The wants of the public service are made known to you; and matters of no ordinary importance are urged upon your consi-Shall it not be permitted to congratuderation late you on the happy auspices under which you have assembled, and at the important change in the condition of things which has occurred in the last three years ? During that period questions with foreign powers of vital importance to the peace of our country, have been settled and adjusted. A desolating and wasting war, with savage tribes has been brought to a close. The internal tranquility of the country, threatened by agitating questions, has been preserved. The credit of the Government, which had experienced a temporary embarrassment, has been thoroughly restored. Its coffers, which, for a season, were empty, have been replenished. A curtency, nearly uniform in its value, has taken the place of one depreciated and almost worthless.

Commerce and manufactures, which had suffered in common with every other interest, have once more revived; and the whole country exhibits an aspect of prosperity and happiness. Trade and barter, no longer governed by a wild and speculative mania, rests upon a solid and substantial footing ; and the rapid growth of our cities, in every direction, bespeaks most strongly the favorable circumstances by which we are sur rounded. My happiness, in the retirement which shortly awaits me, is the ardent hope which I experience, that this state of prosperity is neither deceptive nor destined to be short lived, and that measures which have not yet received its sanction, but which I cannot but regard as closely connected with the honor, the glory, and still more enlarged prosperity of the country, are de-Congress.

Under these circumstances, and with these anticipations, I shall most gladly leave to others, more able than myself, the noble and pleasing task of sustaining the public prosperity. I shall carry with me into retirement the gratifying reflection that, as my sole object throughout has been to advance the public good, I may not engratification heightened, in no small degree, by the fact, that when, under a happy and abiding sense of duty, I have found myself constrained to resort to the qualified veto, it has neither been followed by disapproval on the part of the peoole, nor weakened, in any degree, their attachment to that great conservative feature of our JOHN TYLER. Government.

WASHINGTON, December, 1814.

AN INFIDEL COMMUNITY ORGANISED,---We have received several copies of a strange journal issued at Mottville. Onondaga county, New York, by a new social organization, who call themselves the 'Skeneatles Community.'

This singular community is founded on open and avowed infidel principles-opposition to Christianity, and all other religions-for they look upon Christ and Moses as on the same level with Mahomet and Buddah. They muster nearly one hundred persons of both sexes-occupying and cultivating a farm of several hundred acres, situated on the shores of the lovely lake of Skeneatles, in Onondaga county, New York .----They publish a weekly journal, called the Com-MUNITIST, in which appear all their views, doctrines, and movements.

This community had its origin in the efforts of John A Collins, who is a believer in this new system of socialism, derived partly from Fourier and other socialists of Europe. These people form an isolated community among themselves. -They marry, and are given in marriage-but only as long as they see fit-they have all property in common-and express, openly, every o- ligencer of last week, in speaking of the Rolling ieve to be true.

This is truly infidelity in a state of organiza-

Message itself.

DF In consequence of the absence of the editor, this week, and the arrival of the President's Message, we have not furnished our readers with the usual amount of editorial. Our readers will, however, find some useful and interesting matter in our selections.

BT THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE .- The Message of President Tyler, which will be found in stined, at an early day, to receive the approval of this paper, was delivered to Congress on Tuesday last, at noon, and arrived here on Thursday morning. The paper is a well written one, and of a moderate length, so that we may fairly recommend it to the perusal of our readers. It is of a generally interesting nature, and well worth the trouble of a careful examination. For want tirely have failed in accomplishing it : and this of room, we have given a short synopsis of that part referring to our relations with the various foreign powers. The President alludes very handsomely to the quietude which has characterized the election of a new ruler, and the beautiful contrast it presents to the world of the stability and excellence of our republican institutions. He urges the re-Annexation of Texas as a measure not only demanded by a wise policy, but by remark that in this quarter, the Danville Furthe will of the people. A reduction of the rates nace, after having undergone thorough repairs in of postage is recommended. The settlement of her hearth, engine, and hot blast fixtures, was the Oregon Territory is also advised. POSTAGE REFORM .--- It will be most acceptable news, to our readers generally, to know that light on this important subject has at length penetrated the darkest inner recesses of the Post-office Department. The New York Tribune says-We have authority in which we confide for stating, that Postmaster General Wickliffe will next week recommend to Congress a reduction of the rates of Postage to five cents for all distances under five hundred miles, and ten cents for all greater distances. There can be no doubt that Congress will readily concur, though the Post Office Committee of the House will interpose every obstacle in its power. This is a great step toward the right. There ought to be a still lower rate for shorter distances, but let us take this and then ask for more. Of course the Franking Privilege goes overboard, if there is any idea of making the Department sustain itself

CHEAP POSTAGE .- The New York American land is now uniform, and the enormous consequent increase of letters is exhibited by the fact. that whereas in 1838 the total number of letters was 75 millions, it was in 1843-230 millions ! producing a gross revenue of £1,620,000, or about eight millions of dollars! The editor then propounds the question-When shall we see in this Government of and for the people a like wise provision for the people's benefit ? Nowhere more than in the U. States would correspondence be multiplied, if postages were cheap as now they are in England. But to bring this about the franking privilege must be abolished, and there is the rub; for they who now enjoy it, the members of Congress, are to make the laws that will curtail their own priviliges ; and for that they lack the requisite patriotism.

BLOWING IN .- While we notice in our exchange papers, rumors of the suspension of iron works in other places, in consequence of the result of the late election, it affords us pleasure to eulogised, &c. But we refer our readers to the of the engine as now fixed, soon righted her, and she is now doing well. This makes four Anthracite Furnaces pow in blast at this place,
