by Bob Chaapel

On March 27, a federal district court in Washington, D.C. ordered the U.S. Office of Education to take a major step toward releasing $25 million in veterans cost-of-instruction funds -- the so-called "Cranston" amendment funds.

The court ruled that the Office of Education must publish regulations in the FEDERAL REGISTER no later than April 16, 1973. USOE was also ordered to accept applications from colleges, process them diligently, and approve those which are qualified, before June 30.

While the court did not rule specifically on the issue of release of funds, attorneys for the colleges feel that there is a strong implication that the funds will be released. The suit was filed in district court on behalf of the National Association of Collegiate Veterans, the Community College Section of the California School Boards Association, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Further court action will be taken if necessary.

At the present time both the House of Representatives and the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on the Labor-HEW Budget are reviewing the President's request that Congress repeal or rescind the $25 million that was appropriated last year for the veterans cost-of-instruction program.

While some observers feel that rescission of these funds is unlikely, it would behoove all veterans to write members of these appropriations subcommittees, urging them not to rescind these funds.

The Pennsylvania lawmaker on the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on the Labor-HEW Budget is listed below:

Richard S. Schweiker,
The U.S. Senate
Washington, D.C., 20510.

In the House of Representatives please direct your letter to:

Daniel J. Flood, Chairman,
Cannon House Office Bldg.
Room 108
Washington, D.C., 20510.

Both of these subcommittees will probably be acting very soon; let's everyone take a few minutes of our time and sixteen cents and make ourselves heard.

NOTE OF THE WEEK

Faculty Council Membership Expands

Last week, the faculty voted to expand the membership of its representative body, the Faculty Council, to nine faculty and three students. The tally was 52-25.

Dr. Thomas J. Knight, the present Council Chairman, said with more than two-thirds in approval, the amendment to the Council's constitution passed. Provost McDermott must grant approval before the measure is formally adopted, in compliance with the Council's Constitution.

Currently, seven faculty and two students are full voting members.

Council members have tentatively scheduled elections by mail ballot, the voting to end in the first week of May. Six seats will be up for grabs providing the Provost approves the amendment.

With Harman/Kardon, BSR and Shure Components

L.B.R. AUDIO'S BEST $331 STEREO VALUE

Individually, each of the components pictured is an outstanding sound-per-dollar value. Together, at LBR Audio, they make up an eminently satisfying stereo system of surprisingly modest cost.

The two-way H/K 20 loudspeakers are true acoustic suspension systems, whereby a small volume of air trapped in the compact cabinets controls the movement of the woofer cones for crisp and undistorted bass. Their bass performance is complemented by H/K tweeters noted for coloration-free mid-range and extended highs. The H/K 20's have been carefully designed so that they don't need an inordinate amount of amplifier power to get sufficient output.

The Harman/Kardon 330A AM FM stereo receiver delivers a clean and honest 22 watts RMS per channel, ideal for the H/K 20's modest power demands. The Harman/Kardon's sensitive AM FM tuner section will receive your favorite stations free of distortion and "hash" and there's ample flexibility for adding such niceties as stereo headphones, two speaker systems, and a tape deck.

In keeping with our goal of outstanding performance for modest cost, for this system we recommend the BSR 510/X automatic record changer. It will turn your records with rock-steady accuracy, and the Shure M-75C cartridge with diamond stylus treats them gently.

The individual selling prices of these components usually total $384.90. But at LBR Audio, we'll go this value one better and sell the complete system for only $331. That's a saving of $53.90. We invite you to stop by soon to listen -- and to save. Thank you.
