as if there alone she sought favor and acceptance. When leaning on his arm, her sleuder form contrasted finely with his tall manly person. The fond, confiding air with which she looked up to him, seemed to call forth a flush of trumphant pride and cherishing tenderness, as if he doted on his lovely burden for its very helplessness. Never did a couple set forward on the flowery path of early and well-suited marriage with fairer prospect of felicity.

It was the misfortune of my friend, however, to have embarked his prosperity in large speculations, and he had not been married many months, when by a succession of sudden disasters was swept away from him, and he found himself reduced to almost penury. For a time he kept his sit-uation to himself and went about with a haggard countenance, and a breaking heart His life was but a protracted agony; and what rendered it more insupportable was the necessity of keeping up a smile in the presence of his wife; for he could not bring himself to overwhelm her with the news. She saw, however, with the quick eyes of affection, that all was not well with him. She marked his altered looks and stifled aighs, that was not to be deceived by his sickly and vapid attempts at cheerfulness. tasked all her sprightly powers and tender blandishments to win him back to happiness; but she only drove the arrow deeper into his soul. The more he saw cause to love her, the more torturing was the thought that he was soon to make her wretched. A little while, thought he, and the smile will vanish from that cheek-the song will die away from those lips-the luster of those eyes will be quenched with sorrow, and the happy heart, which now beats lightly in that bosom, will be weiged down, like mine, by the cares and miseries of the

At length he came to me one day, and related his whole situation in a tone of the deepest despair. When I heard him through I inquired, does your wife know all this ?" At the question he burst into an agony of tears. "For God's sake!" cried he, "if you have any pity on me don't mention my wife; it is the thought of her that drives me almost to madness." "And why not ?" said I "she must know it sooner or later, you cannot keep it long from her, and the intelligence may break upon her in a more startling manner than if imparted by yourself, for the accents of those we love soften the hardest tidings. Besides, you are depriving yourself of the comforts of her sympathy; and not merely that, but also endangering the only bond that can keep hearts together an unreserved community of the feeling. She will soon perceive that something is secretly praying upon your mind, and true love will not brook reserve, it feels undervalued and outraged, when even the sorrows of those it loves are concealed from it. " "Oh, but my friend ! to think what a blow I am to give all her future prospectshow I am to strike her very soul to the earth, by telling her that her husband is a beggar! that she is to forego all the elegancies of life—all the pleasures of society—to shrink with me into indigence and obscuri-ty! To tell her that I have dragged her down from the sphere in which she might have continued to move in constant brightness—the light of every eye—the admiration of every heart! How can she bear poverty? She has been brought up to all the sphere in which she might was humble enough in its appearance for the most pastoral poet, and yet it had a five years, during which time be had never pleasing rural look. over it; and I observed several pots of flowers tastefully disposed about the door, and on the grass plat in front. A small wieket gate opened upon a footpath that wound through some shrubbery to the door. Just as we approached we heard the sound of music—Leslie grasped my arm; we paused and listened. It was Mary's voice singing in a style of the most touching simplicity; a little ballad of which her husband was peculiarly fond.
