Tennis team serves up wins

by Amy Frizzell
 staff writer

Spring break came and went, with many students flocking to the beaches to take full advantage of the warm weather. Included with those students were the members of the men's tennis team, who took their spring break in Hilton Head, S.C.

While enjoying their week away from snow, the team was able to stay focused during its matches. The Lions came away with four non-conference wins, raising their record to 4-1.

"The guys feel more confident now than before we went," said Coach Jeff Barger. "I like the enthusiasm for each other. If we can keep that enthusiasm, then we're set."

"We played well, it was good stuff," said sophomore captain Mike Oey.

Behrend beat the first team they took on, Emory and Henry, 5-4. Sophomore Ryan Deimel and Oey racked up wins in first and second singles, sophomore Aaron Whiting won at sixth singles. Deimel and freshman John Marini took home the win at first doubles, while sophomore Jacob Hillmann and Oey won at second doubles.

The next day, the Lions took on Lebanon Valley, defeating them 5-4. Deimel won at first singles, Marini at fourth singles, freshman Jonathan Barber at fifth and Whiting at sixth. Barber and Whiting teamed up for the win at third doubles.

"Everyone feels better about themselves and the team," said Barger.

This showed when the team finished off the week defeating Marywood 9-0 and Mt. Union 5-4.

"I think Hilton Head was a good warm up for the rest of the season," said Oey.

 "The trip gave some of us some needed confidence that will hopefully carry us through the season" said Barger.

Even though the team is coming off four wins, it will still need to improve for conference play, just like any other team.

"We played well at Hilton Head but we still need to work on our serving and net game in doubles. There were too many double faults, and too many times we gave the other team a second and third chance in doubles," said Barger.

The men will start conference play on Saturday against Pitt-Greensburg, at home at 11 a.m. and Penn State Altoona on March 29.

Indoor track season over; focus shifts to outdoor

by Brian Mitchell
 staff writer

The track team has reached some notable accomplishments so far this year, breaking eight men and nine women records. Also, 14 athletes from indoor track qualified for ECAC championship. Floyd Mattie was part of the 4x800 meter relay of the ECAC championship.

"That was my favorite race, and I was glad to go to ECAC this year," said Mattie.

His team broke their skilled record in that race, and Floyd hopes to break it again next year.

The track team is full of members with commitment and dedication. Some typical drills during daily practices are hill and stair runs (200 meter sets), speed endurance, where runners start off easy and pick it up at the end, and 300 meter sprints to finish up the workout. After practices, they usually have abdominal workouts and push ups to strengthen muscles.

There are many advantages of being on the track team: meeting new people, getting a good workout, and helping time management.

"The track team got me back in shape," said Mattie.

Nick Peth, a javelin thrower, said that track is fun. "One of the best things outside of track practice is forming an intramural volleyball team and playing football with them."

Steve Feder, a distance runner said, "It's a wonderful experience for me; I do it for the socialization and the love of the sport because I do like to run."

He also said that being on the track team actually improves his grades because it helps him with time management, and his fellow teammates encourage him to do well in school. His goals for outdoor track is a sub 36 10,000m.

The coach's main goal for the upcoming outdoor track and field is to increase time and speed and to get more people to qualify for the ECAC championship.
