It's safe to say that Erie isn't the most exciting town for a college student (or anyone else for that matter!) to live in.

There tends to be a lack of talent and entertainment in Erie, which results in mass boredom.

Many people call Erie a joke, and in fact, they may be right.

There does, in fact, seem to be a whole lot of joking going on in Erie, however, it's occurring on 1402 State Street, which is where JR'S Last Laugh Comedy Club is presently located.

JR'S is known to book some of the nation's best comedians, which makes for hilarious shows every time.

Jr's is open for business every Wednesday-Saturday at 3:30 p.m.

JR'S Last Laugh not only serves up great comedy, but it also serves up great food, and there are also daily drink specials.

The only downside to JR'S Last Laugh is that an individual has to be at least 21 years of age to get in.

Great food and great comedy are a match made in heaven, making JR'S Last Laugh Comedy Club a definite Hot Spot in Erie.

BUT HOW DID YOU CATCH ME? Police, investigating the theft of a safe from a home in Winona, Minn., simply followed bicycle tracks in the snow leading from the victim's back yard. The tracks indicated that the burglar stopped periodically to rest and put down a square (suspiciously safe-like) object in the snow. The tracks led to the yard of a 20-year-old man who police arrested. Deputy Chief Andrea Foss told reporters, "The bike was stolen, too."

YOU JUST CAN'T IMAGINE HOW HAPPY: Hesam Khalili married his true love, Fatemeh Jamshidi Khakhi, in the Iranian village of Gonabad near Afghanistan. He is 20. She is 77. The bride — a virgin on her wedding night — was referred to by local newspapers as "the happy girl."

THEY'RE EVEN WORSE THAN THE VOTERS: About 10,000 monkeys from the jungles near New Delhi have become increasingly aggressive and bold to the point that they storm into government offices, rip up documents and threaten bureaucrats. Thousands of the surly beasts have taken up residence in and around the stately red sandstone government buildings near the presidential palace, and walk around like they own the place. Monkeys are sacred in India, so officials cannot have them killed.
