

"Don't worry, it's treatable."

Beacon Personals

Tall blonde seeking single white male.
 Hi, my name is Alice (not to be confused with the Resident Evil actress). I'm looking for a single guy that can take me to Wonderland.

I enjoy tea parties and croquet. I'm a cat person, and I have a cute little thing named Dinah that would just love a new leg to rub up against.

I'm rather gullible, and I tend to drink whatever anyone puts in front of me, which of course has led to some bad experiences. I'm going through rehab, though, and getting better.

I've had a movie produced describing this awesome trip I had a few years ago. It had all sorts of strange and interesting creatures in it. I've also had a book written about my adventures, though not many people have read it. Look for it in Borders or Barnes and Noble. It's called "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas."

I'm looking for a man who is understanding, and willing to put up with a little "ditziness" every now and then... or as my doctors like to call them, "flash-backs."

I'm hoping to find someone manly, because I've already tried going down some "rabbit holes" and hung out with a Queen, but I think my years of experimenting are over.

Please look me up. I work in "Alice's Restaurant" on Fifth and Ash.

Cynical Hits for Lost Loves
 Vincent van Gogh

Featuring:
 The Immortal
 Guitar Hit
 "When I Suck On Lemons,
 I'll Think of You."

YOUR AD HERE!

WE NEED CONTENT!

GIVE US YOUR MONEY!!

HEY!

¿Does this page suck?

Do you think you could do better?

Is it too offensive?

Is it not offensive ENOUGH?!

Leave feedback at:

<http://www.TheBehrendBeacon.com>

and let me know!

We're here for your entertainment, beeyatches!

Disclaimer: All articles are for entertainment purposes only.