GENERAL BUTLER'S WIFE .- AS Mrs. Butler shares the fortunes of her husband in fortress or camp, or wherever he may be called, a brief allusion to her in this department of our paper will be acceptable to our readers:

Mrs. General Butler, nee Miss Sarah Hildreth, was for several years before her marriage very successfully connected with the stage in some of the largest cities of the Union. She made her debut in the Old Park Theater in 1839, as Marianna, in "The Wife." In 1843, acting manager W. H. Chippendale, ("Old Chip,") engaged her for the leading lady of the New National. Theater, where she opened as "Rosalind," in "As You Like It," but becoming fatigued and worn with study, resigned her position after three months, (during which time she had performed a star engagement at Louisville,) and received a complimentary benefit, which was crowded by the elite of Cincinnati, with whom she had a large acquaintance. On that occasion she performed the character of "Ion" with marked ability and applause.

Mr. Butler, to whom she was then engaged, was present at the performance, (having come out to accompagy her home to Lowell,) and expressed his surprise and gratification at her triumph. They were soon after married, and it is said she exacted a condition from him, that she should be allowed to return to the stage at the end of one year if she wished, but the care of a family changed her troops a bounty of thirty dollars per anviews, and she has never since appeared before the public.

THE GALLANT MEAGHER .- This Irish patriot behaved nobly in the action at Manassas Junction. He was Captain of a company in the New York Sixty-Ninth, and when one of our banners was captured, he raised the Flag of Erin, and dashipg into the midst of the enemy, recaptured it, and bore it off in triumph. He has since been elected Lieutenant | he has shown great energy in important Colonel of the Sixty-Ninth, to supply the place of the lamented Lieut. Colonel Haggerty, who fell in battle.

HAVELOCKS .- The name of the gallant Indian General is almost universally applied to the sunshades of our troops .--Anybody who will study Egyptian paintings will see that sliades of the same cut were used in the same why by the Egyptian troops' before Moses' time. This arrangement illustrates the old Southern principle of givsmallest number of placeholders. This was their weakness under the federal

🐨 We learn by a letter from an officer at Cairo, that the visit of General Fremont to that point has stirred up the dry bones thoroughly, and given the industrious a vast amount of labor. Col. Waogner, formerly of Gov. Kossuth's staff, who was favorably referred to in the Commercial of the 1st inst., was offered a brigadier generalship, but preferred the part to which his experience and education more strongly directed him, and was appointed by Major General Fremont, Chief of Artillery of his department, with a command of 133 guns. W. F. Brinck, Esq., of Cincinnati, was appointed chief secretary to this department, with the rank of captain.

There were no persons present on the occasion except the immediate relatives and Rev. Mr. McAuley. The only ceremony at the cemetery was a short prayer by Rev. Mr. McAuley.

At his request, and impelled by a desire to extend a knowledge of this remedy to the pub-lic, we have had his communication printed in pamphlet form for free distribution. Its interest is enhanced by an account which he gives of some of the scenes of the Syrian massacres, which he obtained from those who suffered in that awful tragedy. GOOD FOR "HIS REVERENCE."-Father Quinn, Chaplain of the First Rhode Island regiment, is a wit as well as a priest. It is a notewothy fact that the Cheshire Light Guard, of Keene, N. H., attached to the Second New Hampshire Regiment, have been supplied with eight tents, seven of which were captured from the British in the War of 1812. They are now the property of the town of Keene, and have been well preserved .---They all bear the mark."G. R." Even in chivalrous South Carolina it appears that there is a reluctance to enlist. The Charlestown Courier says :---'There is in our community too great a disposion to shirk active duty. Some hold back because others do-some must have commissions-some have families, or business, or are members of organizations which they know will not be ordered out of the city-some are legally or professionally exempt. Now this state of things is discreditable to us. The enemy is almost at our door.
