

Rifle team takes first place

by Lori Beals
Collegian Staff

For the second year in a row, the Behrend College Rifle team took first place in the Professor of Military Science (PMS) Rifle Match at Fort Indiantown Gap. Competing against several other Penn State campuses, Behrend took the winning slot with a score of 125 points out of a total of 150. Using M-16 rifles, the members shot at 30 silhouette targets and 10 tie-breaking targets. Members of the first team were, Rich Wills, Lori Beals, Adam Benson, Kirk Bentley, and Jeff Minchak.

After the main competition was over, the exhibition team shot and tied the score of Behrend's first team. The second team's members were, Kim Stefurak, Chris Martinic, Kim Audette, Ted Caldwell, and Tom Lippert.

When the match was complete, Rich Wills finished with a perfect score of 30, the second year in a row which he's done this, and again claimed the first place trophy. Adam Benson, who shot 28, beat a firer from Lockhaven with the scores from his tie-breaker targets, taking the third place trophy. Behrend's rifle Club has started a winning tradition, and with the experience gained from this year's match, it looks good for 1988. The final scores of the PMS match were: Behrend, 125; Lockhaven, 112; University Park, 111.

Edgar Allen Poe comes alive in Will Stutts

by Lynn Popovich
Collegian Staff Writer

If you are up for an evening of many talents then you will be most impressed with an appearance by Will Stutts. This amazing talent will be appearing in his own rendition of Edgar Allen Poe, April 30 at 8 p.m. His characterization is a genuine theatrical portrait showing the power of the live stage but is also presented with intelligence, respect and charm.

An actor of considerable talent, Stutts holds his audience spellbound with a warm, witty performance. He has met with resounding success in presenting these one-person characterizations. Stutts, whose career spans over 19-years, has appeared in both Broadway and off-Broadway productions. He also has been featured in television productions. Stutts attended Yale University's School of Drama and received his MFA in acting in 1972. Some of his productions include "Richard II" and "Night of the Iguana" with Richard Chamberlain.

Stutts has traveled in National Tours and Summer Stock in shows such as "The Little Foxes" and "Dracula," just to mention a few. His directing credits include a variety of productions. Originating his characterization of Edgar Allen Poe in 1973, Stutts' play has met with constant praise from critics and audiences alike. The play has been shown in more than ten states on major college campuses and under the direction of Cultural Arts Groups.

In California, Stutts was a founding member of the Los Angeles Shakespeare Company, where he served as Acting Artistic Director. He appeared NBC's Adam-12 series and CBS's Insight series. Stutts is a veteran of TV commercials and voice-over including exhibitions of the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Stutts originated his performance in one person plays in 1968, while still in undergraduate school. His characters included John Wilkes Booth, Clarence Darrow and Mark Twain. His performances come alive while his audiences sit struck with awe. One of the most consistently working actors in the entire country, Stutts continues travel some eight months each year performing from Maine to California. So, don't miss this night of excitement and fantasy as Will Stutts puts on a show of talent and uniqueness.

Ceremony welcomes new lieutenants

by Michelle Grasmick
Collegian Staff Writer

Commissioning of the MS-IV ROTC cadets will occur on the 16th of May, 1987 in the Reed lecture room at noon. During the commissioning ceremony, cadets John Pugliano, Geri-Lynn Falletta, Michael Wilcox, Sean Bliley, Ken Leshner, Thomas Milley, and Ralph Drayer will be awarded the rank of 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army after proving their leadership skills and dedication during their four years of college.

For these soon-to-be Lieutenants, this ceremony is both a beginning and ending of a chapter of their lives: they've reached their ultimate goal in ROTC and they're now prepared to serve their nation with honor and dedication around the world.

Upon their commissioning, these cadets accept a series of codes and military customs to guide them in their future endeavors as officers of the United States Army. These codes are essential in establishing the ideals of National Service and building the confidence of American citizens in the military.

Congratulations, on the behalf of Army ROTC, go out to those cadets who have reached this standard of excellence.
