

Letters To The Editor

Penn State Institute Of Technology

Yes, I think that a change of name would definitely be suited for this corporation. If you ask why I think it is necessary, it's why not?

The reason, we were led to believe, we attend here or nearly any other college is to gain a higher education, but the emphasis is on jobs and higher wages when we graduate. How nice of them to assume everyone wants to work. Sure a lot is up to the individual but the atmosphere doesn't exactly help.

Being a member of this organization, sorry I slipped, I mean a student of this college, the prices of just about anything is beyond my financial abilities.

It's bad enough that we get ripped off by the education system that shows you what you don't know, instead of helping you gain knowledge. They continuously raise tuition every year among other things, that being the prices of books. You may find out that you can afford to sign up for a class, but not be able to afford the books required for the course. Also if you get hungry-look out! At the price of two hot dogs down in Vendorville you could go to Pantry Pride and buy one package of them for less and that goes for just about everything else.

They forgot that we are paying students, with no jobs, most of us are paying on loans, grants and whatever we can get, yet sometimes you hear a student say that you lose your rights and identity attending P.S.U., Bull Shit?
