ceremonies. Senator Cathy Brewington (Jr., at-large) was placed on probation for this term because her grade average fell below the Senate required 2.33. She must raise her average to that level by the spring term or face removal from office.

Senator Elyse Paul (Sr., at-large), Chairman of the Campus/Community Service Committee reported U.S. Senator Richard Schweiker has declined an invitation to be the featured speaker at Commencement, due to a prior engagement. The senior senators then selected Texas legislator Cissy Farenthold to be next invited. Dini and Sen. Paul were to meet with Provost McDermott on Tuesday to establish a budget for graduation activities.

The Chairman of the ad-hoc Committee on Student/Campus Academic Concerns, Bill Mathews (Jr., at-large) reported on a recent conference he held with Provost McDermott. According to Mathews, McDermott stated the campus name change will "be effected in the near future." As for changes in degree nomenclature, "Provost McDermott seems to think we would be wasting our time because there is no substantial proof that the present degree hinders graduates in obtaining a job. The subject has been rehashed and fought over repeatedly with no further settlement in sight. He thought it might be advisable to redirect our efforts," Mathews said.

Bernie Boyle mentioned that the campus Leadership Directory has been distributed, but errors or oversights occurred. An addendum is being prepared for publication.

Senator Michael Leasher (Jr., Social Science) reported he had talked to Mr. Dressler about keeping campus offices open to students by staggering the lunch hours. According to Leasher, Dressler pointed out it is not just a matter of keeping offices open during the noon hour but also during the evenings. Apparently, arrangements have been made for the Finance office to be open during lunch on Mondays and on Fridays for payroll checks. Leasher also reported the administration has planned to place tables in the lavatories on which to place schoolbooks. Leasher had originally pushed for the installation of permanent shelving, but the authorities rejected it because of the cost factor involved. A Senate motion to establish a coat-rack area in Vendorville passed by 13-1-4.

Dini then turned to an issue he called "a major priority," the publication of a general student directory. He noted that the Office of Student Affairs had supplied the information to the Academic Services Office in the expectation that office would print it. Academic Services did publish a 123 page directory, but Dini expressed the size and cost of printing nearly one thousand of them was to cumbersome. He expressed a desire for Student Affairs to publish a handy directory, like last year's of approximately eight pages. Dini thought Student Affairs had "passed the buck" when it turned the matter over to Academic Services. He believes the publication of the directory to be the duty of the Student Affairs Office in the strengthening of campus-communications. He then asked "Is Student Affairs really performing its mission?" when it failed to print a directory. The Senate passed a motion, by 19-1, requesting the Student Affairs Office to publish a student directory.
