

I.A.A. Psyched For Spring

By Michael Barnett Staff Writer

The international Affairs Association under the guidance of President Gregory Miely and advisor Clem Gilpin is currently recruiting new members for the fascinating activities being planned. The International Affairs Association, or I.A.A., was founded to present a forum for issues of international significance, to acquaint members with diverse cultures of the world, and to provide contacts with international organizations, businesses and other concerns. Also, to instill its purpose as an awareness of the global community so essential to the peace and prosperity of all peoples.

The I.A.A. does not restrict itself to any one field, but strives to include people from all areas of interest--business, education, engineering, as well as political and social.

Early in November, the I.A.A. sponsored an international luncheon which was so successful that a spring international luncheon is being planned.

The Penn State Capitol Campus in conjunction with the United Nations Association of Harrisburg will be holding the fourth Model United Nations on February 26, 27, 28, starting at 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, February 26.

And this year all secondary schools in Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, Cumberland and Perry counties are invited to participate, with each high school being invited to sponsor at least one delegation. However, additional delegations may be sent.

Each delegation is composed of three students, each of whom has a committee assignment while the entire delegation participates in the General Assembly. There are three committees: Political and Security Committee; the Social, Cultural and Humanities Committee; and the Economic and Financial Committee.

Other anticipated events include an international film festival, a folk dance, additional speakers on a variety of international topics and the 1976 National Model United Nations.

The National United Nations is an annual event held in New York City which brings together student ambassadors from colleges and universities all over the country.

In order to make Capitol Campus Model United Nations and other IAA activities successful, new people are urgently needed. People who have been involved in debates, public speaking, and Youth in Government as well as anyone interested in assisting with the evaluation and reproduction of resolutions are most welcome to join.

Attention!!! New Capitol Campus students! The C.C. Reader is looking for people to fill the following positions: Staff writers, editorial workers, photographers, graphic artists, resident crazies, advertising salesmen and assorted bozos.

Come in during our office hours 4th, 5th or 6th periods on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Or call 944-4970.

Resolutions and Revelations

By Ray Martin Staff Writer

For the benefit of those of you who feel guilty about not being able to keep New Year resolutions, I offer some replacements which should be remarkably easy to keep:

- Resolve not to do Idi Amin impressions within ear shot of Idi Amin.
- Resolve not to open a chain of kosher delicatessens in Damascus, Syria.
- Resolve not to believe in Santa Claus, the Tooth Fairy, the Republican party, the United Nations or Yazoo, Mississippi.
- Resolve not to read the new book "The Rise and Falls of Gerald R. Ford."

Meanwhile, in Washington, the media office of the Ford campaign staff was burglarized. While nothing was taken, rumor has it that Jack Anderson will publish, in the next few weeks, the following startling revelations:

- A plan by the Ford media staff to hire 'Squeaky' Fromme, Sarah Moore and Patty Hearst to tape TV testimonials on what a great president Ronald Reagan would be.
- A plan to hire the Cambodian government to hijack another American ship a week before the Republican convention. And, if that works, again in the last week of October.
- A plan to have the 'Bonzo' movie series released. It co-stars Ronald Reagan under a chimp. The chimp is the better actor by far.

Finally, from the 'Play it again Sam' department, a Washington, D.C. police officer named George Washington recently arrested-- on a narcotic violation-- a man named Richard Nixon. Officer Washington's partner is Benjamin Franklin.

Pa. Bicentennial Projects Slated

By Eric Siggins

Penn State's Bicentennial Commission is planning five projects this year to mark the nation's 200th birthday.

According to the group's chairman, Stanley Ikenberry, the most ambitious project will be the production of an opera, "Be Glad Then America." The show will include the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra conducted by Sarah Caldwell with professional singers and members of the University Choir and the PennState Theatre. Pulitzer prize-winning composer John La Montaine has been commissioned to write the opera, which is scheduled to premiere Feb. 6.

The other projects planned include a commemorative book concerning life 200 years ago in Pennsylvania. Topics covered will be the economy, religion, family life, and the like during that time.

A third project is "Then, Now, and Tomorrow", consisting of town meetings in 1,000 small communities across Pennsylvania.

A small chamber music group will play samples of American music during the Revolutionary period as a fourth project of the Bicentennial Commission. This concert will be held in March.

The fifth project will be an Art Museum exhibit, "200 Years of American Portraiture," including about 60 outstanding portraits of the last 200 years.
