Basketball Team Begins Seasonal Practice

Coach Sweeting hopes to build a productive season with seven returning veterans. The team has a stiff schedule, but team enthusiasm and student support, Behrend will have an exciting basketball season coming up.

Regulation Basketball practice sessions have initiated the official start of Behrend's 1972-73 basketball season. After a full season of building a basketball foundation here at Behrend, head coach Roger Sweeting spent long hours scouting local talent as well as boys throughout Pennsylvania, in an effort to bring top-rate competitors and competition to Behrend Campus.

Behrend, now a four year athletic college, will trade baskets this season with some tough and established colleges. Behrend will have its hands full this season as well as their opponents. Coach Sweeting hopes to build a productive season through the efforts of seven returning veterans, including Glenn

McKinney, Denny Diener, and Ike Burnett, the top three scorers from last season's team. Adding to this year's "small and fast" team is a man who sat last season out, but still managed to assist Mr Sweeting, Mike Hook, a talented and experienced ball player

Both co-captains from last year's team, Glenn McKinney and Ike Burnett agree that the combination of experience along with Mr Sweeting's coaching abilities and techniques can benefit Behrend in a successful season. Ike Burnett commented on Coach Sweeting, "Mr. Sweeting sticks to his morals of basketball but accepts suggestions, he believes in hard work and dedication. I think he is a fine coach."

All in all, Behrend will have a stiff schedule, but with team enthusiasm and hoped for student support, it will be an exciting basketball season.

Behrend Will Host Top Poet

Dr. Edward Lueders from the Department of English at the University of Utah will be on campus as Writer In Residence during the week of November 6-10.

Dr Lueders teaches American literature at Utah, is past chairman of the English Department there, and former editor of the WESTERN HUMANITIES REVIEW. His poems and prose have been published widely. He is an editor of two anthologies of Poetry, Reflections on a Gift of Watermelon Pickle...and other Modern Verse, and Some Haystacks Don't Even have any Needle, which are used extensively in junior high and high school in 1971. ENGLISH TEACHING FORUM named him one of ten outstanding American poets.

Dr Lueders will hold office hours on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday (November 8-10) in Dr Moffett's office in North Cottage for all students not currently enrolled in the English 112 writing class who would like to avail themselves of the opportunity to have their work read and to have Dr. Lueders advise them of ways in which they can improve it. Students are urged not to be shy or reluctant to talk about their writing with him; Dr. Lueders is very personable and good at putting people at their ease, and his criticisms will be administered helpfully and tactfully.

All students are also invited to attend the following events during that week: Monday, 6 November: a get-acquainted coffee hour for Dr. Lueders in the RUB Quiet Lounge during third period. Tuesday, 7 November: a prose reading by Dr Lueders in Behrend 101 during Common Hour. Thursday, 9 November: a reading of poetry presented jointly by Dr. Lueders and Dr. Moffett in the RUB Lecture Hall at 7:30 p.m.; to be followed by a coffee hour in the Quiet Lounge.

Girls' Volleyball

Girl's extra-mural volleyball activities began last evening when Behrend played Mercyhurst College. The following girls make up the first and second string teams: Rhonda Carlson, Mary Rita Roach, Jean Steinker, Patty Conover, Cindy Dobry, Diane Wisinski, Renee Drugmand, Lynn Helbling, Doris Glaz

Cheryl Perry, Sandy Effect, Louise Anderson, Kit Murphey, Janice Fulton, Jackie Stanek, Cherie Nelson

Physical education instructor, Janet Wilson, is sponsor of the volleyball team and she is hoping for a winning season.

Intramural volleyball is under full swing at Behrend. The girls are showing quite an interest, having twelve teams participating in the tournament. Two teams are out in front with a tie for first place. Muffins Gang with Mary Rita Roach as captain along with Doris Glaz's team show the same record of two wins and no losses. Hopefully the girls enthusiasm will continue throughout the year as other intramural athletic events will be organized CWENS will hold a pumpkin sale October 26, 27, 30, 31, outside the SGA office. The pumpkins will be reasonably priced and of assorted sizes. C'mon everyone, buy a pumpkin! What better way is there to celebrate Halloween?

Students Turn On To Listening

Approximately seventy residence hall students are participating in the Impact Listening program being conducted by Resident Assistants under the supervision of Mr. Mead. The students involved meet for ninety minute sessions, in groups of six to ten during the six week program. The Resident Assistant group leaders, who were exposed to the Impact Listening program as part of their pre-term training program, have reported very favorable

The program is directed at improving skills that are noticeably lacking among many college students. Following the instructions on a series of tapes, the group members are encouraged to listen to the experiences, reactions, and feelings of each other in regards to the topics of: Me and the University, Sidewalk Communication, Friendship, Depression, Belonging, and one topic of concern chosen by the group. The group members have agreed to react as openly and honestly as possible, while respecting the feelings, opinions, and confidence of the other group members.

The discussion topics are designed to allow the sharing of the small but important feeling of everyday college life. Through this medium and guidelines set down by the tapes, the group members will be able to develop the skills of Listening and Expression. True Listening, according to the goals of the program, is listening to another without judgement, with a positive, warm interest, a concern to really understand another in both similarity and difference. True Expression is the free and honest sharing which occurs in a warm, easy situation where the reactions, experiences, and even the "crazy little personal feelings" of each person are considered important and interesting by the other members of the group.

In addition to improving interpersonal skills, the program is also aimed at helping students deal with common, yet disturbing feelings such as: "It seems like everyone talks but no one really listens," "It is hard for me to express exactly how I feel," "Sometimes I feel like a number, insignificant, lost in the shuffle," "I have a hard time making friends in new settings," and "Many times I feel like I'm alone in my feelings about myself, the University, and things in general."

The program will be carefully evaluated during winter term. If the final results are as positive as the preliminary reports indicate they may be, the program may be repeated spring term and possibly may be incorporated into freshman orientation next year.

Student Voices View

Robert Britton, political science major at Behrend, recently appeared on Pace, a local television documentary. The topic under discussion was black politics in Erie.

Britton was representing Erie's black college students with respect to how they feel about the present government.

Other members of the discussion were show host, William Powell, Director of Student Activities at Gannon College, Helen Toppington, and Wesley Roberts.
