

Police And Safety REPORT:

2/1/99 Complainant reported that his vehicle was hit in the Turnbull parking lot. The vehicle that hit him left the scene.

2/1/99 Complainant requested access to the radio station. Upon arrival, officers found that the complainant was already in the station.

2/1/99 Complainant requested for police and safety to check and see if an operator was on a computer in the Reed Union Building. The user was misusing the computer. The computer center advised that they would deal with the individual.

2/2/99 Caller reported loud music. An officer was dispatched and the music was turned off.

2/2/99 Car broken down on Gospel Hill. Polices and Saftey assited.

Freshmen seminar, continued from Page 1

which seminar a freshman should schedule.

Jessica Turos, 02 Psych, doesn't like the idea of these mandatory classes. She said, "I don't think the freshman seminar should be a class, I think it should be a mandatory open discussion-meeting sort of thing. What they [freshmen] should do is write a paper on how the seminar-meeting influenced them to stay with that major or change that major. There you go, you get a credit for that. If it's a semester-long class, people aren't going to be that interested; it will be the same old stuff over and over and everyone is going to end up hating that major."

While many specifics of the program need to be worked on, the general outlook is optimistic. The goal of the University is to aid students with adjustment issues and to raise the level of learning in the process. This is Behrend's goal as well.

Burke explains, "The success of the program has a lot to do with how we do the first year."

Sports Psychologist, cont. from Page 1

ball into a can. He then had the student take a deep breath and take his time. Once the student relaxed, in the ball went.

Fish used a member of the basketball team to demonstrate the need to listen and to focus by making him balance a broom on his palm. To emphasize team work Fish asked the audience to talk amongst themselves for 30 seconds without using the word "I."

Fish briefly cautioned the athletes on risky behaviors and left time for students to talk to him personally. Keith Cerroni, 02, DUS, a runner for Behrend Track and Field, said, "I found the presentation worthwhile, and I wish there were more programs like it that focus on athletes."

Black History Month, cont. from Page 1

words from Dr. King: "Before the pilgrims landed at Plymouth, we were here. Before the pen of Jefferson etched the majestic words of the Declaration of Independence across the pages of history, we were here. For more than two centuries our forebears labored in this country without wages...suffering gross injustice and shameful humiliation...and yet out of a bottomless vitality they continued to thrive and develop...the sacred heritage of our nation and the eternal will of God are embodied in our echoing demands."

Hey Computer Geeks

Which resumé looks better?

Kenny

Clerk, Harbucks Coffee:
Got roasted, toasted, ground, brewed, and served with lox. Made enough money to pay for gas. Learned to take the heat from Cartman.

Kyle

IT Associate, R. M. Kerner Co.:
Turned lame web site into way cool cyber-billboard. Learned the department head a thing or three about database design. Just generally introduced the place to the 20th century. Made more money than Chef or Mr. Tweak.

If you like the one on the right, stop by our offices, fill out an application for "IT Associate" and toss in a resumé. If you like the one on the left, apply for welfare. You can watch Kenny bite it 24/7.

Flexible hours. Good money. Cool Assignments.

East 38th St. East to McClelland. North on McClelland over the tracks. First left onto 33rd. We're the second building on the right.

R. M. Kerner Co. 2208 E. 33rd St.

What Was Your Favorite Commercial During The Super Bowl?

"I liked the frogs. Who's your daddy?"
-Jill Page, 04, Bio

"The Budwiser Frogs"
-Ketan Patel, 04, Adv

"When the lizard got the tounge lashing."
-Charlotte Lafer, 08, Psy

"The Cracker Jack commercial."
-Heather Bierer, 06, MIS

"The Yahoo commercial with the bald guy."
-Brian Desalle, 07, MIS

Question of the Week

For Great Local Coupons, log on to www.ThatCouponPage.com

Online February 6!