By Samantha Cibula sports co-editor

The men and women's swim teams went head to head with Fredonia Nov. 10. The men were able to capitalize on strong swims driving in fast times and important points. The men posted a 125-65 victory evening their record to

The women found the meet to be a test of event domination and depth in the pool. Although they were able to win nine individual events and one relay they found themselves short of a win posting 96 points to Fredonia's hard fought133. The loss for the women drops their record to 0-2.

Although the men fell short of a win in the first event, they touched the wall first in eight individual events, the final relay, and took home 13 points in one meter diving.

Leading the Behrend men were freshmen Dustin Fairchild and Anthony Spoto. Fairchild captured first in the 500-yd freestyle by 2.82 seconds. In the 200-yd freestyle Fairchild out-touched sophomore teammate Brandon Thiel by 2.25 seconds in an event that Behrend capitalized on taking first through fourth places.

Spoto's fast hands and quick turns gave the blue and white first place in the 50 and 100-yd freestyle, which were also high scoring events for the men.

"The guys are swimming fast, faster then they were last year at this time," said head coach Jen Slack. "I'm looking forward to seeing great races as the season progresses."

Captain junior Steve Schleicher added to the first place finishes in the 1,000-vd freestyle that had him racing stroke for stroke for the majority of the 40 laps. Freshman, Matt Seiferth added a first place finish in the 200yd breaststroke setting a new pool record with the time of 2:22.44. Washington and Jefferson's Chris Shively with the time of 2:22.62 held the previous record.

The women, like the men, set a quick pattern-winning event after event starting with the 400-yd medley relay and ending with a win and new team record in the 200yd breastroke. The wins for the women started to seem easy to come by and they found themselves tied for first going into the first round of diving. However, they quickly realized that to win meets it would take more than just first places.

"We were winning events which is what we have to do to win meets," said Slack. "It's just the matter of getting the second and third places points to win the meets."

Despite the loss the women remained tough banking the nine first place points in nine individual events and

Though the girls didn't win the AMCC championship, they were pleased with their season. Behrend came into the season with only two players that had much college experience, so as a young team, it was a great learning experience for the players.

In the AMCC tournament, Voltz hit .307, averaging 5.1 kills per game. Everyone can agree that "it will be a challenge to replace her energy, enthusiasm, and leadership," said

This season, coaching was a major asset for the team with the addition of Pisano and Vensel, so players received training from two coaches, which only improved their training.

"Overall, we feel excited about the direction of the program and that this is only the first step toward a very bright future," said Pisano.
