Dirty Teddy's Malt Liquor Boozehound of the Week

Bobby Mullet

Very little is known about this week's Boozehound. Some of the facts we have gathered through our elaborate intelligence network:

Bobby Mullet was rolling around on the ground in the apartment parking lots last Saturday night.

Bobby Mullet digs Budweiser.

Bobby Mullet proudly sports a mullet, a wife beater T-shirt, and Mack boots.

Dirty Teddy and The Behrend Beacon encourage students to drink responsibly. Boozehound of the Week was created to show what can happen when one consumes too much alcohol and makes a complete jack-ass out of him or herself.

Send your 50-100 word nomination for Boozehound of the Week to: behrroll2@aol.com

Note: We will not publish stories about criminal acts. If you want your name in the paper, the nomination must come from your psu personal account. If you want your picture in the paper, send a jpeg file along with your story.

The Humor Page would like to congratulate Cristie Kerr for winning the Longs Drugs Challenge

"It feels so great." said Kerr.

By Ross Lockwood

The Beacon staff would like to congratulate Cristie Kerr on her first ever win on the LPGA tour. She cleaned house at the Longs Drugs Challenge at the Twelve Bridges Golf Club in Lincoln, Ca. this Sunday. Her final score was an eight under par 280. Once again congrats, and we hope you enjoy your trophy.

Top 10 reasons why booze is better than broads

by Mike Butala

10. It's easier to bring booze back into your room than a broad.
9. It's a lot better waking up to booze in the morning than a broad.
8. If you bring booze to a Super Bowl party, you're the man, if you bring a broad to a Super Bowl party, well, let's face it. You suck.
7. Booze doesn't get jealous when you drink other booze.
6. It's legal to buy booze everywhere, but the only place you can buy broads is Las Vegas.
5. If you hang around a broad too much you get made fun of; if you hang around a bar too much, you're a legend.
4. If a broad is big, you run away. If a bottle of booze is big, you run towards it.
3. Even ZBT's can get booze at their parties, but not broads.
2. Not all broads are pretty but booze makes ALL broads pretty.
1. Booze makes you drunk; broads make you drink.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR A FEW GOOD WRITERS.

As we all know, Mr. Kundman is graduating finally after this semester.

This means that not only will we have one more unemployed bum, we also need someone else to run the humor page. So instead of seeing the humor page die, I decided to do it. We are looking for some writers who can come up with fresh, funny ideas. You also have a lot a leeway as far as what you can write (just look at Butala, for the love of God). So if you have any ideas, send a 200-word sample to r_dog73@hotmail.com and behrroll2@aol.com

Who the Hell Knows?

Something rotten happened to me last semester, as you may or may not remember. For the first time in my life, a girl dumped me. It sucked balls, but I recovered and have learned a great deal from the experience.

However, imagine the shock I received when my ex-girlfriend told me she wanted to get back together. She explained her reasoning for dumping me—she had been addicted to speed when she dumped me and she wanted me back now that she had a clear mind. What did I do? In a figurative sense, I gave her a smiling thumb's up, turned it to a thumb's down, and made a sound just like Adam Sandler did in "Happy Gilmore."

Karl Benacci

The situation got me thinking, and now I am here to give my two cents about females, males and relationships. To begin: Here's a list of what I hate about females (Note: Some females are cool and are off the hook for these things, but some are VERY guilty):

- 1) The cheater. I love it when a girl says, "Guys are liars and cheaters." True, plenty of guys do lie and cheat, but girls do it just as much. I have never cheated on a girl, but my ex (narcotics girl) cheated on me and I dated a Hooters girl freshman year (just ask my roommate Mike!), who cheated on me too (but she was a Hooters girl so it was kind of cool).
- 2) Mind games. Mind games are stupid. They might work on some guys, but a girl playing a mind game on me is saying, "Let me alter your brain and mess you up as badly as I am." Girls who play mind games were probably mentally abused as children and the government should place these freaks in stone structures that are patrolled by robots that shoot fire out of metal hoses protruding from their metallic robo-ears.
- 3) The famous factor. Everyone knows who O-Town is, right? They're that boy band that was just a bunch of normal guys who became famous thanks to the ABC Network. A few of them had girlfriends before they were famous, but the others were single. Now it's different, though! Since everyone knows who they are, they're getting lots of women

(yes, hot college women.) Why is it that a guy can go from being not wanted by females to a hot commodity, just by becoming famous? Even Tom Arnold is getting some! Guys have an easier approach: We'll want a girl if they're famous or not—they just have to be hot! P.S. Look for me this summer on the big screen. I'm going to be in the movie "The Muppets Invade Alcatraz."

4) Wishy Washy. The term sounds dumb, as is the act. I will leave it at that.

5) I hate it when a girl expects a guy to tell her he likes her. First off, girls need to realize that guys are just as shy as their sexual counterparts. Females, grow some nerve and tell a guy you like him. The dude will be so shocked (yet pleased) that he will probably succumb to your demands.

Once this beautiful chick told me she liked me and I took her for a ride in my car and then we went on a donkey ride in space and...okay...that never happened.

The worst thing by far, though, is when a girl dates a mean guy and complains to the rest of the world about it. Why does this happen? Do guys date mean girls? No! So why do girls go out with mean guys? Who knows? One thing is for sure, though: If a girl is stupid enough to stay with a guy that treats her badly I want nothing to do with her.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT: Ask Beacon nice guy Kevin Fallon about his theory on women. You'll be glad you did! It makes a lot of sense and is very special, just like him. He is ready to take one very special lady out on a night on the town. Hell yeah!

Moving on...I have this problem. The only females who freely pursue me are freaks. Yes, I must be coming off the wrong way or my hormones are still attracting CroMag beasts because the girls who scare me go after me as if I'm candy. It sucks. I have to buy bulk mace at Sam's Club every week.

FUN FACT: There's an easy way to tell if a girl likes me—they're the ones bumping into things, and oh yeah—they're menacing!

ANOTHER FUN FACT: The two females who love me and treat me nicely are: 1) My car, 2) My cat (but she only likes me because I feed her and take her out to the movies).

I think it would be easier if my parents arranged a marriage for me. It might work, after all. Arranged marriages were common 100 years ago, but men and women were gentlemen and ladies back then (the men also had farm animals to take their "problems" out on—yeeeeeheh!).

Why do girls go for the asses and not the nice guys, anyway? In a theatrical sense, this is evident in the 1980s film "The Last American Virgin," where a guy gets screwed over by a girl like never before when she uses him so he'll pay for her abortion (The nice dude was not the one who impregnated her; it was his best friend, who dumped the pregnant girl and went back to her after he finds out about the abortion).

AN UNRELATED KARL PET PEEVE: People who come to class sick and cough everywhere. No one likes you, stay home instead of infecting all of us with your repulsive germs. I have a cold now. Damn ADT...err those are the alarms...damn ADD...

I'm still a relatively shy person, but when I was in high school I was shy—and stupid! I observed one of my friends who liked meeting girls off the Internet and I even tried it five or six times.

If you remember anything from this editorial remember this: Internet girls are (for the most part) psycho little critters. Half of them wanted booty and the other half were so weird that I blocked out what they said to me. Sad, sad, sad (take it from me, it's useless.)

COOL STORY: In high school, my friend, Mike (who is now a Behrend student) talked to some Internet chick who told him she looked like Sandra Bullock. After they met, he called her snaggle tooth.

TO RECAP: She did not look like Sandra Bullock. Yes ladies, I know that some men are just as stupid/awful/worthless as some women are. Girls tell me about their horrible dates with scummy guys all the time and I feel for them. I know, I know, some guys should be neutered and thrown off a cliff into a river but we must all move on.

I'm happy for the miniscule amount of people who are in cool relationships, but I would rather not date a cruel demon right now—or would I? After my ex dumped me, I dated a really cute rebound girl, but she was annoying and not too bright (maybe this is why she dated me?! ha ha). I learned I am still an idiot when it comes to choosing a girlfriend. In closing, here is what a guy can do to beat the urge of losing his soul in a relationship: 1) Poke your eyes out like Oedipus (kill yourself if you have his complex). 2) Think of your ex's chasing you down to hell, 3) "Beat the urge." Ha ha. Summer!

The Top Ten Reasons the Top Ten Sucks

By Karl Benacci

- 10) It wears tight pants like Steve Polychronopolous.
- 9) It's in the Beacon.
- 8) It has to be "correct."
- 7) It comes in a small box.
- 6) Ten is a stupid number.
- 5) It's never funny.
- 4) It needed the money.
- 3) It threw America into recession.
- 2) Letterman has one.
- 1) Because I despise it.
