As among the important sources of minetal ! wealth of our State, next to Coal is that of iron. It enters into so many of our necessities and ad. ministers to so many of our luxuries that it is needless to state any of the particulars of its usefulness : my object is to shew in a few words the great share it has had in elevating England to her present degree of wealth and power, and to shew that our state possesses resources in that mineral fat superior to het.

Nearly all the iron manufactured in Great Britain is produced from the "tock ore" (carbonate of iron) which scompanies the coal seams in South Wales. Staffordshire, the vicinity of Glasgow, &c., the whole amount of 'raw pig fron' being about 1,-500,000 tons, and the capital employed in it. several years since, was estimated at 7,000,000 eterling.

Bakewell in his Geology says : 'I may be permitted to remark, that, however ancient the formation of coal and iton may have been, the frequent occurrence of these minerals together, both destined in future time to give to men an extensive empire over the elements, and to contribute largely to his means of civilization and comfort, cantrel fail to impress the reflecting mind with evidence of prospective designing intelligence."

Before the discovery in England of making iron with mineral coal, that manufacture had there sunk almost into insignificance. The surface of the country had been stripped of its wood, and in the year 1740 the production had sank to 17,000 tons. double that amount being imported. So important was it thought before that time one of the objects in colonizing Virginia was stated to be the use of ber forest in making iron for the mother country. The means, however, was discovered to exist within her own bosom, and the production of iron immediately rose, as the following table will show, to its present extraordinary height :

Ĩ.	1748	17,000 ton
202	1750	22,044
	1788	68,000
	1796	125,000
	1806	250,000
	1820	400,000
	1828	703.184
	1838	1,000 000
	1840	1,500,000

Thave before mentioned the great increase of population in connection with the coal districts -Staffordshire contains about ninety square miles and "has 200,000 souls nearly all of whom are engaged in mining or manufacturing. Land, which was formerly an open common, is now in some cases selling for 1000 pounds per acre." This rich and populous country is only nine-tenths the size of the District of Columbia.

In Pennsylvania we have all the natural advanta ges of the proximity of coal and irea beds on which so much stress has been laid by British wri ters. These lie in most of our coal fields, and are accessible more particularly in the southern or Pottsville basin stretching from the Lehigh on the east, through the head-waters of the Schuy kill to the Susquehanna, at Dauphin, on the west. Here beds of the carbonate of iron in great abundance accompany the coal as they do in South Wales, the greatest manufacturing district of iron in the worll.

In addition to all these advantages Pennsylva. nia has an abundance of other and superior iron ores, which carried to the cost will produce by a mixture a quality of iron superior to the British, 1 mean the hydrates and the oxides, (the bogores, her-

With these two great sources of wealth-the real foundation of the power and eminence of the people place their confidence in honest and intolligent states men ! Prosperity and confidence restored within her boundaries, the burthen of her crease. present debt would be scarcely felt.

BLEEDING ALWAYS IMPROPEN-For the Life of the Flesh is in the Blood. With as much reason might we say, that trees die from too great a quantity of sap, as that a man can from too great a quantity of blood. The moisture derived from earth to the tree becomes sap, and the stomach of a man from the food put into it obtains blood, which supplies the daily waste of the body. The same causes tend to life in both. But that which causes life never produces death.

Dr. Benjamin Brandreth considers Bleeding to be always improper in the treatment of any complaint, whether inflammatory or otherwise; because the Brandreth Vegetable Universal Pills re. move the cause of the inflammation without touching the vital principle.

Hearken to the voice of reason and experience, we who are now the friends of this fatal practice, bleeding, learn that purgation is the only sure road to health; because it lessens the quantity of blood, and leaves what remains richer. Thus the crassamentum oxygen is left, which is indeed the life of the blood, the watery part of the blood being only that which is discharged by purgatives. Think of this, you whose constitutions are inclined to plesthora, and in time purge with that most innocent of all purgatives, the farfamed Brandreth Vegetable Universal Pills. They are known to act on every part of the body : being taken up by chyle they pass into the blood, which they purify; and it should be remembered that they remove only those watery parts from the blood which were the cause of inflammation. Nothing is equal to ridding the witlated humors with a vegetable med.cine of this kind, which eighty-four years have proved never to do injury, but always good.
