Romeo and Juliet

by Jennifer Reisenweber

Have you ever been in love? Have you ever been denied the chance to be with your love because of your family?

That was the problem for Romeo Montague and Juliet Capulet in William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Leonardo DeCaprio and Claire Danes play the forbidden lovers in the 90's version of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Their relationship was based on love, regardless of the consequences.

The Montagues and the Capulets have been feuding for several years. There was so much hate and appall for each that to satisfy their anger would mean death of one of the opposite family members.

Juliet was to marry Paris, the son of the governor. In the middle of the engagement celebration, she meets Romeo.

It was love at first sight.

Nothing, not even a family name, could keep them apart. They would rather die than be separated.

After a few days of knowing each other, Romeo and Juliet marry, fufilling a dream of being together

The next day, Juliet is told that on Thursday she will marry Paris or be cast out of the family.

She goes to the priest who gives her a potion that will make her as still as death for 24 hours.

Romeo has since been banished from the city for killing Tiebolt, Juliet's cousin. Upon hearing that Juliet is dead, he returns home.

Unable to live without Juliet, he gets a poison and goes to her burial chamber. Romeo takes the poison as Juliet is waking up; he dies in Juliet feels that there is no reason to live without Romeo and with that, she takes his gun and ends her life as well. To get the full effect, go and see Romeo and Juliet! It gets an enthusiastic two thumbs

The million dollar child

by Jennifer Reisenweber

What would you pay for your child? Maybe a million or two? Rene Russo and Mel Gibson portray excellent roles in the new Ron Howard film Ransom. A story about a wealthy airline owner, Tom (Gibson), finds himself in a ransom situation concerning his son. He had made an illegal payoff with his airline a couple of years ago and now someone is making Tom pay. At first, he is willing to give the money, and he is even willing to meet the kidnappers at a designated spot. But when he is given misleading information, he is forced to believe that even if the criminals do get their money, Tom and his wife (Russo) will never see their son

Tom decides to go on TV and announce that he has the ransom money, but instead of giving it for his son's return, he will give it as a reward on the kidnapper's head.

Working with the FBI, his agent and his wife are not very happy with the move he just made. The kidnappers are not going for this, and they call and threaten that if they do not get their money, the kid is dead.

Tom refuses, so his wife goes behind his back to meet the head kidnapper. She in turn gets a physical threat to have her husband give the money or else. They finally call Tom and his wife one last time. He tells them to go to hell and then . .

Thought I'd play devil's advocate this week and let yourself discover whether or not Shawn returns home safely. I must say this is an excellent thriller; an edge of your seat two thumbs up!

Julia identified Slade in a lineup, and was shocked when he threatened her life. Skye, Erica, and Janet realized their stalker might not be Kinder after all. Marian got the shock of her life from a surprise visitor. Wait To See: Julia

At the train depot, he and Carl got into a fight while Steven ran for help and got his foot caught in a rail. Sharlene fell out of bed and into John's arms. Wait To See: Grant's plan to break up Carl and Rachel seems to be working.

Sheila was stunned to see Maggie in Mike's closet. Wait To See: Claudia tries to show her "appreciation" to Thorne.

Wait To See: Tess begins to follow through on Zoey's suggestion.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Uneasy about Jennifer's safety, Jack called Mike to check on her just as Peter prepared to kidnap her and Abby. Hope told Bo she'll marry him if he can prove Franco is guilty. Jack arrived at Jennifer's with a gun. Peter lunged at him. The gun went off. Jennifer and Jack later found a badly wounded Peter in the park in a pool of blood. Sami worked out a way to keep Kate from offering Austin and Carrie a private place in the mansion. Wait To See: Hope feels increasingly separated from Bo.
