

Yearbook Doomed No Staff

nearly enough to warrant a staff."

Already some significant events have been missed, for example, orientation, Stone Valley, soccer games, exhibits in the Gallery Lounge, it is time they get started", said Dorfman.

Startling as it may seem, there is an excellent chance that there may not be a yearbook, if there is not enough student concern shown. Apathy and disinterest are standard adjectives used to describe student participation in activities that require more involvement or exertion than partying.

Based on precedent it is useless to preach a need for student enthusiasm or accomplishment. Perhaps, a direct appeal for help is necessary. Now is not a time to sit back and watch others do the work for the majority.

Both Capitollite's desperately need students to serve as photographers, writers, layout and advertising staff, and business students for accounting and bookkeeping.

No one could have put it more adequately than Mark Dorfman when he exclaimed, "I hope it comes off!" So do we.

Please contact immediately either Roberta McLeod, Student Affairs Office, or Mark Dorfman, W-161.

Free University

Teachers for these courses work on a voluntary basis. The organizers hope that faculty, students, and the community will get involved.

In an interview with Ms. Nestor, she expressed the hope that people will take advantage of the courses, not only to learn, but also if they desire to teach one of the classes they should leave their name at the SGA office.

Further information about Free University is available in the SGA office, W-110, or from Professor Blumberg, E-356.

Inspection!

Jim Paul, chief of the campus Security Police wants to take this opportunity to remind all drivers of motor vehicles bearing a Yellow # 1, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Inspection Sticker, that it is drawing on to that time when you are going to be required to have your new inspection sticker affixed to your motor vehicle. October is your last month of grace, and as of October 30, 1976, you are obligated to have your new number three sticker displayed to avoid a citation for operating on an expired inspection sticker.

Interview With... Bud Smitley

The Director Of Recreation And Athletics
By Diane Lewis

The man behind the recreation program at Capitol Campus is Ruben "Bud" Smitley, Coordinator of Athletics and Recreation.

A native of Southwestern Pennsylvania, he majored in Parks and Recreation at Penn State and worked in community recreation for 13 years before coming to Capitol four years ago. Mr. Smitley likes the relaxed community atmosphere of Capitol Campus.

Mr. Smitley is married and has two children. He spends much of his free time outdoors. Besides his interest in all sports he likes to garden. His vegetable garden produces much more than his family can use. He says he gets enjoyment from giving the excess to friends and members of a senior citizens group with whom his wife works.

Mr. Smitley is continuing his education here at Capitol. He feels that continuing education and physical fitness work together to keep you young, mentally and physically.

Mr. Smitley's commitment to athletics is just not a job, but a personal philosophy which is contagious. An avid runner, he can be seen jogging around the campus daily. He says he began running about three years ago to keep in shape and found that once you get past the two mile mark running becomes not only enjoyable but meditative as well. A lover of competition, he has run competitive meets in the 10 mile and marathon events.

He advocates running for everyone because if started early in life can be continued "forever". And it doesn't take much time from a busy schedule ("everyone wastes at least a half hour a day") which could be used to gain the physical and emotional benefits of running.

Mr Smitley is very interested in promoting lifetime sports for everyone. Towards this end he was a member of the committee which worked to set up the Pennsylvania Physical Fitness Council. The council, modeled after the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, is being organized to localize physical fitness awareness and opportunities for all Pennsylvanians.

Talking about Capitol Campus and the place of athletics in the overall program, Mr. Smitley says his aim is to provide something for everyone. He is looking forward to the completion of the Multi-Purpose Building which he feels will give permanence to the campus. He says that it will also help the athletics program by centrally locating facilities within easy access of the students.

Talking about the varsity athletic program, Mr. Smitley says it has been hampered because often good athletes can not participate in their sport because the schedule interferes with their classes.

He says that he realizes the nature of Capitol Campus as a two year facility does not allow a lot of flexibility in scheduling and that academics are the number one concern here. Still he feels some arrangement could be made for athletes to make up time lost from class when they are participating in one of the varsity sports.

Giving the student a chance to do something he likes could have a positive effect on his class work. Mr Smitley admits that he hasn't brought this matter up to the Faculty Council as yet because he hoped for it to be an individual matter between deserving conscientious students and their professors.

WZAP In Limbo

By John Leierzapf

Regroup, refurbish, repair, redesign. This is what the Capitol radio station, WZAP, will be attempting to do this year, and it needs your help.

WZAP uses a free form program format. That is, each DJ is free to do his or her thing within limits of good taste and N.A.B. and F.C.C. requirements. If you think this is your thing, let someone in the station know about it. This is your golden opportunity; don't pass it up.

WZAP also needs people to write commercials, do production work, keep the record albums in order, solicit advertising, keep the equipment running and working with the WZAP record store. Again, if this fits your interests, don't pass it up.

WZAP is in a state of limbo at present because of a proposed move to another location when the new athletic building is completed. Several possible locations are now being studied. The existing Recreation Athletics Building is receiving most of the attention because of its floor design and high ceilings. As the athletic department moves to the new building, WZAP hopes to move into the vacated space.

During the interim period, WZAP officers want to repair as much of the equipment as possible. The next few months will be extremely busy as the station regroups to move and yet maintains normal operations. To do this, it needs your help.

Think about it. This is your chance to help an organization through a period of change and get in on the ground floor for next year. Don't pass it up. Get involved.

Fenderbender Returns Startrick III

By Raymond T. Martin

Space...The final frontier, these are the voyages of the Star Ship Fenderbender. It's five year mission to explore strange new world's, to seek out new life and new civilizations, and to phaser the shit out of anything that gets in its way.

Captains Log: Stardate 760271301.37. The Fenderbender continues to search for the latest addition to Star Fleet, the U.S.S. Centerfold which was lost sometime ago. Events conspired to have us hanging around in space surrounded by four Klingon cruisers ready to turn us into souvenir dust just in time for the next Trekkies Convention. This is another fine mess you've gotten me into Shlock.

Scene: Bridge

Capt. James T. Jerk: Our Father who art in Heaven...

Mr. Shlock: Captain, I believe, I have a more constructive suggestion.

Capt: Such as?

Shlock: The same maneuver that has gotten us out of this the last 46 times we've gotten in it. Shut down all power systems and lie dead in space when the Klingons close in to capture the ship, we destroy them and then sortie out of here.

Capt: Nice plan Shlock, but what makes you think it's going to work?

Will Shlock's plan work? Read next week's issue and find out!
