college basketball tournament roundup

MCI Harbor Classic BALTIMORE — It was another night and another Brian Williams.

After struggling in Maryland's season-opening victory. Williams gave himself a talking to and responded by leading the Terps to a 77-69 victory over Mississippi in the championship game of the MCI Harbor Classic basketball tournament.

The heralded 6-foot-11 freshman center scored 20 points — including awe-inspiring dunks grabbed 12 rebounds and blocked five shots against Ole Miss. The performance came one night after he lasted only 27 minutes before fouling out with five points, one rebound and no blocks.

'We looked at the films yesterday. Brian was sort of play-acting. He was not aggressive playing defense," Maryland Coach Bob Wade said. "He was trying to draw the charge calls and the officials were not giving them to him and he was coming up with the cheap fouls.

"We set him down and let him see it and we just told him, 'If you're going to foul someone, foul someone. Don't be giving up the cheap fouls.' He really felt bad last night because he really felt he did not contribute to his teammates.

"Today he just made a little solemn oath to himself that he was just going to go out there and play hard, which he did.'

Williams scored seven points in the Terps' 16-2 game-opening run and, along with brothers Derrick and Cedrick Lewis, helped Maryland take control behind an intimidating inside game.

'That's what you really look for. We've got some kids who can block some shots and be intimidators inside," Wade said. "Derrick and Brian and Cedrick did a fine job inside. They got us out of the gate and we were able to come up with some cheap baskets. That's what we need.

"Those are things that have been missing from our program. Hopefully we've got them in place now. We've just got to continue to build from

The Terps, who are off to a 2-0 start this year after a 9-17 campaign a year ago, succeeded in impressing Mississippi Coach Ed Murphy.

"They've made vast improvement over last year. They're a very good team," Murphy said of Maryland. "(Wade has) probably one more year away as far as getting up into the middle of the (ACC) league and really being a really solid Murphy was not disappointed with his young Mississippi team, which pulled within 22-20 in the first half and 61-59 in the second half but could not get the lead.

"When you rebuild with freshmen, there still are difficulties you've got to go through. You've got to be patient," Murphy said. "I'm not going in there and yell and throw things at them. I didn't go in and hug them last night. All the matters is the next Mississippi made just 25 of 74 shots from the field (33.8 percent), but outrebounded Maryland 44-36. Tim Jumper led the Rebels with 19 points.

Derrick Lewis led Maryland with 27 points and junior-college transfer Rudy Archer ran the Terps' offense almost flawlessly, passing for six assists with only one turnover.

In the third-place game earlier Saturday night, St. Joseph's defeated Loyola of Maryland 64-52 behind freshman Richard Stewart's 16 points.

By STEFAN FATSIS

Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA - Tim Wunsch of St. Louis held off Charles Ellis of Endicott, N.Y., yesterday to win the rain-soaked Philadelphia Independence Marathon in 2 hours, 24 minutes, 8 seconds

Lori Lawson, a 21-year-old medical student from Philadelphia, finished in 2:54:12 to win the women's division of the 26.2-mile race from Independence Hall to Memorial Hall in the city's Fairmount Park.

About 1,700 people entered the miles but had enough of a lead to race, which was run in steady rain. blustery winds and temperatures in the mid- to upper 40s.

No runners qualified for the U.S. Olympic trials in April. Wunsch and Lawson both missed by 4 minutes

The winning times were also short of the race records of 2:14:59 and 2:32:16, set on a different course in 1982

Wunsch, 26, who is in his last semester at Missouri Baptist College, faded over the final three win by 20 seconds.

"I was feeling really good until the 23rd mile or so and then kind of fell apart," said Wunsch, who was bothered by tight leg and shoulder muscles. "I was fortunate to hold it in." He led from the 15-mile mark.

"The whole race was very, very windy," Wunsch said. "It seemed like the wind was in your face the whole way. I was really disappointed in the time but on a day like this you just hope to win.

Wunsch opened a big lead over 2:55:07.

"I was hoping he wasn't going to take off that early but he did," said Ellis, 27, who finished in 2:24:28. "If I had had another 300 or 400 yards, I think I would have had him.

Allen Naylor of Adelphi, Md., was third in 2:26:37, followed by Bob Winn of Ogunquit, Maine, in 2:27:44
