EVERYDAY we notice some elegantly fitting suits made up at the store of J. F. Schaffer, merchant tallor, opposite the Central Hotel. His style of cutting is generally admired by all, as well as is his fine assortment of goods.

THE EXCELSION BOOT & SHOE STORE COD tinues to keep up its reputation for the best articles of Boots & Shoes in Market. The great variety kept in that establishment has proved advantageous to the citizens generally, as no one through a window on Wednesday night last, and can go there with their patronage without being a pair of boots belonging to Daviel Healinger suited. Gum shoes, which are now most needed, stolen. will be found in greater variety than ever before. Ludies are particularly invited to call and see the latest styles. Constantly opened and offered for sale at the most reasonable prices.

We are glad to notice that the popular merchant tailor on Third street, Thomas G. Nott, is making preparation to still further increase his quill. business. Arrangements are being made to enter into the wholesale manufacturing business to compete with the clothing houses of the ci- brushes, &c., got into the company of some ties. This arrangement will give employment to light-fingered gentry and was filled up with beer a large number of hands, and be a great benefit and sent adrift, minus about three hundred dolto the citizens of this vicinity. Mr. Nott is well fars. On the same evening a warrant was isknown in this community as a master workman, sued and placed in the hands of Capt. Reach, and with the arrangements now being effected who arrested Wm. Gehring and Jos. Ray, and we have no doubt of its success.

RELIGIOUS OF THE WORLD. -This valuable religious work contains a statement of the origin, development and forms of worship, doctrines and government of the religious denominations in the world, with biographical sketches of eminent divines, has been enlarged and revised, and should find a place in every bousehold. It is a complete history of all denominations that have and do now exist in the world. The book cannot be obtained at book stores, as it is only sold by agents. We are happy to see that Calvin Woodcock has received the agency for its sale in Sunbury, Northumberland, Upper and Lower Augusta, and is now canvassing for subscribers. The work is very cheap, and every one should avail themselves of a copy. It is Illustrated with fine steel engravings, and contains nearly four hundred pages.

qualifications of candidates for borough officers has been much discussed during the past week. But thus for there has not been much opposition urged against the present Chief Burgers and Councilines. The majority appear to be satisfied with nearly all the Council, from the fact that they have shown a vast amount of enterprise in making improvements in our town. And as far as we can see the money of the taxpayers has been been properly applied, and the citizens can see that it has been appropriated for their benefit. The improvements made during the past year are very striking, and shows that we must have a progressive Council if we intend to make this the town what all deales it to be. It behooves us to encourage enterprise if we wish furnaces and all kinds of manufactories to be built up in our midst, and in order to draw capitalists here to invest it is necessary that we hold out inducements in the way of keeping our town in such a condition that it will be admired. and keeping our streets in good order, and making such public improvements as will induce strangers to come among us and invest their means. This we believe has been one of the objects of the present Council, and we see no necoselly of changing it, with the exception of probably in one or two instances, where an improvement might be made by putting others in their stead, who will look more to the interests of the public than self.

A Spoonstron. -The poor taxes in Sunbury have been so increasing from year to year that they are for only a burden but an annoyance to our citizens. The largest tax assessed is the poor tax. Over three thousand dollars have been expended by supporting our poor during the last year. Lower Augusta has paid twenty-cight hundred dollars, and Upper Augusta has her share in proportion to her inhabitants. Now we suggest that Sumbury, Lower and Upper Augustion counseling theory and upper Augustion counseling them to huld a front house, located conveniently for the three prechert, and locate their peor conjointly, where they will be treated better than by the separate beroughs and townships.—Sumbury Daily, of Plenty of snow, and the mercury lost: it has gone so far below zero. The last week we've had a charge, and the heavy rains and thaws have made tremendous ice gorges in many of our rivers. Your Susquebanna, below and above you, seems to have been greatly Jammed, and caused considerable damage. The gradual thaw, proceeding the rain, was a perfect God-send. For with such immense quantities of snow anon the ground, the heavy Fall rains having filled the ground and all the springs, had there been a sudden break up, it is very hard to estimate what would have been the results. Great damage and loss of life undoubtedly.

loss of life undoubtedly.

Our neighboring town of Conshehocken, just below Norristown, and just entside the city limits, seems to be particularly unfortunate. Only last Fall a furnace, in course of erection, caved a, causing the death of eight or ten men, and a few days ago a boiler in a rolling mill blew up, casting death on all sides. Altweether thirteen men have died, and more are still are hovering in unc stainty. The building is a complete wreck. The Coroner's jury report "the boiler too weak to suffer the pressure put upon it," and so the matter rests. It is fearful how little regard is matter rests. It is fearful how little regard is paid to the safety of the workmen in such places and little hopes of its being remedied unless some careless proprietor is made to suffer for his gree-
