J. D. B. DE BOW.

The editor of Dr B w's Review died at his residence in Etzabeth, New Jerrev, on the 27th. Mr De Bow was torn is Charleston, South Carolina, in 1810. After receiving a thorough edreation, be studied law, was admitted to the bar, and soon a quired a large practice. His taste, however, led him towards literary pursuits, and in 1845 he established his Review in New Orleans, 10 1848 he became Professer of Political Economy and Commercial Statistics in the University of Louisiana, and in 1853 Superintendent of the Unifed States Census: About this time he compiled from his Reciere three volumes. under the title, "Industrial Resources of the Southwest," which remains a co-1y valuable work. Since the war Mr. I'e How had devoted his time and talents to the interests of the Southern see tion of the nation, and his labors had not been barren of fruits. A close student, a clear thinker and an industrious man, it is no wonder that Mr. DeBow has left his mark upon many of the institutions of the country.

typographical errors: One day last year Mr. Greely wrote an editorial entitled " William II. Leward." I magine his rage when it came to him in proof headed "Richard the Third!" Yet anybody familiar with ehirography, it his inky jerks can be so designed, will readily see not only how such a mistake could be made, but how it probably would be. Again he wrote about "three men in buckram," and the prosaic type-setter got it "three men in a back room."

And this, notwithstanding the fa t that two composers of sagacity and experience are hired at an extra salary, because they can read his copy. But Geo. Ripley has been the victim of the gressest outrages in that line. In one of his book notices he took the liberty to quote from Shakespear : "Tis true, tis Lity, and the wretched bungler got "Tis two, 'tis fifty ;- 'tis fitty two!" That is some worse than James F. Bap cock's martyrdom, when he wrote, "Is there no balm in Gilead ?" and read next morning, to his consternation, "Is there no barn in Guilford?" Mr. ('rawford, a member of parliament, recently sent to India the message, "The news from America favors the holders." and it arrived there with he information hat "News from America savors of ANECDOTE OF GEN. LEE .- The edis tor of the Galveston Civilian has from Gen Longstreet (who proncunces Gon) Lee "the best man in the world") the tollowing anecdo e of the great Confed-crate Chieftain : "th one occasion Gen. Lee called Cal, L., one of his staff officers, into his ent, and commenced dictating while Col. L. wrote. Col. L. had in his mouth a pipe, and was smoking. The General phaled the noxious vapor until his patience became exhausted, and then said : Col. L., you can retire and send me f'ol. -; he does not smoke." Col L. retired, and in a tew moments Col - entered, to whom the General commenced dictating; but after inhaling the atmosphere of the tent awhile, he discovered it to be considerably impregnated, not with the perfume of roses, but the o lious smell of villainous whiskey, which he could not stand. "Retire, Col. - and send me an officer who prither drinks nor smokes; I would tather endure the smoke-of tobacco than ine smell of whiskey."

In Court. - Madam" the Lawyer demanded "what sort of conduct have y a pursued through life that should subject you to the suspicion of this outtree upon the plantiff?"

She answered: "Impudence, which has been the making of you, has caused
