DTK-On The Move

by R.W. Bonaker

Delta Tau Kappa, the international social science honor society, is among the more active campus organizations. That statement can be substantiated by a listing of the various activities which the society has sponsored in the initial weeks of the academic

During Orientation Week, President Gaye Miles organized the student to student advising program, which attempted to acclimate new juniors to campus life as wekk as giving technical instruction and other academic information. The group has continually assisted Drs. Kay Starkey and Jim Knestrick, who are serving as liason between Capitol Campus and the temporary flood relief community, Capitol Campus Village, located adjacent to the Main Building.

On October 2, DTK sponsored the appearance of an information session of the Indochina Peace Campaign as anti-war activists Ted Glick, Tom Hayden and Holly Near came to campus. On October 3, in conjunction with a local registration drive, DTK staged a Political Information Seminar. Ted Stellwag, representing President Richard Nixon and John Nikoloff, representing Senator George McGovern addressed a group of students. Each expounded upon the issues of the presidential campaign as viewed by their chosen candidate. DTK Vice-President (Programs) Elaine Parker organized the seminar. DTK is more than just an honor society. It is a group of young people working together to promote the interests of all students. The officers include: Gaye Miles, president; Elaine Parker. vice-president of programs; Gale Smyers, vice-president of membership; Fred Manas, treasurer; Brenda Spotts, secretary; Bob Bonaker, chairman of publicity.

Membership in the society is not restricted to Capitol students in the social science program. It is open to any student, including graduate students, who have at least a 3.0 grade average at Capitol and have had a minimal 20 credits in social science courses throughout their collegiate career.

On October 10, DTK held its initial formal meeting of the fall term. Future activities were planned and past programs were reviewed. At the meeting, it was reported that Brent Lawson has been appointed by Dr. Irwin Richman, Social Science Program Head, as student representative on the curriculum's policy-making body.

Future activities in the making include the set-up of a desk providing information about American POW's and MIA's in Indochina. The program is being coordinated by Gale Smyers. This week, donation cards for UNICEF will be distributed by the society. There will be a covered dish dinner for members on November 14 at 925 B Flickinger ST., in Meade Heights. Also in the works is a display of handicraft, art and literature created by mental health patients from Harrisburg State Hospital. The service project, upon approval from authorities from the hospital, will provide a sale of these goods, the proceeds going into a fund to provide increased monetary aid to these people.

DTK meetings are held every other Tuesday, beginning at 7:00 p.m. in the T.V. Lounge. The next meeting is cheduled for October 24.

The New Stages, the Capitol Campus drama club, is meeting these first weeks to decide upon a play for fall term production.

Acting president Tom Ogden told CAPITOLIST reporters that the consensus of the small group seems to be for a comedy, possibly a light musical or some Horowitz one-acts. Other possibilities include arena or geurilla theater.

Attempting to overcome such difficulties as limited stage facilities, no acting budget and a small initial turn-out, the New Stages plans to continue its tradition of turning out excellent theatrical experiences for the campus and the community. "The basic idea," commented Mr. Ogden, "is to plan for the entire year, to be prepared for the winter production by the time the fall production is finished."

The New Stages welcomes a new advisor this year, Dr. Jerry Berger, formerly an instructor in theater and religion at West Chester State College. Dr. Berger brings his considerable theater experience not only as a professor -- he will probably instruct Play Production during spring term - in the classroom but also may work as director to New Stages.

Any student wishing to join the New Stages drama group is encouraged to talk to Tom Ogden, 819B Weaver Ave., or to drop a note in the New Stages mail box in the Student Activities Office.

'Art for You' Show Staged

ART FOR YOU coordinating a second Central Pennsylvania Art and Craft Show at the Colonial Park Plaza. On display will be the work of leading painters, sculptors and craftsmen in the area. The Show will be held Friday, October 20 and Saturday the 21. Mrs. Richard H. Heindel, wife of the Dean of Faculty at Capitol, is one of the coordinators.

The Show will feature many demonstrations. Visitors can watch painters at work and even sit for a portrait if they wish. They can see craftsmen making candles, macrame belts, silver jewelry or working with many other exciting crafts.

Mrs. Stanley Miller, wife of Prof. Miller, Program Chairman in Education, will display all types of stitchery and twining. including silk embroidery, macrame and twine weaving.

ART FOR YOU, which put on a very successful show in the same location last May, aims to help promote an interest in art in the Harrisburg area and to bring art out of the city center into the suburbs. Mrs. Leonard J. Zimet and Mrs. Heindel, the two women behind the venture, believe that art is a better investment today than ever before and that there is an excitement in owning an original work of art, whether a painting or a beautifully crafted bowl.

Among the categories to be included are oils, water color, acrylic, pastel, drawing, sculpture, batik, hand-crafted leatherwork and jewelry, pottery, wood-carving, weaving, candle-making, macrame, stained glass, needlepoint and doll-making. Ribbons will be awarded for the best booth.

There is still time to obtain space at the show, and new artists and craftsmen are welcome. For information, call Mrs. Heindel at 545-3377 preferably in the morning or evening.
