WORTHY OF ATTENTION

BUSINESS men attending the foreign trade conference at Fahnstock Hall the other day were told that, if they contemplate entering foreign trade, they would do well to give some time to a study of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum.

The idea which President Taft would have worked out to the satisfaction of everybody had been re-elected is bound in the end to prevail. The vast business of this country ought never to be put in jeopardy by the possibility of such an accident as that which in 1912 placed the Democrats in charge of the government.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger is doing a good piece of constructive work along this line. The views of hundreds of merchants and manufacturers the country over on this subject are being collected for the benefit of Congressmen, before whom it is likely the proposition will be placed in the form of a bill at the next session of the national legislature.

With unlimited power at his command, the President dictated this measure and, committed it on a hundred different occasions, it is hardly likely that he will go so far as to admit failure of what he is pleased to term the most important enactment of his administration, by advocating a change to the commission form of revision which was at his command already and waiting for use when he assumed control at Washington.

In the preparation of the budget for the coming year, City Council ought to provide for a gradual increase of the meter lighting system to the end that the central business district shall be uniform in its lighting scheme.

magazines. There was no sting in his humor. He left the world better than he found it—better for his own long life in it, which as an epitaph could not be written on the tomb of many another beside whose magnitude in the literary firmament Burdette's is humble indeed.

FOR A TARIFF COMMISSION
THE movement to take the tariff of the United States out of politics by placing the whole matter in the hands of a board of experts, as exemplified by the recent action of the businessmen who constitute the Harrisburg Rotary Club and hundreds of other similar organizations throughout the country, may receive proper consideration at the hands of Congress, but not before the Republicans come again into control.

THE death of Bob Burdette recently at his California home removes from life one of that rapidly passing school of writers of which Mark Twain and Bret Harte were the leaders. Few of this very distinctive group yet live. Burdette was perhaps the best known of those remaining. They were a purely American product and in large part their writings reflect a phase of life that passed even before they themselves had reached the zenith of their fame.

Burdette began cultivating good humor obscurely in Peoria, Ill., forty years ago, when he spent part of his days at a desk on the Peoria Transcript "trying to think," as he himself once related, "of pleasant things to tell the folks when I went home at night." His audience of "folks" then was Carrie Garrett, the Peoria girl he had married a short time before while she lay supposedly on her deathbed, but who lived, and though an invalid for life, became immortalized by her husband as "Her Little Serene Happiness."

to cast their ballots, owing to the large number of voters endeavoring to discharge the duties of citizenship after working hours.
Other wards of the city are also becoming more or less congested and additional precincts are likely to be authorized.

EVENING CHAT

Practically every bird which graced a Thanksgiving board in Harrisburg yesterday was a home-grown bird. According to the grocers and the marketers, the turkeys sold in and about this city for the annual feast were all natives. If there was a cold storage bird in the city, it was not labeled, and it is doubtful if any were sold over counters or stalls.

Governor Tener has set an example for staying in the State Capital for holidays and has spent practically every important feast day in the Executive Mansion. The governor's turkey here yesterday and will probably spend his last Christmas as Governor in Harrisburg. He has kept the Christmas here during his term and has always been here on New Year's Day.

A lot of kids have been tempting Providence and worrying their parents the last few days playing the "old-fashioned, risky game, tickle-bender." The first requisite of this pastime is thin ice. It does not matter how deep the water may be, and how the provided the surface is hard enough to crack and not break under foot.

Frank Haas, a well-known Shamokin newspaper man who has visited here a number of times, will be a candidate for re-election to the Cumberland county seat next fall. Mr. Haas ran last time, but it happened that he was hit by a Democratic wave. Now that the Republicans have come home again he plans to run again and has been telling Harrisburg friends that he will win.

"What happened to Indian summer?" was the question asked yesterday of a man who follows the weather. "Oh, it came in spots," was the answer. "We had some mighty fine days and then we had some better. I guess when we count it up we had as much Indian summer as we generally do along the Susquehanna."

One of the city's veteran firemen in talking about the coming sale of Lohchei "Row" recalled the time that whole thirty-two houses then comprising the "Row" burned to the ground. "It was at 8 o'clock on the evening of April 6, 1878, that an alarm came in from Box No. 12 and it looked as though the whole lower end of the town was on fire," said he. "The box was at Race and Hanna and was then the lowest one in the city. It is now at Front and Dock under the same number. The row burned like tinder and over in Cumberland county people thought there was a terrific fire raging in Harrisburg and got nervous about it. The Bull Moose leaders then comprising the department were in service and I remember seeing the engines of the Friendship, Hope, Citizen, Paxton and Good Will companies lined up along Paxton creek pumping water for the lines. The loss attached to the fire was about $12,000 and it made many people homeless and caused much suffering."

DEMOCRATIC AND BULL MOOSE LEADERS AT WAR WITH EACH OTHER OVER THE SLAUGHTER

ROWS ARE BREAKING OUT

Old Guard Will Charge the Reorganizers; Pinchot Expected to Sound a Clarion

Overwhelmingly defeat is not being gracefully borne by either the Democratic State machine bosses or the chieftains of the Bull Moose herd, and there are signs that the factions which were clawing each other in secret during the campaigns will take up hatchets and have real earnest family rows during the coming year, when local contests will be fought out. State Chairman Roland S. Morris is in the midst of a nasty Democratic fight in Philadelphia and in several counties there are threats to make things lively for the bosses of the machine. In the Bull Moose camp the factions which split over the endorsement of McCormick are at it hammer and tongs, and the return of Gifford Pinchot from Florida is expected to be followed by a statement in which a call for a reorganization of the party will be made. This will precipitate a fight and the Democrats and Washingtonians will be in the midst of a rehabilitation campaign, just in time to complicate local campaigns next year.

—The Democratic and Washingtonian chiefs have about given up any hopes of being able to accomplish anything in the coming session of the Legislature and will plan their campaigns in such a way as to make all the trouble possible for the Republican and Progressive parties. However, they will be ready for them and will put through bills in accordance with their program. As the defeated party will not be able to kick about bills, they will select some details and make wild cries about betrayal of the people, etc., in order to have some campaign thunder next time.

—The Philadelphia Ledger in an afternoon article on politics today, has this to say about the coming warfare in the State Democracy: "The Palmer-McCormick-Morris leadership in the Democratic State organization, although it stated its policy already, is beginning to lay the lines and dig the trenches for another State wide battle with the Democratic 'Old Guard' in word, the 'Reorganization' leaders, now in control of the State committee, are preparing for the fight that the 'Old Guard' will make in 1916 with the object of winning control of the State."
—Republicans in Allegheny county have arranged to put through a policy of tax rate reduction.
—Mr. Murray is the new Lycoming county scaler of weights and measures.

—Commenting upon the fact that Gifford Pinchot demands to have offices and apartments in Philadelphia and a legal residence in Pike county, the Democratic Philadelphia Record scents an attempt by Pinchot to get the Bull Moose movement into the State. The Record says: "According to reports in Bull Moose circles, Mr. Pinchot, like his brother, Amos, has some criticisms of his own to make about the management of the campaign movement, and now that the campaign is over is prepared to call a spade a spade. While Mr. Pinchot's personal criticisms are not of the most serious, they were most amicable, it was generally understood that he was opposed to fusion on McCormick for Governor and that he went along on the proposition only to get the attention of the State. Mr. Pinchot was said to be inclined to a straight Bull Moose ticket, and in favor of fusion only in the event that he was drawn in his interest. His close friends were particularly bitter during the last weeks of the campaign when Palmer insisted upon remaining in the field, and considered the whole matter as a sacrifice of Lewis to help McCormick without the Bull Moose candidate for Senator receiving any open aid in exchange. In respect to the election, the Pinchot coterie has been able to find out of the entire campaign was the even more miserable showing made by Palmer, through the latter running third in the race."

—State Chairman Roland S. Morris, is expected here on Monday to inaugurate the Democratic State leadership the continuance of the headquarters in this city. The people connected with the State headquarters here do not feel that the State committee should close up the Harrisburg end and concentrate all party activity in the headquarters opened by Mr. Morris at 147 South Broad street, Philadelphia, for the reason that the objections urged by the present leaders during the reorganization fight was that the real headquarters were kept in Philadelphia. During the campaign the State committee had half a dozen branch headquarters, but they have been closed. It is probable that because of expense the headquarters here will be closed without the chairman will have his personal headquarters in Philadelphia.
—Formal announcement of candidates for re-election is expected to be made by William H. Wilson in Philadelphia within a few days, and the fight will then be precipitated. R. J. Baldwin, R. F. Habgood and F. C. Elderhart are already in the field, and George W. Williams and H. I. Wilson are expected to join.

These are the views of Chairman Crow on the legislative organization: "The speakership should go to the country and I think it will. It should be remembered that the Republican State committee was elected without the votes of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, and the people of the so-called country counties have a greater right than ever to bring the speakership to the State. The speakership should go to the country and I think it will. It should be remembered that the Republican State committee was elected without the votes of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, and the people of the so-called country counties have a greater right than ever to bring the speakership to the State. The speakership should go to the country and I think it will. It should be remembered that the Republican State committee was elected without the votes of Allegheny and Philadelphia counties, and the people of the so-called country counties have a greater right than ever to bring the speakership to the State."

OUR DAILY LAUGH

Splice of Life: In courtship this is ever true. For no one, but but a drummer. Would I have the nerve to spin up to this? The loved last summer.
Lovely Woman: A man's a fool who thinks of balking. A woman when her tongue would spin. She always says, "There's no use talking!" When she intends to start right in.
Case With Most of Us: Hello, old man, I thought you were going to spend your vacation abroad. No, I figured it up and found I couldn't get away without going under.
Has Him Dazed: They say Fred is hard hit. Shouldn't wonder, Maud is a stunning girl.
FOOLED AGAIN: By Wing Dinger
Some days ago, when football was working at top speed, I wrote some little verses. Which you, no doubt, did read. And you'll recall, I told you. There was no way to dope. The score when with each other. At football, teams did cope. I'm satisfied my statement. Was absolutely right. Oh, see, but I was grouchy. 'Till very late last night. I went not to the Island Entente. Because I thought that Tech would simply use the High School. To mop the bloom'ing deck. The best game of the season. I missed, because I thought. That Tech had all the good goods. With Central having naught. So next year, take it from me, I'm going to see each game, And yell if it's a good one. And cuss if it is tame.

CHILDREN at the school age, eager to romp and play, eat at odd hours and bolt their food. It is inevitable that constipation or indigestion will follow, and then it is important that you have a remedy at hand that will regulate the bowels and carry off the congested waste. In the opinion of thousands of families the best laxative for children is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, because it acts easily and quickly and is free from opiates or narcotic drugs of any description. It is mild, pleasantly-tasting and non-gripping, and is especially intended for women, children and old folks, for these should not use strong pills, powders, salt waters or such cathartics. Two generations of mothers have kept themselves and children healthy and happy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which can be purchased in any drug store for fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.
It is a great family remedy for constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, belching, gas, headaches, etc. By keeping the bowels open it helps to prevent colds, piles, fevers and such ills. Mrs. W. A. Stevens, of 277 W. Cottage Pl., York, Va., has been a constant user of it herself and gives it to her little grandson. Since doing that she says she has not needed a doctor for him. Mr. John E. Morton of 1008 First ave. N. W., Cedar Rapids, Ia., is a family man who is never without Syrup Pepsin in his medicine cabinet and who believes every family should have it at hand for stomach and bowel emergencies.

BOOKS and MAGAZINES

The Putnam's announce for publication at the end of November "The Supreme Court of Civilization, the Dual Alliance vs. the Triple Entente," by James M. Beck, formerly assistant attorney general of the United States. This book is an amplification and re-statement of an article which Mr. Beck contributed to the New York Times, the Philadelphia Public Ledger and the Boston Herald, in which, as a lawyer, he analyzed the British and German White Papers, the Russian Orange Paper and the Belgian Gray Paper and reached certain conclusions upon this documentary evidence as to the moral responsibility for the great European conflict. The article attracted very general attention in England, Canada and the United States, and has been translated into French for republication in that country. It was regarded by men of all classes as one of the most notable contributions to the literature of the war and there was an immediate and widespread demand for its publication in permanent form. Dr. Edmund von Mach, of Harvard, and many others contraverted its conclusions by contributed articles, and in answer to them Mr. Beck made very substantial additions to his previous argument, in which he answers the comments of his critics and gives additional reasons for the conclusions which he has reached as a result of a painstaking and judicial analysis of the vital State documents and diplomatic "conversation" which preceded the war.

A volume that has been prepared by Douglas Sladen, author of "Egypt and England," has just been issued under the title of "The Real Truth About Germany." Facts About the War." Mr. Sladen has taken as his text a pamphlet which, while not formally published, has been widely circulated in the United States, and which was entitled "The Truth About Germany." This pamphlet was prepared in Germany under the supervision of a committee of representative Germans, and may be described as the "official justification" of the German government in its recent copies from finding their way to England, which has caused Mr. Sladen to do more. He has taken up one by one the statements of the German writers, and has shown how little foundation they have in fact, and how misleading are others which contain some element of truth. In answering the German statements, Mr. Sladen has naturally taken the opportunity to state clearly the case of England. England claims that it was impossible to avoid going into this struggle if it was to keep faith with its obligations to Belgium, to Luxembourg and to the Netherlands. It is the conviction of England that this is not only a fulfillment of obligations and to prevent France from being crushed a second time, but for self-preservation. The German threat has been made openly: "First Paris, then London." The publishers have thought it desirable, in order to make the fullest possible presentation of the case for Great Britain, to include in this volume

AN EVENING THOUGHT

No man ever prayed heartily without learning something.—Emerson.

THE NERVES and THEIR NEEDS

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.
To treat the painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.
You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of "St. Vitus' dance."
The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it to-day. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Advertisement.
