

In Memory Of JMF Theatre Callboard The First Daring Step

By Carolyn Brust

Ever walk past the Administration Building coming from Nick or Behrend Building and see a small building resembling a barn on your left? Ever wonder what goes on in that building? Well, for those of you who were here at Behrend before this year, maybe you have ventured toward this little barn and have even peeked in. Of course, the really ambitious people have even gone as far as buying tickets periodically to come inside and be entertained. Whether you are freshmen, sophomores, juniors, or even seniors, (yes, we do have a few here), I challenge you to take that daring step and visit the theatre, for that is what our barn really is. And this year, like every other, magic is coming to life on stage.

The Behrend Players, which is the name of our theatre organization, has returned and is shining as bright as the lights which illuminate our stage.

We are interested, dedicated people who love the theatre, and who want this art form to remain prominent at Behrend College.

What we are presently engaged in is a play called Story Theater composed of a number of short fables adapted from Aesop and Grimm Brothers Fables. The cast members include fresh, new faces who have never performed at Behrend before. The freshmen cast includes: Matthew Donovan, Jennifer George, Judy Hood, Janice Jackovitz, Kimberly Papay, and William Sturdevany, with Michele Mammana on lights.

Anyone interested in becoming involved with the technical aspect of the theater, such as painting the set, props, or costumes are welcome to stop by the theater Monday through Friday between 7:00 and 10:00 p.m. Even if you are curious as to what is going on, feel free to visit us. Fred Becker is directing the show and Carolyn Brust is assisting.

Paul Iddings, director and teacher at Behrend College was taken ill this summer and was unable to direct the first show of the year. The Behrend Players have therefore stepped in. However, without the talent and guidance of Mr. Iddings, we would never have been qualified to put this show on. We thank him and wish him a speedy recovery and since he will be back in Erie on September 16, we'd like to say "Welcome home, Paul."

Dates for Story Theater are October 7, 8, and 9 at 8:00 p.m. Doors open at 7:30. Tickets are available at the door or by calling 898-1511, ext. 331. Come see what the Behrend Players can do!

Alumn Discuss Careers

The topic of Careers in Business will be discussed by five Penn State-Behrend alumni at the weekly Career and Placement Workshop on Wednesday, October 12. The workshop will take place from noon until 1 p.m. in Room 117 Reed and all students, faculty, and staff are welcome.

Occupations that will be represented on October 12 will include: bank manager, personnel officer, computer systems analyst, certified public accountant and a cost accountant. This workshop will be extremely beneficial to all students whether they be freshmen or seniors.

Undecided students who are unsure about the various careers in business will have an opportunity to fully investigate five separate careers.

Business majors who have chosen a major but are not sure of what occupations correspond to their interests may question the five panel members as may seniors who might get some suggestions concerning the job market in the business world.

Interested students should plan to attend, "Careers In Business-Ask the Professional" on Wednesday, October 12.
