New ice cream to celebrate Penn State's Sesquicentennial

The University Creamery will debut a new ice cream in July 2004 as part of a yearlong series of events and celebrations commemorating Penn State's establishment in 1855. What should the new flavor be called? Send name and flavor suggestions to icecream@psu.edu or visit <http://www.cas.psu.edu/icecream.html>. The winner will receive a complimentary half-gallon of University ice cream during their next visit to Penn State, and a copy of the commemorative sesquicentennial book to be published by the Penn State Press in 2005. Suggestions must be received by Dec. 31.

Documentary on life and career of Joe Paterno to air on ESPN

A one hour documentary, "The Season: Joe Paterno," on the life and career of the legendary Penn State football coach will air on ESPN on today. The program will air at 7 p.m. and will re-air on Thursday at 4 p.m. The ESPN-produced documentary is part of ESPN's Original Entertainment programming. In his 38th season as head coach and 54th year as a member of the Nittany Lions' coaching staff, Paterno is widely regarded as one of the college football's greatest coaches. The leader in career victories among major college coaches, Paterno owns a 338-103-3 record, a winning percentage of 76.4.

Margaret Cho next is distinguished speakers in series at University Park

Margaret Cho, celebrated comedian and national bestseller, is the next speaker in Penn State's 2003-2004 Distinguished Speakers Series at 8 p.m. on Oct. 20, in Eisenhower Auditorium. The event is free and open to the public, but tickets are required. Tickets will be available to students attending the University Park campus on Oct. 13. Tickets will be available to faculty and staff and students from other Penn State campuses on Monday. The general public may pick up any remaining tickets beginning Tuesday, on a first-come, first-served basis. The Eisenhower box office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Limited tickets might also be available the night of the speech.

Fireside chat with new Vice President for Student Affairs

Vicky Triponey, recently named vice president for Student Affairs of Penn State University, will address students' concerns and questions from 7 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, in 302 HUB-Robeson Center. Lion Support, Penn State's student helpline, is hosting the event, which is open to the public.

Ticket mini-packs feature games for men's, women's basketball

Basketball fans have two new options to choose from in addition to the standard season ticket packages for the 2003-04 Nittany Lion and Lady Lion basketball seasons. Special "mini-packs," designed for fans who cannot make it to every game, are now available. The packages are ideal for the fan that prefers weekend game as all but one of the games included in the two options are weekend contests. Each game featured in both the packages includes a premium giveaway for the first 2,000 fans. Anyone buying a package will receive preferential seating and will have the same seat for each game of the package that they purchase.
