

THE LOVE OF CHRISTMAS PAST

by Romeo Trajanus

The Yuletide is near,
Yet loneliness is all I hear
Ten long years it's been, I fear,
Since I held the one I loved so dear.

Her hair I see now as then
Chestnut brown, snowflake jeweled,
soft as the downied wren.
She I loved forever, but only then,
We loved together, but never again.

The years fall away, and still I see
All the love, the warmth she held for me.
How we longed to be together, forever free,
For me to know her, and she me.

Ne'er shall I forget those days of roses and wine,
When I was hers, and she was mine.
Though those days are gone, dead as an ivy vine,
I'm still hers, as we love in my mind...
God, the time has passed, and she'll never again be mine.
