

From the Aurora. THE TRAVELLERS.

Two travellers one November's day, To Washington City took their way; They footed it off, and the people say, That one was Polk and the other was Clay—

Now when they came to the White House door, They saw each other, they hadn't before; And Clay exclaimed as he turned up his nose, "Why here's a fellow whom nobody knows,"

Says Polk, says he, "I have heard folk tell— There's such a matter as knowing too well—" And Clay replied, with oath so strong, "Go home, Go home, to where you belong!"

Then Polk exclaimed, in a quiet speech, "Suppose you practice the deed you preach— For out in the West is your home that's clear, While the people have made me a nice home here"

So with that they rapped at the door, and out Came Captain Veto, with honesty stout, And said, "Good folks, pray what's the matter, You're kicking up here such a dence of a clatter"

Says Clay to Tyler, and smiled with gleam— "Dear Captain John, don't you know me?" "O, yes!" says the Captain, "that same old coon, Take my advice and you'll clear out soon,"

Then Harry he groaned and groaned and swore, And stampeded and raved at the White House door, But Tyler he hinted that 'twas of no use, If he didn't clear out, he'd let the dogs loose,

Then Tyler turned to Polk, who stood And looked on the scene with a pleasant mood, And said, "step up, my good friend Jim; I'll let you in, but I can't let him."

The people won't suffer this ruler of Clay, And what they command I in haste obey. Come in, and get warm in the nation's hall; On the fourth of March you shall have it all!"

Together they entered, while down at the gate, The lawyer Clay bemoaned his fate; While Tyler to Polk inside did say, "The people have given a poke to Clay."

CHRISTIANITY.—Christianity, like a child, goes wandering over the world. Fearless in its innocence, it is not abashed before princes, nor confounded by the wisdom of synods. Before it the blood-stained warrior sheathes his sword, and plucks the laurel from his brow; the midnight murderer turns from his purpose, and like the heart smitten disciple, goes out and weeps bitterly. It brings liberty to the captive, joy to the mourner, freedom to the slave, repentance and forgiveness to the sinner, hope to the faint-hearted, and assurance to the dying. It enters the hut of poor men and sits down with them and their children; it makes them contented in the midst of privations, and leaves behind an everlasting blessing. It walks through great cities amid all their pomp and splendor, their insupportable pride and their unutterable misery, a purifying, ennobling, correcting and redeeming angel. It is like the beautiful companion of childhood and the comfortable associate of old age. It enables the noble; gives wisdom to the wise, and new grace to the lovely. The patriot, the priest, the poet and the eloquent man, all desire their sublime power from its influence.—Mary Howitt.

DRUNKARDS SHALL HAVE NO WIVES.—An excellent provision of law, though it be under a German principality. We know of some republics in which its enactment would do more good than harm. In Waldeck, a decree has been issued that no license to marry will hereafter be granted to any individual who is addicted to drunkenness; or having been so he must exhibit full proofs that he is no longer a slave to this vice. The same government have also directed that in every report made by the ecclesiastical, municipal, and police authorities upon the petition for license to marry, the report shall distinctly state whether either of the parties desirous of entering into the matrimonial connection is addicted to intemperance, or otherwise.

CALL AT THE CAPTAIN'S OFFICE.—On board of the steamer— a few days since, soon after leaving the wharf, the bell rang, and with it came the well-known cry—"All what haven't paid their fare, please call at the cap'n's office and set-tl-l-l-l-l-e." Shortly after, the supper table rang, and a passenger not altogether satisfied with his fare, called out—"Water-r-r-r-r, take this cup of coffee to the cap'n's office and have it set-tl-l-l-l-l-ed."

Piquant Discussion.—"No, Catharine," said Patrick to his wife, "you never catch a lie coming out of my mouth." "You may well say that," replied Kate, "they fly out so fast that nobody can catch 'em."

"Pa, does the world turn round?" "Yes, my dear; it turns on its axis once in twenty-four hours."

"How often is that?" "Why, once a day."

"Well, I thought so; for Mr. — goes down to Bondsville most every day with a jug, and before he gets home he has to stop and lay down beside the road, and hang on to the ground to keep from falling off."

OAKLEY'S DEPURATIVE SYRUP.

THE valuable properties of Oakley's Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, as a purifier of the blood, is so well known to the public generally, that it is unnecessary to occupy much space in setting forth the advantages to be derived from its use; wherever the medicine has once been introduced, it takes precedence over all others; every one that has taken it, has derived so signal beneficial results from it, that it is recommended by them with the utmost confidence.

PHILADELPHIA, February 10, 1838. FOR twenty years I was severely afflicted with Tetter on the Face and Head; the disease commenced when I was seventeen years old, and continued until the Fall of 1836, varying in violence, but without ever disappearing.

Reading, March 14, 1843. MR. OAKLEY:—I believe it the duty of every one to do whatever in their power, for the benefit of their fellow man, and having had positive proof in my own family, of the wonderful properties of your Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, I most conscientiously recommend it to the afflicted.

JOHN MOYER, Tailor, Walnut street, near Fourth, Reading, Douglassville, April 19th, 1843. MR. OAKLEY:—My son Edmund Leaf, had the scrofula in the most dreadful and distressing manner for three years, during which time he was deprived of the use of his limbs, his head and neck were covered with ulcers. We tried all the different remedies, but to no effect, until recommended by Dr. Johnson of Norristown, and also Dr. Isaac Hunter, of Reading, to use your Depurative Syrup of Sarsaparilla, which I obtained several bottles, the use of which drove the disease entirely out of his system, the sore healed up, and the child was restored to perfect health, which he has enjoyed uninterruptedly ever since.
