Soccer Team Winds Up Season As CC Kings; Channas And Moore Athletes Of The Week

And so, the colorful history of junior college soccer at Behrend comes to a great finish. This year's team was one of the most exciting athletic squads ever to represent Behrend. After the few losses they sustained, the players worked harder and were tough enough to bounce back. So, to Coach Lauffer and his entire squad, we like would to congratulations and thank you for their great efforts this

Cagers Hard At Work; Tough In Scrimmages

by Tom Harvey Sports Reporter

The Behrend hoopsters participated in two scrimmages against Mercyhurst and Alliance last week and on the whole, Coach Roger Sweeting was pleased with the performance of his charges. Although an official score was not kept, statistics were recorded of the Cub's performance, giving Sweeting a yardstick with which to judge his players.

"I was extremely pleased with what we learned in the Mercyhurst scrimmage," mented Coach Sweeting, "we were exposed to good defensive pressure and I think the scrimmage did us a lot of good. On Saturday we were able to apply some defensive pressure and we were also able to run our offensive patterns against Alliance as I had hoped we would do."

Chris Gross, Calvin Fleming, and Glenn McKinney showed outstanding talent at Thursday's Mercyhurst scrimmage. Sweeting stated: "Statistically Chris Gross had by far the outstanding effort. Fleming also had a good workout. Mercyhurst's Coach Fox was impressed with the work of Glenn McKinney."

Dennis Deiner turned in a tremendous performance against

Intramural Basketball Begins Play

Intramural basketball started this week and a record 24 teams are participating.

The league is split into two divisions, consisting of the dorm division and the commuter conference. The commuter teams play on Tuesday night while the dorm squads vie on Thursdays.

Tuesday opened the commuter competition and thus far the teams to beat in that conference appear to be Daffy's Dunkers and the Bud Brigade. Daffy's Dunkers won by a score of 76-18, and the Brigade demolished their opponent 90-13.

Three players are presently out of the picture. Tom Koczesky is out with a broken hand, Ike Burnett is out because of ineligibility and Roger Nolan will probably miss the entire season due to a knee injury sustained

Coach Sweeting summed up the progress to date by commenting: 'We are making the type of progress that we expect to make and things are shaping up pretty well. We still have a lot of work to do to play as a team and there's no doubt in my mind that when it comes time for the first ball game, we'll be respectable.

Sports Reporter Coach Herb Lauffer has named two athletes to receive this week's "Athlete of the Week" honor: Jim Channas, who scored two goals and added an assist, and Ed Moore, who turned away nine Ogontz shots in the big commonwealth campus championship win.

Channas becomes the first repeater in this series with Moore being so honored for the first

Lauffer said of Channas: "If I had to select a most valuable player for the Ogontz game, it would be Jim Channas. He played one of his better games all year and he scored our first and fourth goals." Channas added two Lauffer and the entire team Behrend records to his ever in- deserve much credit for the creasing laurels. He scored a soccer honors brought to total of 25 goals in his Behrend. career and scored a total of 13

Ed Moore played tremendous soccer all season according to Coach Lauffer. "He's been our regular starting goalie for the past two seasons," commented Lauffer. "I felt that all year long he just did a super job. We had 24 goals scored against us in 11 games. Last year in 10 games we had 45 goals scored on us, and I think our defense is much better and much smarter this season. There are many factors for this and one of them is Ed Moore who day in and day out turned in his usual fine effort.

The Cubs finished the season with a 7-4 record and the Commonwealth Campus championship under their belt. Coach

A Women's View; Hockey Madness

Sports Reporter

November is a sort of nevernever land for sports. The football season is almost over, the basketball season has almost begun, and the cold, cold snow has everyone wishing it were baseball season again.

There is only one sport that combines the animal confusion of football and the gracefulness of basketball at the price of a baseball ticket - ice hockey. Good ol' ice hockey - the game where men glide gallantly across the ice until they can get close enough to their opponent to clobber him!

Hockey players are incredible. They skate with the skill of any Ice Capades heroine - I mean hero - and fight like brutes. A hockey game is really exciting to watch, and easy to understand. Remember when I told you soccer was like hockey on grass? Well, hockey is like soccer on ice, but this time we have a hockey puck instead of a ball and a great, big stick to kill each other with. Anyway, it's really something to see guys who are brutes from the knees up and ballerinas the rest of the way gliding all over the ice and maiming each other while playing the game of "Puck, puck, who's got the puck?"

The object of the game is the same as soccer - get the puck into the opponent's goal. But - since the feet have to be used for skating instead of kicking as in soccer, the great, big stick is used to hit the puck. (Nice way to justify the great, big stick that often turns into a weapon in pro games - don't you think?).

Next time you make it to a hockey game and see the screens separating the players from the payers. you'll know why. Just because it may look like the hockey players are animals caged in a zoo, you'll know that your first impressions were wrong and the real reason is to protect the fans from the fights. On the other hand...
