

Major Noah says what is appended below.—What will the ladies do with the fellow for being so ungallant and naughty? Hear him.

The man who breaks his back in bowing to a lady—who walks in the mud that one of the other sex may not—who subjects himself to the danger of death in riding on the outside of the coach in the rain, to make room inside for a female who might conveniently wait for the next vehicle—who meekly endures every affront put upon him in obedience to silly caprice—who submits quietly to any wrong if it is inflicted by a daughter of Eve—is a gallant man! according to popular prejudice. Very well again. We don't believe a word of it. Everybody,—male or female—is entitled to courtesy and respect when they award them to others,—but the notion of gallantry may be carried a little too far. A woman has no right to demand the sacrifice of a he-creature's comfort to her own. About a year ago a gentleman at one of the Philadelphia theatres was dragged into the street and covered with bruises, because he refused to vacate a seat for which he had paid and negotiated, to permit a strange female to occupy it.—This was an outrage for which every actor in it ought to have found six months' residence in Moyamensing prison, and yet every body said.—Served the impolite fellow properly. What business had he to sit when a lady wanted his place in a crowded house? Was ever a mistaken notion of chivalry carried to such extremes? Why did not the lady insist on having the gentleman's hat and boots?

Treat woman with kindness and the most scrupulous respect, so long as they conduct themselves in keeping with the attributes of their sex: when they depart from the observance of those qualities—coincide us in the streets—outrant us in public assemblies—talk politics with knowing air—don the unwhisperables—and insist upon slavish homage and the neglect of every personal right in obedience to their tyrannical wishes, avoid them, for they feel them as Eve did when she coaxed daddy Adam to devour that fatal apple, core and all, and are thinking of another 'Fall of Man.'

A Good Story.—There lived lately in one of the mountainous counties in Western Pennsylvania many Germans, and among them one Henry Snyder, and there were likewise two brothers, called George and Jake Fulwiler—they were all rich, they each owned a mill.—Henry Snyder was subject to fits of derangement, but they were not of such a nature as to render him disagreeable to any one. He merely conceived himself to be the Supreme Ruler of the Universe; and, while under the infatuation, he had himself a throne built, on which he sat to try the cause of all who offended him; and passed them off to heaven or hell, as his humor prompted—he personating both Judge and culprit.

It happened one day that some difficulty occurred between Henry Snyder and the Fulwilers, on account of their mills; when, to be avenged, Henry Snyder took along with him a book in which he recorded his judgments, and mounted his throne to try their causes. He was heard to pass the following judgments. Having prepared himself, (acting as Judge and yet replying for the accused,) he called George Fulwiler.

'Shorge Fulwiler, stand up. What hast thou been doin in dis lower world?' 'Ah! Lort, I does not know.' 'Well, Shorge Fulwiler, has't you got a mill?' 'Yes, Lort, I has.'

'Well, Shorge Fulwiler, did't you never take too much toll?' 'Yes, Lort, I has—when der water was low, and mien stones wash dull, I take a lectle too much toll.' 'Well, den, Shorge Fulwiler, you must go to der left, and der goats.'

'Well, Shake Fulwiler, now you stand up—What you been doin in dis lower world?' [The trial proceeded throughout precisely like the former, and with the same result.] 'Now I tries myself, Henry Snyder!—Henry Snyder! stand up. What hast thou been doin in dis lower world?' 'Ah! Lort, I does not know.'

'Well, Henry Snyder, did't you never take too much toll?' 'Yes, Lort, I has—when der water wash low and mien stones wash dull, I has taken a lectle too much toll.' 'But, Henry Snyder, vat did you do wid der toll.'

'Ah! Lort, I gives it to der poor. (Pausing.) 'Well Henry Snyder, you must go to der right der sheep; but it is a lam right squeeze!'

Trp Mousel's Anversal SHAVING CREAM. Small quantities given without charge. At 114 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA. THIS new and splendid article, as its name denotes, is pronounced to be superior to any Shaving Cream in the United States or Europe. It is unsurpassed for beauty, purity and fragrance, tho' somewhat analogous to Guerlain's Ambrosial Cream and other similar compounds. It far surpasses them all by the eminent past consistency of its lather, which softens the beard as to render shaving pleasant and easy. It further possesses the advantage over the imported article, in being freshly prepared, no skill being wanting in its manufacture. E. Mousel having had many years' experience in the celebrated Laboratory of Lassar, Pere at Paris, now Mousel & Co., of Paris. Besides being the best, it is the cheapest article for shaving; it is elegantly put up in boxes, with splendid steel engraved labels. Price $3 per dozen, or 37 1/2 cents for a single box, to have one year. It is also sold at $1 50 per lb. or 12 1/2 cents per oz., so that gentlemen can have their boxes filled at EUGENE ROUSSEL'S, Wholesale and Retail Perfumery and Mineral Water Establishment, 114 Chestnut Street, Dec. 19, 1846.—PHILADELPHIA.

EXTRAORDINARY DISCOVERY! DEAFNESS CAN BE CURED!! COOPER'S ETERNAL OIL.—A prompt and reliable remedy for DEAFNESS, also for pains and discharge of matter from the Ears. Hundreds of cures in cases deemed utterly hopeless have firmly established its superiority over every former Medical discovery. This valuable Acoustic Medicine is a compound of four different Oils, one of which, the active and principal ingredient, is obtained from the bark of a certain species of Wax-tree, a new and effectual agent in the cure of Deafness. Persons who have been deaf for 10, 15 and even 20 years, have been permanently cured by using this oil. In fact, so numerous and so emphatic have been the testimonials in its favor, that the inventor claims for it the distinction of an infallible Remedy, in all cases, when the Ear is perfect in its formation. For further particulars, and evidence of its great value, see printed sheets, in the hands of Agents. For sale in Sunbury, by J. W. FRILING. September 19th, 1846.—1y
