

Coach Sweeting's dream becomes a reality with the Behrend roundball team showing their fine skills by beating Eisenhower College with the score of 111-76.

Cubs Bury Eisenhower With McKinney's Destroying Shots

Every coach's dream is to have his team go out on the court and simply annihilate its opponents all year long. If it can't happen all year long, at least let it happen once in a while.

Behrend's Basketball team, suffering a rather disappointing campaign, finally made coach Roger Sweeting's dream into reality. The Cubs put it all together and wound up with its most convincing win of the season: 111 to 76 over Eisenhower College. Like a finely tuned machine, the Cubs outshot, out rebounded and out hustled the Generals, to snap its four game losing streak.

Glenn McKinney paced the way for Behrend by canning a game high of 27 points. Glenn hit on 12 field goals and added three from the foul line. He was followed closely by teammates Mark Boroway and Denny Deiner with 24 and 20 points respectively. The latter also contributed 21 rebounds.

Eisenhower held an early 12 point lead in the first half when the Cubs went into a cold spell. This didn't last for long as they went on a wild spree hitting from all over the court. They finally tied the game when Mark Boroway hit from the charity stripe. This gave the Cubs a 42 to 36 halftime lead. From there on it was all downhill for Behrend.

The Cubs came out in the second half all fired up and blew the Generals right off the court. Led by their captain Glenn McKinney, the Cubs began to fast break the Eisenhower team. This simply destroyed them. Glenn hit for eight straight points right at the start and opened up a 50 to 36 lead. Each time the Generals tried to come back, Behrend would build an even bigger lead. Everyone started canning shots, and before the delighted crowd in Erie Hall knew exactly what happened, the Cubs went over the century mark for the first time this year. It happened when Ron Miller hit a 15 foot jumper from the side with 2:09 remaining.

Ten Cubs combined their scoring talents to pound out the season game high of 111 points. Behrend also dominated the rebounding department by a 56 to 44 margin. Turnovers weren't as numerous for the Cubs as they were for the Generals as they committed only 16 to Eisenhower's 26.

Cub Matmen Have a Good Show On Road

It's been a great week for the wrestlers, winning 2 of their three games. Tuesday, Carnegie-Mellon challenged us here at Behrend and we showed everyone just what our Cub grapplers are capable of. When asked what he thought of the match, Coach Onorato said: "We were great, we looked sharp, we went out on the mat, did what we wanted to do and they weren't able to stop us." He also said he had never been on the winning side of that kind of match and he felt kind of sorry for the other team knowing how they felt but he didn't want to trade places. The Cubs thus far have broken all previous records with the number of wins this season. From my point of view, all I can say is that match was the most exciting event I had ever seen.

As for the triangular match at Ryerson in Canada, it also turned out better than expected. It was the first time all of the Cubs had wrestled olympic freestyle except for Julio and it showed and hurt in a couple of matches. It was an interesting experience but all the matches were good; the draws, the wins and the losses. The coach said the guys were a little apprehensive at the onset of the match but with Jules and Keith both winning it helped build a lot of confidence. Coach Onorato stated that this match was interesting for several reasons but mostly because they were in a different country and using different style and rules. Additionally Ryerson Poly Tech Institute and University of Western Ontario are the two biggest schools we compete against. The atmosphere of the match was relaxed and informal and the other coaches even admitted we were better than they expected.

En Garde Fencers!

Fencing

Beginning next Wednesday evening February 21, at 8:30 p.m. fencing instruction will be offered for any men and women interested. Mr. Michel Small, who was an All-American fencer at Berkley in 1966 and 1967, will be giving instructions. Equipment is available at Erie Hall and anyone is welcome.

Baseball

There will be an important meeting on Wednesday, February 21 at 4:30 p.m. for all those interested in going out for varsity baseball in the Spring. The meeting will be held in the gymnasium in Erie Hall. If you want to play you must be present at the meeting. If for some good reason you cannot be there, contact Mr. Clarence Stover in Erie Hall and he will inform you on the matter.

It is also mandatory that anyone who wishes to participate in baseball must have a physical. All candidates are to report to the doctor on their own in a gradual basis. The doctor is at the Infirmary on Mondays and Thursdays from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Girls' Team is a Winner Again

Behrend's girls intercollegiate basketball hit upon their third win in a row last Monday, February 12. Leading the team to victory against Allegheny were high scorers Rhonda Carlson and Carole Hostettler.

Final foul shots by Chris Straub and Sue Cray assured the victory. Sue Denniston and Bonnie Angevine sparked the defensive play. At the half the score was Behrend 10, Allegheny 11, but the girls pulled ahead to win 31 to 25.

High scorers for Allegheny were Patsy Stover and B. Woodward.

The team will be on the road for the next game February 20 with Thiel College at Greenville.

Behrend's wrestling team shows pride with their coach Mr. Onorato having won two of their last three matches. The Cubs have broken all previous records with the number of wins this season.

Sat Nite Specials

Enthusiasm is something the Collegian feels Behrend students lack. Well, maybe in a personal response I can clear up some of the mystery by describing to the editor one of the biggest problems I have to cope with on this campus: Saturday nights.

By the time a weekend rolls around, let's face it, we all look forward to unwinding. Some of my friends turn on to pot, some sex, others alcohol. They're all illegal in one sense or the other but they're still an attempt on the part of the student to do something "exciting" or "special". Usually though, at least for myself, Saturday nights turn out to be frustrating evenings.

Take this past February 10 as an example. This one started out promising enough with a smashing basketball (RAH TEAM!) victory which very few attended—a prime example of student apathy. After a victory like that, it is just too difficult to spend the evening studying.

My scheming female mind calculated there had to be a victory celebration somewhere afterward and estimated my chances of being included uninvited were slim, but promising since I had the proper connections. Two hours later, cramped tightly into a room packed with melting snowmen instead of sweating athletes I watched "our" keg (still thawing from the ski slope) escorted from the room by Security. There'd be no basketball team victory party or riotous kegger tonight. In sheer desperation I toured the campus bundled to the point of perspiration and chomped my sober (I never got a drop of beer!) frustrations away on a bag of cookies that were kind enough to consent to accompany me.
