Mark Your Calendars

HALLOWEEN TO TAKE OVER MCGARVEY COMMONS

Lion Entertainment Board will present a Psychic Fair on Oct. 31. There will be tables of tarot card readers, palm readers and psychics. The event will last from noon - 5 p.m. and free food will be served.

Later on in the evening the Halloween fun continues with a Halloween Party sponsored by The Association of Black Collegians. All witches, ghouls and goblins are invited. Dress up in costume and receive a mystery prize for the Best Dressed.

The free food continues and a DJ will be there to play the spookiest tracks. The fun starts at 10 p.m. and lasts until sun up, that is if you aren't a vampire. Come if you dare.

A Closer Look

CANTUS BRINGS VOCALS TO LOGAN MUSIC SERIES

Music at Noon: The Logan Wintergarden Series will continue its 14th season with Cantus, a male vocal ensemble, on Tuesday, Nov. 4. The lunchtime presentation, held in the Wintergarden of the Reed Union Building at Penn State Erie, The Behrend College, is free and open to the public.

Standing in a semi-circle to communicate, self-directed Cantus strives to create unique a cappella choral performances. The ensemble features ten singers: Brian Arreola, Bradley Erbes, Michael Hanawalt, Albert Jordan and Peter Zvanovec as tenors; Kelvin Chan and Adam Reinwald as baritones; and Alan Dunbar, Erick Lichte, and Tim Takach as basses.

Cantus was formed in 1995 at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., by a group of friends who shared a passion for singing. The group evolved into a professional vocal chamber ensemble with a very distinct mission. Its members educate and encourage all people to sing through nontraditional musical selections.

In September, 2002, Cantus released its latest recording titled "...against the dying of the light." In addition to recordings and performances, Cantus members work as clinicians with students ranging from elementary school to college to promote the artistic approach to choral singing.

All of the musical groups incorporate an educational program with audience interaction into their performances, and each ensemble also performs at Diehl School, Penn State Behrend's Adopt-a-School partner.

Guests are encouraged to bring a brown-bag lunch to enjoy the informality of this noontime event.
