

Supposed Murderer Arrested.
Yesterday afternoon a man was committed by Alderman Redman, to await the requisition of the Governor of Maryland, under circumstances that leave no doubt of his being Adam Horn, the murderer of his wife, in Baltimore county, Md., the details of which horrid tragedy were given in the papers of this city yesterday morning. He was arrested by officers Wolfe and Phillips, at the hotel of Mr. Zimmerman, in Lettiss court, where he came on Monday, and remained ever since, under an assumed name. From the evidence before the Alderman, it appears that on Wednesday he went to a scrivener with the deed of a tract of land, &c., situate on the Hanover road, Baltimore county, Md., which was a conveyance by Andrew Granter to Adam Horn, dated June 11, 1842, and desired a deed of conveyance of said tract, made to John Storch, of Baltimore county, Md. His request was complied with, when the scrivener took him to the office of Charles Gilpin, Esq., Commissioner for the State of Maryland, for the purpose of having the paper duly authenticated.

From Horn's manner and unsatisfactory answers to Mr. G's enquiries, he declined attesting the document, unless Horn would produce a citizen to vouch for the correctness of his story, &c. Horn, it appears, afterwards called upon the Rev. Otho H. Burgess of the Holy Trinity Church, corner of Sixth and Spruce streets, who, with Horn, subsequently waited upon Mr. Gilpin, when the deed was attested, and witnessed by Mr. B.

Yesterday morning, Mr. B. upon reading the account of the murder, was struck with the circumstances above recited, and from the corresponding appearance of Horn with the description of him in the papers, immediately suspected him to be the perpetrator of the awful deed. He forthwith gave information to Alderman Redman, who at once sets his officer after Horn.

When arrested, he asserted that he was a shoemaker. On the way to the office, he threw away a tailor's thimble, and afterwards a pair of scissors were found on his person. The clothes he had on and coat found at the Hotel, are the same as described.

In his hat there was found a German newspaper published at Hanover, in York county, upon the margin of which was written the name of "Andrew Helmes," or "Helmet," which fact seems to implicate him in another murder some years since in Ohio, where the murderer was published by the name of Andrew Hellman. The prisoner seemed greatly agitated throughout, but more particularly in relation to being sent back to Baltimore. From all the circumstances of the case there can be no doubt that he is the perpetrator of the horrible act of butchery.—North American.

Another Supposed Murderer Arrested.
Yesterday afternoon, upon information given to the police officer by the mate of the ship Monongahela, officers William Young and Bulkley proceeded to sail ship and arrested a man calling himself William Mason, on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Parthemore, near Harrisburg, on the morning of the 14th inst. Mason, it seems, during the afternoon made application to the mate to take him to Liverpool, being willing to be stowed away anywhere; at the same time giving him a sovereign and some silver, amounting to $7.50.

Previous to all this, the Recorder had received an affidavit made before Justice Beitz of Reading, and a warrant for the arrest of Mason, and officer Murphy from the knowledge he possessed of the facts, gave information to the officers of the vessel to look out for such an individual.

This morning Mason was taken before the Recorder and had a hearing, and committed for a further hearing. From the testimony given, it appears that Mason is the individual who was arrested on Saturday near Harrisburg, and after a hearing before Justice Weiss, was discharged—which certificate was found on him.

A Robert McWhorter who is employed at the Reading Railroad depot at Reading, testified, that on Monday evening he first saw Mason at his boarding house, the White Horse Hotel, in that place, that there Mason got into conversation with him in relation to the murder, and said that he was the wood-chopper that had been arrested and discharged.

Mason appeared to labor under considerable excitement, and desired to sleep with the witness which was assented to. They proceeded to bed in the dark, and Mason then said he was in trouble and wanted to tell him a secret, which he enjoined him not to disclose. McWhorter agreed to see him safe out of Reading; having no idea as he says, that the fellow was about to confess the commission of a murder. He then gave McW. a paper which was the certificate of discharge from Justice Weiss, McW., started down stairs to the light for the purpose of reading it, and in a moment found that Mason was at his heels, manifestly afraid to stay alone.

Subsequently he confessed that he murdered Mr. and Mrs. P. with a bludgeon of wood, killing the man in one room and the wife in another, and robbed the house of only $20.—He said he wanted to go to Ireland, where he would never commit such an offence again.

On Tuesday morning, Mason was put by McWhorter upon the cars for Philadelphia, and soon after disclosed the facts to several gentlemen connected with the Railroad, when the affidavit was made and a warrant issued by Justice Beitz.

Mason is a distressed looking creature, evidently ignorant and debased, and about thirty-eight years of age. His manner was confused and his stories contradictory. Blotches are upon his pantaloons and shirt which have the appearance of blood. Mason states that he came from Ireland in July last. From all the facts disclosed there is but little doubt that he is the murderer. The amount of money found on him here and at other places make about the amount stolen from the house of Mrs. P.

Oh! I no never talk in French,
For German's all the rage;
Our lips are now forbid to read
Of French one single page,
I cannot say—"Mon cher ami,"
But—"Ja, mein lieber Freund";
Alas! I that ever such a tongue,
I trouble best they hear.
I dare not sigh—"Pensez vous!";
But bow—"Ach denk an mir";
Or hiss—"Soyez vous fidele";
I treatle best they hear.
And if—"Ne m'oubliez pas" slips out,
They say—"Vergess mich nicht";
Such awful words my jaws will break,
As—"Sprecht," and—"Slicht" and—"Licht."
And—"M'aimez vous" I never hear;
The time has passed away.
When those sweet accents met my ear;
Now must I—"Deutsch ver steh";
And if my hand be gently taken,
My breath I scarce can draw;
Lest he should say—"Sag, liebst du mich!"
And I should answer—"Yaw!"

Katy Did.

Some years ago beneath a vine,
Whose tendrils soft bright roses hid,
I sighed, "dear girl, will you be mine!"
She said, "yes love!" so Katy did.
I clasped her to my panting breast,
Nor was the lover's ardor chill,
She seemed to love to be caressed,
And so returned it—"Katy did!"
A blush suffused her pale bloom cheek,
A tear was started to her lid,
Her heart seemed all too full to speak,
She looked a Venus—"Katy did!"
Two years were passed in foreign land,
In search of wealth as I was bid,
When I returned to claim her hand—
She proved a jilt—"so Katy did!"

MERCHANT'S

HOUSE,

No. 237, North Third, above Callowhill St., PHILADELPHIA.
JOHN DUNCAN, late from the Pennsylvania Farmer, and Samuel Pike, jr., late of American Hotel, Columbus, Ohio, take pleasure in acquainting their friends and the public generally that they have taken the large and commodious Hotel, recently built by the Messrs. Hart, on the same site, since occupied by the old established Hotel known as the Bull's Head, in Third street above Callowhill st.

This Hotel is finished in the very best possible manner, and of the best materials. Its location is very desirable, particularly for country merchants; the arrangements for heating and ventilating each room is such as to secure any temperature. The bedrooms are all light and airy, all furnished in a neat style, so as to insure comfort.

The receiving parlors are also furnished in a superb style, the windows are on the French style, forming an entrance to a balcony in front, which makes a pleasant recess. Particular attention has been given to the beds and bedding, which, with the furniture, are entirely new.

From years' experience in hotel business, we trust, by strict assiduity to business, to make this house a desirable stopping place. Our table will always be supplied with the very best our market can afford, and our bar with the best liquors and wines of the most approved brands.

P. S. There are first rate stabling and carriage houses attached to the hotel, attended by careful and sober hostlers, and our charges will be low, in accordance with the present high times.
Philadelphia, Oct. 7th, 1842.
