WE OCCUPY SPACE?

To the Editor,

The following is a response to an article written by Bob Bonaker in last week's Capitolist. The article dealt on Mr. Paul and his role on the campus.

Lately the question of security personnel not having to obtain a search warrant in order to enter a house has caused some concern. Part of Mr. Dressler's response was that "students are not actually renting their houses. They are paying to occupy SPACE; a bed." Random House Dictionary defines space as "the unlimited or indefinitely great three-dimensional expanse in which all material objects are located and all events occur."

Is that what students are paying $180 a term for? If this article seems stupid, then Mr. Dressler's response was certainly not much better.

Students should be given intelligent answers to their questions and not un-academic answers such as the one noted above. I think that we deserve more consideration than we have been given.

Tutoring Directions

STUDENTS THAT ARE INTERESTED IN TUTORING DIRECTIONS TO ST. MICHAELS

From the main building go past the apartments and out the main gate until you reach Route 230. Head toward Middletown until you hit the first stop light at the bridge. Cross the bridge and keep to the right until you reach the gates to the base and from there you will be able to see it. The building is located on the corners of Ann and Chapel. REMEMBER, be there at 6 p.m. tonight.

Reflections on 'Combat Zone'

To the Editors:

I would like to commend Ms. Boswell on her article COMBAT ZONE in the CAPITOLIST of January 25. Her reporting of the change in Office of Student Affairs was an informative piece to the students at Capitol.

Since this is a free country in the voicing of opinions I feel that there should be some criticizing of her reporting.

As a reporter I believe there is an unwritten rule that the reporting should be done upon the fairest terms and that it should be unbiased. Ms. Boswell does attempt to demonstrate her rules of the game, but she did place terms which would lead the reader to believe that her article was a gossip sheet instead of an article for the newspaper. The main term that I believe was her error was "vibes." This word is an expression of emotions and a slight hint to gossip rather than facts.

Good reporting should be based upon both facts and a little insight; but when it turns to "vibes" than that is the end of good unbiased reporting. I am sure that the editor of the paper will back Ms. Boswell's opinion and reporting, but that still leaves me and any other student of Capitol Campus to express his/her opinions on any article or event that may have an influence to the campus community.

Graduates Find Job Market Improving

(CPS) -- College graduates may no longer be threatened with the possibility of unemployment which has faced them for the past several years.

According to a recent survey by the College Placement Council, a Pennsylvania-based nonprofit organization, employment of college graduates increased by 6 percent last year. It is the first time in three years that an upward trend has been noted.

The employers surveyed reported that 47,600 graduates were hired as compared to the 45,000 hired the previous year. In 1969-1970 there were 70,000 college graduates hired.

The survey found that the openings made most available to graduates were in merchandising, federal government, public accounting, banking, finance, insurance, chemicals and drugs, and state and local government.

The biggest percentage boosts in hiring activity were in research and consulting--88 percent, chemicals and drugs--52 percent, aerospace--43 percent, public accounting-- 37 percent, electrical machinery--32 percent, building materials and construction-- 27 percent.

Employment prospects for graduating engineers are getting brighter, says William M. Kays, dean of Stanford University's School of Engineering, and there may be a severe shortage of engineers by 1976, when demand may double the supply.

Kays noted that the publicity given engineering unemployment continues to affect enrollments across the U.S. To counter the effects of such publicity, the Stanford Engineering School, under Kays' direction, has begun a campaign to attract students to the profession.

CIVIL SERVICE REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT CAMPUS

A representative from the State Civil Service Commission will visit Capitol Campus, Tuesday, February 13, to alert graduates to state government employment possibilities.

Ken Strohm, job-counseling specialist from the Commission's recruitment office, will answer student's questions on State job requirements, starting salaries and career opportunities. Information about current examination programs will be available. Sessions will be held both morning and afternoon for students in the following curriculums: Business Administration, Elementary Education, Mathematical Science, Social Science, Masters of Business Administration and Public Administration.

To allow the representative more time to counsel students with career problems, the State civil service career examination will not be held on campus. In lieu of campus testing, a monthly schedule of examinations will be offered at fourteen statewide test centers. Students may make arrangements to take the test at the nearest test center.

Prospective graduates interested in state government opportunities may obtain information about the time and place of the SCSC recruitment presentation at the college placement office.

Sessions will be held in the Placement Office. Contact the office for interview times and room locations.

HOW TO BECOME A PSEUDO-HIPPY

— A QUICK, PAINLESS GUIDE TO SUCCESS —

PART IV: SMOKING PARLOUR ETIQUETTE

YOUR MOM ALWAYS TOLD YOU TO MIND YOUR MANNERS, RIGHT? WELL, THAT APPLIES TO THE HIPPIE PAST TIME OF SMOKING DOPE. THE GOOD PSEUDO-HIPPY NEVER ASKS TO SMOKE. INSTEAD, HE HINTS, "BOY, WOULD I LIKE TO GET STONED!" IF YOUR HOST DOES NOT REACT, YOU MIGHT ADD, "I'LL ROLL!"

"WHEN THE STUFF IS BROUGHT OUT, DON'T GRAB! RESTRAIN YOURSELF! OFFER TO LIGHT THE J FOR YOUR HOST. BUT BE CAREFUL NOT TO IGNITE ANY FOLIAGE!" IF YOU'RE SMOKING HARSH STUFF, DON'T SIT THERE KOFFING; GO GET A GLASS OF WATER. IF YOU'RE THE HOST AND YOU'VE GOT AN OBNOXIOUS GUEST, BRING OUT THE Z-TOKE STUFF (BUT DON'T TELL HIM). HE'LL BE OUT SOON ENUFF. IF YOUR HOST KEEPS OFFERING YOU THE Z-TOKES-&-YOU'RE-OUT DOPE, BETTER PICK UP A COPY OF E. POST'S "Marihuana & Manners!"
