Religious Teleration.

80

We have met with nothing better, in our late reading, than the following, from the pen of Jeremy Taylor. It suggests the exquisite lines of Coler-

"He prayeth best who loveth well Both man, and bird, and beast; He prayeth best who loveth best All things both great and small, For the dear God, who leveth us, He made and loveth all,"

Any zeal is proper for religion but the zeal of the sword and the zeal of an. ger; this is the bitterness of zeal, and it is a certain temptation to every man against his duty; for if the sword turns preacher and dietates propositions by empire instead of arguments, and engraves them in men's hearts with a poignard that it shall be death to believe what I innocently and ignorently am pursuaded of, it must needs be unsafe to "try the spirits," to "try all things," to make an inquiry; and yet without this liberty no man can justify himself before God or man, nor confidently say that his reli- time. gion is best. This is inordination of zeal; for Christ, by reproving St. Peter for drawing his sword even in the cause of Christ for his sacred and yet, injured person, teaches us not to use the sword, though in the cause of God or for God himself, I end with a story which I find in the Jews' books.

When Abraham sat at his tent-door, according to his custom, waiting to en. tertain strangers, he espied an old man stooping and leaning on his staff, weary with age and travel, coming towards him, who was a hundred years of age. He received him kindly, washed his feet provided supper, caused him to sit down; but observing that the old man ate, and prayed not, nor begged for a blessing on his meat, he asked him why he did not worship the God of heaven. old man told him that he worshiped the fire only, and acknowledged no other God. At which answer Abraham grew so zealously angry that he thrust the old man out of his tent and exposed him to all the evils of the night and an unguar. ded condition. When the old man was gone, God called to Abraham and asked him where the stranger was. He re. plied, I thrust him away because he did not worship thee. God answered him, I have suffered him these hundred years, although he dishonered me; and couldst thou not endure him one night when he gave thee no trouble? Upon this, saith the story Abraham fetched him back again, and gave him hospitable enter. tainment and wise instruction Go thou and do likewise, and thy charity will be rewarded by the God of Abra-50 ham.

VERMONT AAECDOTE .- The late Rev. Zeb Twitchell was the most noted Methodist minister in Vermont for shrewd and laughable sayings. In the pulpit he maintained a suitable gravity of manner and expression, but out of the pulpit he overflowed with fun. Occasionally he would, if emergency scamed to require, introduce something queer into his sermon for the sale of arousing the flagging attention of his hearers. It was he who originated the story of the great mosquitoes. Socing that his audience were getting sleepy, he paused in his discourse and digressed as follows: "Brethren, you havn't any idea of the suffering of our missionaries in the new 50 settlements,ou account of the mosquitoes. The mosquitoes in some of those 30 regions are enormous. A great many of them will weigh a pound and they will get on the logs and bark when the missionaries are going along." By this time all ears and eyes were 15 open, and he proceeded to finish his dis.

The next day one of his hearers called him to account for his telling lies in the pulpit.

"There never was a musquito that weighed a pound," said he. "But I didn't say one of them would weigh a pound; I said a great many of them would weigh a pound, and I think 20 a million of them would." "But you said they barked at the 50 missionaries." "No, no, brother. I said they would I get on the logs and bark."
