

"Your Father's Mustache" Performs in 20's Style

Murder, mayhem and morals (loose) were trade marks of the 20's. What did the good old days have that we don't have today? Your Father's Mustache pondered this question. Their answer was simple; entertainment for entertainment's sake. The audience must be involved, a rapport must be developed, and the individuals must participate as a whole.

The group (composed of two banjos, tuba, trombone and a female singer-dancer) uses any and all means of reaching their goals. Signs are held up telling the audience to "Sing", "Clap", "Cheer and Applaud", and in some cases "Boo and Hiss". They believe that the audience's inhibitions must be broken down—the use of comedy is their answer: from slapstick prat falls to more subtle and sophisticated humor. This is all done while performing with a musical proficiency that is recognized by all. Henry Mancini saw them on the Ed Sullivan Show and had United Artist sign them to record his song "There's Enough To Go Around" from the movie "Gaily, Gaily." They've appeared on the Johnny Carson Show, Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin and many others. They have three albums out and are in the process of recording a fourth. Colleges across the nation have them return annually, and fairs and rodeos use them for grandstand attractions.

The performance begins at 10 p.m. on Saturday, February 26 at Erie Hall. Admissions are $1. with an activity card and $2. without. Tickets will go on sale soon at the RUB desk.
