States meet their public liabilities, and pay off products. their just deuts, at the carliest practicable period.

That they will do so, as soon as it can be done without imposing too heavy burdens on their citizens, there is no reason to doubt. The sound, moral and honorable feeling of the people of the indebted States, cannot be questioned ; and we are happy to perceive a settled disposition on their part, as their ability returns, after a season of unexampled pecuniary embarrassment, to pay off all just demands, and to acquiesce in any reasonable measures to accomplish that object.

One of the difficulties which we have had to encounter in the practical administration of the government, consists in the adjustment of our revenue laws, and the levy of the taxes necessary for the support of government. In the general proposition, that no more money shall be collected than the necessities of an economical administration shall require, all parties seem to acquiesce. Nor does there seem to be any material difference of opinion as to the absence of right in the government to tax one section of country, or one class of citizens, or one occupation, for the mere profit of another. "Justice and sound policy forbid the federal government to foster one branch of industry to the detriment of another, or to cherish the interests of one portion to the injury of another portion of our common country.

I have heretofore declared to my fellow citi-Government to extend, as far as it may be practicable to do so, by its revenue laws, and all other means within its power, fair and just protection to all the great interests of the whole Union, embracing agriculture, manufactures, the mechanic arts, commerce and navigation, I have also declared my opinion to be "in favor of a tariff for revenue," and that "in adjust. ed, will become stronger. ing the details of such a tariff. I have sanctioned such moderate discriminating daties as would produce the amount of revenue needed, and, at the same time, afford reasonable incidenta' protection to our home industry," and that I was "opposed to a tariff for protection merely, and not for revenue."

The power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises," was an indispensable one to be conferred on the federal government, which, without it, would possess no means of providing for its own support. In executing munication with her citizens, to the frontier obthis power, by levying a tariff of duties for the support of government, the raising of revenue should be the object, and protection the incident. To reverse this principle, and make protection the object, and revenue the incident, would be to inflict manifest injustice upon all other than the protected interests. In levving duties for revenue, it is doubtless proper to make such discriminations within the recenue principle, as will afford incidental protection to our home interests. Within the revenue lithit there is a discretion to discriminate ; beyoud that limit the rightful exercise of the power is not conceded.

The incidental protection afforded to our home interests by discriminations within the revenue range, it is believed will be ample. In making discriminations, all our home interests should, as far as practicable, be equally protected. The largest portion of our people are agriculturists. Others are employed in manufactures, commerce, navigation, and the mechanic arts.

They are all engaged in their respective pursuits, and their joint labors constitute the national or home industry. To tax one branch of this home industry for the benefit of another, would fully claim an advantage over the others, or to be enriched by impoverishing the others. All

ther in a legal nor a moral sense bound for the | by adding another member to our confederation debts of the States, and it would be a violation with the consent of that member-thereby diof our compact of Union to assume them, yet we | minishing the chances of war, and opening to cannot but feel a deep interest in seeing all the them new and ever-increasing markets for their To Texas the re-union is important, because the strong protecting arm of our government would be extended over her, and the vast resources of her fertile soil and genial climate would be speedily developed, while the safety of New Orleans and of our whole southwestern frontier against the hostile aggression, as well as the interests of the whole Union, would be promoted by it.

In the earlier stages of our national existence, the opinion prevailed with some, that our system of confederated states could not operate successfully over an extended territory, and serious objections have, at different times, been made to the enlargement of our boundaries. These objections were earnestly urged when we acquired Louisiana. Experience has shown that they were not well founded. The title of numerous Indian tribes to vast tracts of country has been extinguished. New States have been admitted into the Union; new territories have been created and our jurisdiction and laws extended over them.

As our population has expanded, the Union has been cemented and strengthened ; as our boundaries have been enlarged, and our agricultural population has been spread over a large surface, our confederative system has acquired additional strength and security. It may well be doubted whether it would not be in greater danger of overthrow if our present popzens, that, in "my judgment it is the duty of the ulation were confined to the comparatively narrow limits of the original thirteen States, than it is, now that they are sparsely settled over a more expanded territory. It is confidently believed that our system may be safely extended to the utmost bounds of our territorial limits; and that, as it shall be extended, the bonds of our Union, so far from being weaken-None can fail to see the danger to our safety and future peace, if Texas remains an independent State, or becomes an ally or dependency of some foreign nation more powerful than herself. Is there one among our citizens who would not prefer perpetual peace with Texas, to occasional wars, which so often occur between bordering independent nations? Is there one who would not prefer free intercourse with her, to high duties on all our products and manufactures which enter her ports or cross her frontiers ? Is there one who would not prefer an unrestricted comstructions which must occur if she remains out of the Union ? Whatever is good or evil in the local institutions of Texas, will remain her own, whether annexed to the United States or not. None of the present States will be responsible for them, any more than they are for the local institutions of each other. They have confederated together for certain specified objects.

Upon the same principle that they would refuse to form a perpetual Union with Texas, because of her local institutions, our forefathers would have been prevented from forming our present Union. Perceiving no valid objection to the measure, and many reasons for its adoption vitally affecting the peace, the safety, and the prosperity of both countries, I shall, on the broad principle which formed the basis and produced the adoption of our constitution, and not in any narrow spirit of sectional policy, endeavor, by all constitutional, honorable and appropriate means, to consummate the expressed will of the people and government of the United States, by the re-annexation of Texas to our Union at the earliest practicable period. Nor will it become in a less degree my duty to assert and maintain, by all constitutional means, the right of the United States to that porbe unjust. No one of these interests can right- Mountains. Our title to the country of the Ore tion of our territory which lies beyond the Rocky gon is "clear and unquestionable;" and already preparing to perfect that title by are equally entitled to the fostering care and occupying it with their wives and children. But are our people eighty years ago, our population was confined or In exercising a sound discretion in levying the west by the ridge of the Alleghanies. The world beholds the peaceful triumphs of the industry of our emigrants. To us belongs the duty of protecting them adequately whereever they may be upon our soil. The jurisdiction of our laws, and the benefits of our republican institutions, should be extended over them in the distant regions which they have selected for their The increasing facilities of intercourse homes. will easily bring the States, of which the formation in that part of our territory cannot be long delayed, within the sphere of our federative Union. In the mean time every obligation imposed by treaty or conventional stipulations should be sacredly respected. In the management of our foreign relations, it will be my aim to observe a careful respect for the rights of other nations, while our own will be the subject of constant watchfulness. Equal and exact justice should characterize all our intercourse with foreign countries. All alliances having a tendency to jeopard the welfare and honor of our country, or sacrifice any one of the national interests, will be studiously avoided; and yet no opportunity will be lost to cultivate a favorable understanding with foreign governments, by which our navigation and commerce may be extended, and the ample products of our fertile soil, as well as the manufactures of our skillful artisans find a ready market and remunerating prices in foreign countries. In taking 'care that the laws be faithfully executed,' a strict performance of duty will be exacted from all public officers. From those officers, especially, who are charged with the collec tion and disbursement of the public revenue, will prompt and rigid accountability be required. Any culpable failure or delay on their part to account for the moneys instrusted to them, at the times and in the manner required by law, will, in every instance, terminate the official connexion of such defaulting officer with the government. Although, in our country, the chief magistrate must almost of necessity be chosen by a party. to interfere with them, or to take exceptions to and stand pledged to its principles and measures, their re-union. Foreign powers do not seem yet, in his official action, he should not be the President of a party only. but of the whole people of the U. States. While he executes the laws with an impartial hand, shrinks from no proper States, whose policy is peace with each other and all the world. To enlarge its limits, is to principles and policy of those who have chosen him, he should not be unmindful that our fellow citizens who have differed with him in opinion are entitled to the full and free exercise of their opinions and judgments, and that the rights of all are entitled to equal respect and regard.

Rule of Court.

Peter Shiley's admirs. vs. William Welker.

N the Court of Common Pleas of Northumberland county, January 14th, 1845, on motion of protection of the government, ed, care should be taken that it be done in a of some of my hearers-our people, increasing to manner not to ben fit the wealthy few, at the expense of the toiling millions, by taxing lowest the luxuries of life, or articles of superior quality and high price, which can only be consumed by the wealthy ; and highe-t the necessaries of life, or articles of coarse quality and low price. which the poor and great mass of our people must consume.

The burdens of Government should, as far as practicable, be distributed justly and equally among all classes of our population. These general views, long entertained on this subject, I have deemed it proper to reiterate. It is a subject upon which conflicting interests of sections and occupations are supposed to exist, and a spirit of mutual concession and compromise in adjusting its details should be cherished by every part of our wide-spread country, as the only means of preserving harmony and a cheerful acquiescence of all in the operation of our revenue laws.

Our patriotic citizens in every part of the Union will readily submit to the payment of such taxes as shall be needed for the support of their government, whether in peace or in war, if they are so levied as to distribute the burdens as equally as possible among them.

The republic of Texas has made known her desire to come into our Union, to form a part of our confederacy, and enjoy with us the blessings of liberty, secured and guaranteed by our constitution. Texas was once a part of our country -was unwisely celled away to a foreign power -is now independent, and possesses an undoubted right to dispose of a part or the whole of her territory, and to merge her sovereignty, as a separate and independent State, in ours.

I congratulate my country that, by an act of the late Congress of the U. States, the assent of this government has been given to the re-union ; and it only remains for the two countries to agree upon the terms, to consummate an object so important to both.

I regard the question of annexation as belonging exclusively to the United States and Texas. They are independent powers, competent to contract ; and foreign nations have no right to appreciate the true character of our government.

Our Union is a confederation of independent extend the dominion of peace over additional territories and increasing millions. The world has nothing to fear from military ambition in our government.

While the Chief Magistrate and the popular branch of Congress are elected for short terms by the suffrages of those millions who must, in their own persons, bear all the burdens and miseries of war, our government cannot be otherwise than pacific.

Foreign powers should, therefore, look on the annexation of Texas to the United States, not and motected our beloved country from its inas the conquest of a nation seeking to extend fancy to the present hour, to continue His graher dominishes by arms and violence, but as the cious benedictions upon us, that we may con-peaceful acquisition of a territory once her own, tinue to be a prosperous and happy people.

Confidently relying on the aid and assistance of the co-ordinate apartments of the Government in conducting our public affairs, i enter upon the discharge of the high duties which have been as. signed me by the people, again humbly supplicating that Divine Being who has watched over
