On Oct. 8, Perry hall hosted a date auction in their lounge to raise money for the United Way.

Secretary for the event Liz Masteller said that the number of people who showed for the event was surprising. "The turnout was a lot better than we thought it would be," said Mas-teller.

According to Greg Hedderman, an RA who helped to organize the date auction, the event is a competition against other halls.

"It's pretty successful, we're going to continue," continued Hedder.

Other dorms, like Niagara Hall, are hosting competing date nights to raise money and claim bragging rights over their peers.

Niagara is hosting its date auction night on Oct. 22.

There were more than 10 people up for bids. Contestants generally went for around $15 to $30, and all proceeds went to benefit the United Way.

Mastellers said that people showed up "because it was the school's charity and they wanted to raise the most money."
