

Things to do

By John Bradford Langdon

To many Capitol students, our institution is merely an educational device devoid of social interactions, other than the inadequate substitute of Vendorville.

The processes of education, vending machines and the stark, efficient hallways exists, but there is more to become familiar with, other than the usual aspects of an educational plant. This column is intended to inform students, particularly, campus residents, that a variety of leisurely pursuits are available at Capitol Campus. - J.B.L.

Bicyclists can take a nice variety of rides in the Middletown area, some of which require very little time and even less effort. This discovery was made last spring when several friends (Tom Maioli, Ralph Labolito and Dave Wolfe) and I, took the cycling path to briefly escape the pressures of booking.

One of our most enjoyable rides took us along the Swatara Creek. We left campus from the dorms, and followed Route 230 through Middletown and swing left, just after crossing a bridge over the Swatara Creek. The Swatara Creek Road provides several miles of easy pedaling and little traffic.

Cruising along a route of your own choosing is one of the benefits of cycling. This is especially true when leaving campus and following Route 230. If you pedal to the outside of the Temporary Housing Project (the trailers), Middletown's residential area provides a quiet alternative to the trucks and speeding contunium of cars on Rt. 230.

Dave and I extended the Swatara Creek ride, by going east into Hummelstown, then headed south into the Hershey Estates and Hershey. Although a long ride, the Hershey area provides many opportunities for a cyclist to enjoy beautifully kept farmlands and suburban landscapes. However, tourists' cars are a hassle on the main road.

An area of particularly scenic surroundings is Mt. Chiques, which is ten miles south of Rt. 441 from the Middletown square. The view of the river valley at sunset and sunrise is really refreshing. A word of caution though, for there is about a 400 foot drop off the edge of the mountain.

Close to the campus are several enjoyable routes. A leisurely cycling pace can be found by taking Rosedale Avenue (at the Meade Heights entrance) and heading north toward Highspire. A few bits of farmland, a small creek and lightly traveled residential streets are at hand.

While on Rosedale Avenue, you'll see Stoner Drive, which is a right turn. Take it some day, because you'll really dig it. A taste of the country is again evident as you coast past the trees, fields and an occasional barn. Stoner Drive dead-ends into Rt. 441, near the Lower Swatara Fire Hall (home of the recent XGI Keggar). If you bear right on Rt. 441, the road will bring you right back into Middletown. However, turning around may be a lot more fun, since you can coast on Stoner Drive for a long distance.

Other possible rides could include a trek to Three Mile Island (south on Rt. 441), the site of a huge nuclear energy plant near completion; the Harrisburg International Airport and Elizabethtown (and beyond, on Rt. 230).

Distances for trips from the Residence Halls: (approx.)

To Swatara Creek - 2 1/2 miles, plus, however far you want to pedal.

To Hershey (along creek road) - 12 to 15 miles.

To Mt. Chiques - 18 - 19 miles.

Publicity Coordinators Named

Bill Fleisher and Wanda Burkholder have been selected as the Publicity Coordinators for the Presidents Council. As a result they are also Chairmen of the Public Relations Committee of the SGA.

Bill and Wanda's new duties will be to serve as a clearing house for publizing the events of all the student organizations on campus as well as events sponsored by the student association off campus. Along with this they aid in coordinating these events into a non-conflicting schedule.

The new Publicity Coordinators will be getting in touch with all the club Presidents this week. If anyone needs to get in touch with them call: Bill Fleisher - 944-3078; or Wanda Burkholder - 944-3012; or stop by in W-104.

Organizational Fair

An Organizational Fair is slated for Monday, October 22, 1973, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

The Fair will provide an opportunity for all Capitol Campus student organizations to announce their existence and purpose to new students. They will entice the students by means of various eye-catching displays, advertisements, promotions, and introductory offers.

Organization leaders will be recruiting new students to join their respective organizations. The students will be able to express their interests by participating in the clubs.

The diverse purposes of the organizations encompass campus communications which link the clubs and committees and the social and service organizations. Other students may wish to be a member of national institutes and societies. One may participate in the student government associations.

Students not yet involved with a campus organization, may they be juniors or seniors, should by this time have a feeling of where their interests lie. They will be able to discuss with, offer suggestions to, or ask questions of the organizational leaders who will be anxiously awaiting their valuable inputs.

A word of caution, however, to these students. Don't spread yourself too thin. It's better to concentrate you efforts in one organization than to work ineffectively for many.

The success of co-curricular activities at Capitol will depend heavily on the efforts of the organization leaders. This burden will fall on the new students and their involvement in all campus organizations.

Organization leaders desiring more information can contact Michael Leasher via his mailbox in the Student Government Office (W-104).
