

From the Matamoros Flag Santa Anna's Address to his Army at Santa Anna, Vera Cruz.

"Soldiers," said he, "our country has furnished no supplies; fortunately, the enemy have them in advance, and rest assured we have only to go and take them; this is your last ration; our next meal will be in the enemy's camp."

Greasers, whom I've often led, Greasers, with whom I've often fed, Greasers, whom I've never fed, Come and dine with me.

Now's the time and now's the hour, See the front of pork barrels lower,
Soon we'll have them in our power, On Buena Vista's sea.

By Palo Alto's bloody plains,
By Resaca's gory steins,
We will risk our jugular veins,
For beans and victory.

Who but feels himself a knave, We each can fill a coward's grave, Let each his honor try to save,
To feed his chivalry.

We fight for "grub" and not for fame, Gamblers always play "grab game," But the great cock-fighter being lame, Will stay behind the spree.

Then onward to the hungry fray, Pork and "frijoles" upon the day, But ah!—the cowards run away, See them turn and flee.

The cock-pit General's now undone, Carambo! why your dinners shun?
Why from yelling Yankees run?
Now go and starve for me.

Santa Anna's Despatch to the Minister at War.
Your Excellency, we've won the day, My "heroes" fought amid the fray,
And whipped the Yankees without pay,
And then—we run away.

DR. FRANKLIN ON SPELLING.—Dr. Franklin says, in one of his letters.—"You need not be concerned, in writing to me, about bad spelling for, in my opinion, what is called bad spelling is generally the best, as conforming to the sound of the letter. To give you an instance, a gentleman received a letter, in which were these words:—'Not finding Brown at home I delivered my message to his wife.' The gentleman called his wife to help him read it. Between them they picked out all but the 'w', which they could not understand. The lady proposed calling her chambermaid, 'because Betty,' said she, 'has the best knack of reading bad spelling, of any one I know.' Betty came, and was much surprised that neither of them could tell what the 'w' was. 'Why,' says she, 'it spells 'wife'; what else can it spell?' And indeed it is a much better, as well as a shorter method than DOUBLETWIFE, I, F, K, which, in reality spells DOUBLETWIFE."

LADIES WITH UMBRELLAS.—A correspondent of one of our contemporaries says:— Goldsmith thought that a pretty woman arrayed in all her charms, was the most terrible object in creation! I think so too with the slight amendment of substituting umbrella instead of charms. A pretty woman armed with an umbrella on a side walk, is truly a person to be feared. She does not of course turn out, any more than an engine on a railway. On one occasion, a gentleman lost an eye on encountering one of these umbrellas in the hands of a fair one; but making the best of it, he passed on when another lady immediately knocked off his hat, and deprived him of his remaining organ. He was taken home by a gentleman who was at hand, for women take no notice of the wounded; but he never recovered his eyesight so that he was afterwards never able to see the difference, in the street, between a lady and a woman.

JOSEPH C. NEAL, the 'Charcoal Sketcher,' in his limning of 'Tribulation Trepid, a man without a Hope,' thus admirably hits off that class of people who are never so happy as when they are miserable:—
'How are you, Trepid? How do you feel today, Mr. Trepid?'
'A great deal worse than I was, thank'ee; most dead, I am obliged to you; I'm always worse than I was, and I don't think I'm ever any better. I'm very sure, any how, I'm not going to be any better; and for the future you may always know I'm worse, without asking any questions, for the questions make me worse if nothing else does.'

'Why, Trepid, what's the matter with you?'
'Nothing, I tell you, in particular; but a great deal is the matter with me in general; and that's the danger, because we don't know what it is. That's what kills people, when they can't tell what it is. That's what kills people, when they can't tell what it is; that's what kills me. My great grandfather died of it, and so will I. The doctors don't know; and they can't tell; they say I'm bad enough, and so there's no help. I'm going off some of these days, right after my great grandfather, dying of nothing in particular, but of every thing in general. That's what finishes our folks.'

'A BRAVE MAN' said the Danish creed of honor, "should attack two—stand firm against three; give ground a little to four, and only retreat to five." Gen. Taylor has established a new creed for Americans. It is to attack four; stand firm against eight; give not an inch of ground to a dozen—and retreat under no circumstance.

Try Rousell's Universal

SHAVING CREAM.
Small quantities given without Charge.

At 114 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA.
THIS new and splendid article, as its name denotes, is professed to be superior to any Shaving Cream in the United States or Europe. It is unsurpassed for beauty, purity and fragrance, tho' somewhat analogous to Gu-rain's Ambrosial Cream and other similar compounds. It far surpasses them all by the em-lient pesty consistency of its lather, which softens the beard as to render shaving pleasant and easy. It further possesses the advantage over the imported article, in being freshly prepared, so skill being wanting in its manufacture. E. Rousell having had many years' experience in the celebrated Laboratory of Laugur, Paris & Co., now Renaud & Co., of Paris.

Besides being the best, it is the cheapest article for shaving; it is elegantly put up in boxes, with splendid steel engraved labels.
Price $3 per dozen, or 37 1/2 cents for a single box, to shave one year. It is also sold at $1 50 per lb., or 12 1/2 cents per oz., so that gentlemen can have their beards shaven at a very low price. EUGENE ROUSSELL'S.
