

Schweiker Seeks Re-election To the United States Senate

Washington-February 12—U.S. Senator Richard S. Schweiker (R-Pa.), 47, today formally announced his candidacy for re-election to the United States Senate.

The text of Schweiker's announcement statement follows:

I am today announcing my candidacy for re-election to the United States Senate from Pennsylvania.

This will not be a campaign of lofty promises or loose pledges. For I have found that talking is seldom a substitute for doing. Instead, I welcome a review by Pennsylvanians of the independent judgement I've tried to exercise in my first term—as the best measure of what a second term might bring.

In my own review of the past six years, I find some disappointments and some satisfying accomplishments.

First, three principal disappointments come to mind: Reform in campaign financing legislation, reform of Congressional spending procedures, and reform for pension security. There are many other areas where, in my opinion government is inadequately serving the people. But in each of these three areas the Congress knows what should be done, but has not done it. It is frustrating and discouraging.

But the satisfactions have far outweighed the disappointments. The Volunteer Army is in being and working. Black lung benefits are now being paid—and coal mine safety has been improved. Air-skyjacking has been dramatically reduced. The cost-cutting suggestion program for military servicemen and women has saved the taxpayers over $728,000,000. Funds to convert coal to natural gas and fuel oil have been doubled. A significant start has been made on research into serious diseases such as cancer, heart disease and diabetes. Our involvement in the Vietnam war is over.

I am proud to have had a role—sometimes big, sometimes small—in each of these and many other developments. I am grateful to the people of Pennsylvania for the chance they gave me to help.

Nothing has been more satisfying, though, than meeting the individual needs of Pennsylvanians trying to get their government to listen, to notice, to respond. And nothing has received higher attention in my office than helping people.

My campaign will try simply to make this record of six years available for public review and judgement. Otherwise as a candidate I will have only one objective: to conduct myself and my campaign with the integrity every private citizen has the right to expect of every public servant.

Richard Schweiker seeks re-election.

Poet To Visit Behrend

Oliver LaGrone, a sculptor, poet and educator, will be visiting Behrend March 18-22. This event is being sponsored by the Black Student Union.

LaGrone has had his poems, articles and reviews appear in such publications as the "Saturday Review", "Negro Digest", and the "New York Times Book Review." His poetry has been included in several anthologies. Currently, LaGrone is writing a book on African Art.

He has appeared before many groups in universities, colleges and high schools presenting lectures and exhibits relating to art, literature, Afro-American history and culture, and other areas in the humanities.

A graduate of the University of New Mexico, LaGrone attended the Cranbrook Art Academy and did graduate work in art and special education at Wayne State University.

Before LaGrone's appointment as special assistant to the vice president for Undergraduate Studies, he was a member of the Penn State Capitol Campus Faculty.

If any faculty member at Behrend would like to have Mr. LaGrone as guest lecturer, contact Ms. Cynthia Krishna before February 15 at the Student Affairs Office.

LaGrone's topics of discussion are: 1) The Odyssey of the Afro-American and his Art. 2) The Black Aesthetic. 3) Art as Communication. 4) Black Protest, Art, and Western Humanism. 5) History's Roots in Art. 6) Light From the Dark Continent. 7) Art, Slavery and Economic Kingdoms in the New World. 8) The Myths of the Negro Past and the Invisible Man. 9) What Happened to the Three-Dimensional Art of Africa 1507-1970. 10) Image Making in the Cultural Heritage of Peoples. 11) The Myth, Image and Symbol. 12) White Black Art in America.

Reminder From Security

The Safety and Security Department would like to remind all students wishing to register their automobiles for the coming spring term must have their registration stub with them upon registering.

A new system was initiated last term to make the process of registering one's car run smoother with less confusion. One stipulation was that one must keep his receipt of payment which was a ticket stub punched winter term.

The student is to bring this stub to registration for validation of his car permit and to receive new bumper stickers.

Editor's Opinions

University Park, Pa., February—Diane Nottle, the new editor of the Daily Collegian, the student newspaper at the Pennsylvania State University, has some interesting things to say about the campus mood these days.

Diane, who turned 19 in January, a few days before she was named one of the youngest editors in Collegian history, is at the forefront of the emergence of a new breed of student—the post-Vietnam campus opinion leader.

A junior, Diane is one of a few campus "veteran" VIPs who have spent an entire college career during "post-protest" days. As a college student, she has never seen a campus demonstration or disruption.

"I wouldn't call today's students apathetic at all," she says, disagreeing with many who claim students are becoming more cynical and withdrawn.

In fact, she thinks the students on campus today might be more "issue-oriented" and better informed than students were at the peak of the campus rebellion. And students are not flocking away from the "system."

"Students are trying to work within the system, though they are often unhappy about what the system does," she says.

Diane feels that students are concerned about their role in decision-making. The selection of a student as a nominee for appointment to the University Board of Trustees might be the major issue on campus, she thinks.

And for those who claim Watergate has "turned off" students to the government, Diane has this observation. She has found that Watergate has had a positive effect on students, heightening their interest in government and law.
