

Don't panic!! There are doctors in the (farm)house

by Susanna Jalosky
Collegian Staff Writer

If you are struggling with a personal problem that you are unable to resolve, or if you simply need someone to talk to that isn't a relative or biased to your way of thinking, you should know that counseling is available to Behrend College students.

Personal Counseling is provided by Drs. Brenda Eastman and Louanne Barton. Both are here to provide a service to students and maintain confidentiality in whatever the counseling need. Some concerns which may bring a student to counseling are career choices, important decisions, family pressures, relationship problems, loneliness, depression, and personal struggles. These are just a few of the things that require counseling.

It isn't uncommon to encounter added stress during this crucial time in a student's life. Students are urged to take advantage of this opportunity and may do so by stopping in or making an appointment with a counselor. Their office is located in the Glenhill Farmhouse, room 213. Dr. Eastman is available Mon. and Fri. and Dr. Barton is available Tue., Wed., and Thurs. from 8:30 to 5:00. They can be reached at extension 6203.

Club report

by Dave Perich
Club Secretary

Hey Accounting majors - Have we got something for you!
The Behrend Accounting Club is looking forward to an interesting and eventful 1987-1988 session. Among some of the exciting events scheduled are: guest speakers from Erie area businesses such as the Lord Corporation, Hammernill Paper, Ernst and Whinney, and American Sterilizer Company; several plant tours; socials; and a golf outing or two. All those interested should attend our meetings scheduled to be held every Wednesday at 12 noon in the Reed Lecture Hall (R117).

Hope to see you there!

McGartland new instructor-advisor

"I'm very excited about advising the newspaper."

ly, she is an academic advisor for students.

Coming to Behrend from Allegheny College, where she taught part-time, McGartland earned her undergraduate degree in Gerontology from Penn State and her Masters in Fine Art from the University of Pittsburgh. She is an experienced advertising copywriter and business writer.

One of McGartland's interests is poetry. Currently trying to have some of her work published, she has received an Academy of American Poets prize. McGartland hopes to instruct a creative writing course in the future.

McGartland replaces Robert DiNicola as the Collegian advisor. She intends to bring in critiques, seminars and visiting journalists for the staff and to further strengthen the paper's business section.
