HARD TIMES AND WHAT CAN BE DONE .- On every side we hear the cry of hard times, and numerous remedial suggestions are being every day presented. Democratic editors of small caliber or gross dishonesty, are busy in their purpose of creating the ides that our present calamity is the result of Republican mismanagement or dishonesty, while men of brains place the fault where it belongs viz, extravagance and speculation in stocks. For years past extravagance and speculation have been indulged in, and it was noticed everywhere that sooner or later a crash was inevitable. Rings were formed of every description for speculative purposes. and capitalists anxious to make fortunes in a day, overreached the mark by investing in the wildest speculations, while others persistently indulged in extravagance and folly of every form until the crash came upon us, and the cry of hard times is heard everywhere. By this sudden check in business a great lesson is taught, but how to remedy the present condition is a matter never looked after before. The view of the situation :

Both of them, as indeed all of us, are quite convinced that there never was more money in the country than now; better crops, more foundation for solid prosperity, yet every man looks askance at his neighbor. There may be no reason for the panie; so much the worse; as a shrewd financier said yesterday, 'You can fight a reason; but this is a prejudice.' Yet there is after all some reason for the prejudice, or whim, or terror, whatever we may call it; and we have to look for it in the factitious basis on which all business has been carried on count for the electric rapidity with which signation of that officer. the chill of alarm penetrated through the

The millionaire will not make us absurd abroad by aping royalty, the clerk will be satisfied to live as a clerk, the mechanic as silk for his wife's Sunday wear. The goods are the same as offered by our city merchants, and frequently a better article can be had at home at the same price from merchants personally known. Here is where the local customer has the advantage. He knows his merchant. He sees him every day-meets him in reciprocal business, and has all the protection which such advantages bestow constantly in his control. But in going to the cities for bargains the buyer is made the victim of sharpers, who calculate that his first appearance will be his last, and treat him accordingly. DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT HARRISBURG. Harrisburg was visited by a disastrous conflagration on Wednesday morning, and the complete destruction of the State printing office, one of the finest establishments of the kind in the State, is the principal re-

Journal printing office was in this building and was destroyed with the rest of the con tents. The employees were in great danger, and many made narrow escapes, some jumping from the second story windows. No one was killed or seriously burned or otherwise injured. The loss to Mr. Singerly, the State printer, is about $175,000. The building and contents were unfortu-

THE EXECUTION OF WADE!

WILLIAMSPORT, NOV 6. Wade came from his cell at 1.30 and narched to the scaffold as calm and composed hs if he was going to his wedding. He went up the steps of the scaffold with a firm tread.

He came before about two hundred people, and made a long speech, in which he acknowledged his crime and asked God to forgive him. He made a long address and spoke firmly.

The assistant sheriff put on the rope and swung off. He dropped to the ground and the rope gave way, the culprit standing and asking to be killed. He implored to God have mercy on his soul.

A number of policemen took hold of the culprit and led him up the platform and re-adjusted the rope, and after tying him the trap was again sprung and the doomed man was sent into eternity.

DEAR SIRS: During a long residence in China I have used our valuable Pain-Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the Summers of 1862 and 1863, while residing in Shanghai. I found it an almost certain cure for cholera, if used in time. Indeed, using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician, and have been ob-liged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and ad-Though without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications.
