at Locust Gap. The mountain here is about 13 miles through it, containing twenty-four veins of coal, varying in thickness from 5 to 30 feet. And though some twenty-five miles further from Philadelphia than some other regions, the facilities for mining and the ready recess of the coal would curtail the expenses to an amount much greater than the cost of transportation for the increased distance.

The completion of the projected rail road from Schuylkill Haven to the eastern termination of his manhood. The storms of his manhood drew the Danville and Pottsville railroad, near the the attention of his countrymen to the nature of town of Shamokin, connecting the Reading their free institutions, and made them familiar with the Danville and Pottsville road, would at with the principles by which they were to be once develope the riches of this region, and bring perpetuated. When we see the humble orphan its mineral wealth directly to market at Philadelphia.

A thorough examination of the ground by survey, was made last spring by Mr. Cleaver, a skillful engineer, who says in his report, that a rail road from Shamokin to Schuylkill Haven, a distance of 36 miles, through Locust Gap, (nature made the Gap for a rail road to pass through) without an inclined plane, or such high grades as shall be objectionable to locomotive engines, drawing heavy burden trains. This road completed, Philabelphia and Sunbury at the junction of the north & west branches of the Susquehanna, will be connected by a continuous rail road of 152 miles in length, without an inclined plane or other obstructions to the passage of locomotive engines, the whole length He was laid by the side of his wife! Their of the route. The trade of the north and west MEARTS were united on EARTH-their SPIRITS branel; canals, together with the army of pas- shall mingle in Heaven-and the FLOWERS, that sengers that would travel this way, in addition bloom over their resting place, shall blend their to the iron and coal and other products that sweet perfume together." would be carried on this road, could not fail to make it at least as profitable as the Mine Hill rail road that carries coal only; and that road pays a heavy dividend. There is no projected Philadelphia has so deep an interest.

Make this connecting link of rail road, and neither the "Shnylkill Navigation," with al'its increased facilities of steam navigation, nor the Reading rail road with its double track and mammoth locamotive, drawing almost endless at 50 a 100 cents, as in condition. trains of coal cars, need fear competition from the other. My word for it, in one year after the road shall be in operation, both will have work enough to do. The feeling of rivalry which now exists between them, would be supplanted by a desire to assist each other, rather than throw obstacles in each other's way. Why, I was told by good authority, that the "Danville Iron Company" have said if the Reading Rail Road Company will make the tond from Schaylkill Haven to the town of Shamokin, that they will make a road from Danville to intersect it at a distance of 9 miles, and guarantee to run eighty thousand tons of freight on it per led; all who use them recommend them; their virannum, themselves.

If these companies will examine the matter minutely, they will be convinced that I am correct. If capitalists of Philadelphia will look into it, they will find that I have not overdrawn in the description, but that not more than one half of the advantages have been named.

Important and Giorious News from Texas.

crated to the independence of our country, we hail the re-union of Texas with the United States We will now tread the road of freedom and greatness together. This news comes to us by the Princeton steamer, which arrived at Annapolis to-day at 2 o'clock. Dr. Wright brings the despatches from Annapolis. He left Washington, Texas, on the 21st June, and arrived at Galveston on the 22d-on which day the Princeton left that place. We are favored by the Doctor with the following memoranda :-

"The United States Ship Princeton, Commodore Stockton, arrived at Annapolis, from Galveston, Texas, after the short passage of nine days, having consumed only 93 tons of coal. She steamed against head winds, with the exception of only 36 hours, when she was assisted by her sails. No Atlantic steamer has ever made so good an hourly average, with the same economy of fuel, and, considering all the circumstances, it may be regarded an unprecedented passage.

"The news brought by the Princeton is of the most interesting character. Both houses of the Texan Congress have unanimously consented to the terms of the joint resolutions of the United States. The Senate had rejected the treaty with Mexico by a unanimous vote. Captain Waggaman had arrived at Washington, Texas, to select posts to be occupied by the United States troops, and to provide for their subsistence. A resolution was introduced into both houses of Congress requiring the executive to surrender all posts, navy yards, barracks, &c., to the proper authorities of the United States. The joint resolutions were introduced into both houses of Congress on the same day, and were almost identical in their tenor. The resolutions passed the Senate on the 18th of June, and were sent to the House; the House laid them on the table, and sent them to the Senate on the next day. In the mean time, considerable jeulousy arose as to which branch should claim the honor of paternity of the resolutions: and it was finally settled that the House should take up the resolutions of the Senate, and amend them in third section. The House then passed them in their present form, and sent them back to the Senate, which body concurred in the amendment. The President is pledged to give full and immediate effect to the will of Congress, so far as depends upon himself."

The Texan Convention, which was to meet 4th of July, there was no doubt would adopt a Constitution for the Government of the State of Texas, as a member of the United States. President Jones submitted a message to Congress, referring to the treaty with Mexico, along with the resolution of annexation .- Washington Union, July 5.

Extract of Judge Lewis' Speech. The following is extracted from the address of Judge Lewis, before the people of Lancaster, at the funeral ceremonies of General Jackson :-"His early participation in the revolutionary struggle for independence attached him to the principles of liberty-and the loneliness of his orphan desolation, which stripped him of every object of love, concentrated his undivided affections upon his country; the hardships of his wouth enabled him to sustain the storms which assailed boy become a mighty ruler, we feel increased attachment to our form of Government which secures alike to high and low its blessings and honors. In his old age, he taught the lesson that the man who had occupied the most exalted station in the whole world, was not too proud to become a follower of the 'meek and lowly Jesus' -that the Spirit which had never quailed to MAN could bow in meek submission to the will of God-and that while Royalty was seeking his likeness to ornament its halls, and Antiquity was surrendering its monuments to adorn his sepulchre, he preferred a simple burial by the side of his deceased companion, to the vain ambition of reposing in a Sarcophagus, which had preserved the remains of a monarch of the old world more than a thousand years

TROSE OF OUR CITIZENS Who desire a good Medicine, will find one in the justly celebrated Pills of Doctor Brandreth, which have performed cures upon thousands of helple-s and hopeless persons, after the usual scientific skill of p. ysicians had consoled them with the assurance that they could do no more. The properties of these Pills, as an anti-bilious and aperiment medicine, are unrividtues surpass all eulogy, and must be used to be appreciated. The weak and delicate will be strengthened by their use, not by bracing, but by removing the cause of the weakness, the gross and corrupt humors of the body. They require no change in the diet, or care of any kind. Plain directions accompany each box, so that every one is his own competent physician.
