He's back: Mario Lemieux returned to action Tuesday night after missing 23 games while receiving radiation treatment for Hodgkin's disease. Out for nearly two months, Lemieux never missed a beat as he scored a goal and had an assist in the Penguins' 5-4 loss to the Philadelphia Flyers.

Hot end: Reggie White, the Philadelphia Eagle's star defensive end, is sparking interest all over the National Football League after becoming a free agent on Monday. At least eight teams have expressed interest in White including the Phoenix Cardinals, who called at 12:01 a.m. Monday morning, one minute into his free agency.

Homeward bound: Dave Winfield, who is only 34 and shy of 3000, is back in his home state of Minnesota to try and do it. Winfield grew up in St. Paul and played all of his college baseball at the University of Minnesota. He will be the Twins' designated hitter this year.

More warrior: The Pittsburgh Pirates added another worry to their list as newly acquired right-handed pitcher Alejandro Pena was found to still have a serious case of peritonitis just as he was about to pitch. Pena, picked up by the Pirates' new manager, will be out for the season if he needs surgery.

FBA underway: The Flagship City Open is being held this week at Ed's own Eastway Center. Two local natives, Ron Palumbo Jr. and Bob Lewis Jr., are looking to make it to Saturday's final round being televised on ABC.

Graduate returns

Not even a year out of college, Paul Benim has done more with the post-college experience than others his age. A spring '92 graduate of Behrend and '88 graduate of Iroquois High School, Benim has found himself involved in one of the most successful women's athletic programs in the country here at Behrend.

He is completing his second season as the women's assistant basketball coach and is entering his first season as head women's softball coach.

"As an assistant, you give input and suggestions. Sometimes they're used, sometimes they're not. As a head coach, you make the decisions," said Benim.

"Because the athletes I coach and I are close in age, I can relate to them. I also have to remember that I'm their coach," commented Benim.

With the women's basketball and softball seasons overlapping, Benim was asked if there is any conflict.

"I think I do a decent job of separating the two. When I'm at basketball practice, I focus on that. When I'm at softball practice, I focus on that.

During the day, I bounce between both."

"Brett Banker set things up very well (with the softball team). I need to keep things going in the same direction," he said.

"I'm very enthusiastic about it (head softball coach). It is a very big challenge. I'm reaching a comfort zone with the players."

"A goal for softball would be for us to win 30 out of 40 games. I think that's what it would take to go to the NCAA's."

With his other job as assistant basketball coach, Benim said, "It's great to see a collective unit win a game. Working together to accomplish something is very gratifying."

Although it hasn't been announced, Benim was asked about the ECAC Playoffs. The bids go out around the first week of March.

"Our style of play is the same. We just have to stay focused on ourselves and execute regardless of our opponents."

In five years Benim still sees himself coaching at the college level. "Where and what is the only question."

"The high point so far was winning the ECAC Championship in basketball.

Listen up: Paul Benim, first year softball coach, instructs his players during a practice last week.

It's great to be part of such a great tradition."

"ECAC's are outstanding for this school. The history of athletics here is being built now."

"I love what I'm doing because of the people I'm associated with. I've been blessed with very good people to work under. The Banker's and Phil Glass (basketball coach at Iroquois where Benim was an assistant last year) have all helped me."

Netters off to Carolina

A short year after the completion of their most successful season in ten years, the men's tennis team looks to start the '93 campaign on a winning note with two matches in Hilton Head, South Carolina.

Thanks to the keen scheduling of third-year coach Dan Gallegos, the team will have two days to practice and scout the competition before taking on Ursinus in their season opener. This is extremely crucial since they have practiced exclusively indoors during February.

Between matches, Coach Gallegos will hold the "Shootout Classic" - a mixed doubles competition featuring both the men's and women's teams, who are also going on the trip.

The Lions will wrap up their southern trip against Eastern Mennonite.

Despite the loss of top players Chuck Keenan, Joe Dess, and Craig Edwards, the men appear to have an outstanding squad this year. It features the return of junior co-captains Eric Good and Johathan Chase, in addition to sophomore sensation Karl Van Tassel.

Without a senior to be found on the roster, the men's team will be counting on solid performances from its talented and highly touted recruiting class.

Junior transfer Bittu Das and freshman Eric Liken are joined by two local products, Brian Foht (Fairview) and Paul Young (Cathedral Prep). All four first-year players look to make immediate impacts on the starting lineup.

Are the Lions ready for the 20 plus match season that awaits them? Judging from the reactions from both the coach and the players they are more than ready.

"There is something special about this team," beams Coach Gallegos. "They are definitely ready."

Added Good, "We're going to be in every match."

Congratulations to the men's Lions on their 18-7 record. The Collegian Sports Team wishes them good luck in their quest for a second consecutive ECAC title. GO LIONS!
