This Week In The SGA

This week's meeting of the Student Government Association was an extraordinary meeting indeed. President Terry Wimmer called the Senate meeting to order, portraying a sense of urgency. Patrice Nelson, that dedicated Secretary of the SGA, hurriedly passed out copies of the minutes of the previous meeting. It was so strange, that one wondered what was going to happen.

But nothing did happen. The SGA went through its weekly ritual of governing the student body of Capitol Campus. Wimmer, in a break from parliamentary procedure, began the business portion of the meeting with his personal announcements. Marlin Kohler, junior Senator representing the Math-Science Program, was formally dismissed from the Senate. Kohler had dropped below the grade-point average of 2.33 during the Winter Term. He was not dismissed prior to this week because he had grades on appeal, Wimmer explained.

Wimmer announced that Dr. Hartzler and Dr. Conover were named to fill Capitol's vacancies on the University Faculty Senate. Dr. J.H. Moore, Head of the Engineering Division, has submitted his resignation. He is reportedly going to Virginia Polytechnical Institute to assume a post similar to the one he held here at Capitol.

Wimmer plans to nominate three students to serve on the University Council at Main Campus. The students cannot be a member of the SGA and serve on the Council. They can, for example, be members of the Dean's Advisory Committee and still be eligible.

Mrs. James Jordan has agreed on the basis for a teaching award to be established in memoriam of her husband, Dr. Jordan, who was Chairman of the Faculty Council. The award will be presented as the senior class gift.

Procedures for Election — May 18, 1972

1. Juniors & seniors will be voting for executive officers and senior senators.

2. In the senatorial election:
a. Each student will be able to vote for two candidates; b. one vote must be cast for a candidate in the voter's curriculum; c. the other vote may be cast for any other candidate in any curriculum on the ballot.

Advertising: 1. signs; 2. newspaper; 3. radio.

The Teaching Award Committee will meet today at 11:30 in the SGA office to narrow the field of faculty down to nine candidates. Seniors will then choose among the remaining faculty as they vote during the General Election on May 18. Petitions of candidates for SGA officers must be submitted to the SGA office, W-104, no later than 5:00 p.m. on May 4.

The Finance Committee, chaired by Treasurer Dan Ekberg, reported that Mike Bauer and Don Lewis of the Social Committee would be reimbursed for travel expenses incurred during the past year. There was continual hassling over the budget of the XGI fraternity. It was finally allocated $350, most of which will be used to send delegates to a convention in Duluth, Minnesota next week.

The Human Awareness Committee was allocated $250 for Fertility Day activities. Sen. Neil Madonick moved that the location of the weekly SGA meetings be moved from the Main Building to the Student Center, basing his motion on participatory and ecological reasons. The motion was defeated due to lack of majority.

Organizational budgets for the 1972-73 academic year are requested to be submitted to the SGA in no more than two weeks. On Wednesday, May 3, there will be a meeting in E-202 to establish an ad-hoc committee of student advisors.

Faculty currently living in Meade Heights have been requested to find other housing facilities, it was reported. This was done to make room for the huge influx of new students expected to invade campus beginning in September with the Fall Term. At last report, four professors live in the Heights.

On that note, the Student Government Association abruptly adjourned.

Candidates must sign a letter of verification that he or she will be a full-time student for three months.

Petitions for executive and senior senator offices are now available in the S.G.A. office, W-104.

At-large-senators: 1 for every 200 students.

Petition deadline is 5:00 p.m., May 4.

Talent Show Big Success

by R. W. Bonaker

Capitol's Annual Talent Show, which was held last Wednesday and Thursday, was truly an entertainment achievement. Program coordinator, Carolyn Sims, did a remarkable job in lining up such wonderful talent.

Yet the Talent Show almost didn't happen. It was originally scheduled for dates near the end of the Winter Term, but was postponed because of lack of interest. But Carolyn ran around and came up with a wonderful program.

Masters of Ceremonies, Evon Golphin and Leroy Howe, kept the show moving with their humor and enlightening introductions. The acts were backed up by a competent combo which included Mark Chanin, Greg Garth, Dan Perini, Carolyn Sims, Eric Smith and Ken Norris. These people are not part of a regular group, but the audience could not tell that at all. That factor is attributable to the fine abilities of the group.

Eva Warren gave an adequate rendition of "Yesterday" to open the program. Chris and Linda sang two folk songs, which were well received by the audiences which packed the Auditorium for two nights. On Wednesday, Mark Channin, aided by interpretative dancers, played his original compositions on the piano, and sang a stirring "Haverton Blues".

Donald Hilliard and the Sweethearts of Soul sang "Close to You". Dan Perini played his original "Red Rain" on the guitar — portraying the different phases of rainfall. It was a classic. Jocelyn Combs, Jarian Reed, Barbara Rubin, Carolyn Sims and Eva Warren comprised a group of wonderfully exotic African Dancers, utilizing the full effects of the stage setting.

The Band played a few selections, the members displaying their versatility on the instruments. Lois Brockington belted out two soulful selections, electrifying the audience. Greg Garth, backed by members of the Sweethearts of Soul, sang an enjoyable "Never Can Say Good-bye".

Tom Ogden presented a mind-reading act during Thursday's performance. The chorale, Truth and Soul, highlighted the show with renditions of "People Make the World Go Round" and "Together, Let's Find Love". The show was capped by the stirring finale, "Try a Little Love" involving all performers.

It was truly a wonderful show. Thanks to all who participated or were in any way involved with the program. The show's success can be attributed to Carolyn Sims. Thank-you Carol.

"Let Your Voice Be Heard"

The Joint Committee on Student Affairs will conduct an open forum TODAY.

It will take place at 12:30 p.m. in the Auditorium. The session will be utilized to discuss the possibility of an open lunch period.

The Student Affairs Committee has recommended that such a program be established because it would give a greater stimulus to the cultural life of Capitol Campus.

All students, faculty and administration are invited to participate.

PSU Provost Nominations Set

University Park, Pa. -- Nominations to fill the position of Provost of The Pennsylvania State University should be in the hands of the advisory committee to recommend candidates by May 1, according to Dr. Donald R. Olson, professor of mechanical engineering and chairman of the committee.

Dr. Olson said the committee had received many excellent recommendations but that additional names were desirable. He pointed out that a relatively small number of recommendations had been received from students and that committee members would like additional suggestions.

University President John W. Oswald set up the advisory committee on March 6 to recommend to him candidates to fill the position of Provost on a permanent basis.

Nominations may be made to any member of the committee. In addition to Dr. Olson, members are: Dr. Charles N. Cofer, professor of psychology; Dr. Richard Craig, associate professor of plant breeding; Dr. Helen A. Guthrie, associate professor of foods and nutrition; Dr. Ronald J. Harshburger, assistant professor of mathematics, Beaver Campus; Dr. Thomas F. Magner, professor of Slavic languages and associate dean for research and graduate studies, College of the Liberal Arts; Dr. Robert E. Dunham, vice president for undergraduate studies; John D. Vairo, director, Delaware County Campus; and Dr. Thomas Wartik, dean, College of Science.

Student members of the committee, each of whom is a member of the Student Advisory Board, are: Steven R. Arkans, of Philadelphia, a senior at the University Park campus; John A. Casciotti, of Altoona, sophomore at the Altoona Campus; and Thomas G. Ingersoll, of Philadelphia, graduate student in political science at the University Park campus.
